NY Central And Pennsy OK Merger

$5.4 Billion Assets Promise To Stir Fight In Congress

NEW YORK (AP) — The high-ball sign went up today for merging the giant Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads into a 20,300-mile, $5.4-billion assets Goliath.

Carrying an "economic necessity" label, the plan dramatized creeping financial ills that threaten major rail, air, highway and water segments of the country's transportation system, a $100-billion yearly industry.

It promised to stir sharp debate in Congress, local governments, federal regulatory agencies, and among shippers, as well as within the industry itself.

Within hours of the plan's approval Friday at separate meetings of the Pennsy and Central boards, it was assailed by 20 railway labor unions as "catastrophic . . . in its potential effects."

The railway brotherhoods fear especially elimination of jobs, one of the means by which the merging companies would hope to pare expenses and shore up faltering earnings.

Between them, the Pennsy and Central have about 120,000 employes.

Latest published figures, covering the first 11 months of 1961, showed the Central nearly $16 million and the Pennsy $2.7 million in the red, although the Pennsy may have finished the year in the black.

Aside from the brotherhoods, opposition to the proposed union was possible from the Justice Department, concerned with monopoly questions; from shippers; and perhaps from competing railroads.

John E. Kusik, Chesapeake & Ohio senior vice president, speaking in the absence of President Walter J. Tuohy, said the merger announcement was an "interesting development" and one that "could mean that our own application for control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will be expedited."

The Justice Department last Fall strongly criticized a pending merger plan of the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line Railroads, one of about a dozen now under review by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Pennsylvania and the Central said they hoped to file a formal application to join in a new Pennsylvania-New York Central Transportation Co. within 30 days.

Stockholders of the two roads will be asked for their approval at annual meetings scheduled for next May.

Financial specialists have estimated that elimination of duplicating track, yards, terminals and other facilities, coupled with operating economies might in time yield savings of from $100 million to $150 million a year in a Pennsy-Central consolidation. However, the boards said Friday an exact amount has not been determined.

Navy Plane Carrying 12 Is Missing

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—A U.S. Navy P2V Neptune plane with 12 crewmen aboard was reported overdue today from a patrol over the Greenland Icecap.

U.S. Navy and Air Force planes joined Icelandic Coast Guard ships in an intensive air and sea search for the missing plane. The search, concentrated in the Denmark Strait area between Iceland and Greenland, was hampered by heavy weather.

The plane took off this morning from Keflavik airport, on the northwest tip of Iceland, and was last spotted on radar 270 miles northwest of Keflavik, near the coast of Greenland. The icecap extends three-fourths of the way from Greenland to Iceland.

Cloud ceilings were reported under 200 feet, visibility down to an eighth of a mile and winds up to 60 knots. At this time of year there are only about four hours of daylight to conduct a search.

Ohio's Judge Herbert Critical After Stroke

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Judge Thomas J. Herbert of the Ohio Supreme Court was in critical condition in Grant Hospital today after suffering a stroke in his automobile late Friday.

Hospital authorities this morning reported Judge Herbert "on the danger list."

The judge had a previous stroke about 10 months ago.

Auto Crash Fatal To Ernie Kovacs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ernie Kovacs, cigar-chomping comedian who rose to fame in five brief years, was killed early today when his station wagon skidded on wet pavement and smashed into a utility pole.

The 42-year-old Kovacs, reportedly on his way home alone from a party in honor of Mrs. Milton Berle, was half thrown from his car, police said.

The smashup occurred shortly before 2 a.m. on Santa Monica Boulevard in West Los Angeles.

Associates said Kovacs had spent the evening at the home of director Billy Wilder, his closest Hollywood friend.

He was the husband of actress Edie Adams, with whom he lived in a 17-room Coldwater Canyon home filled with collections of armor, antique lamps, first editions, carvings and statuary.

They said Kovacs and his blond singing star wife both had attended the party, a baby shower for Berle's wife. Miss Adams had left the party in her own car shortly before Kovacs.

The Wilders heard about the crash on the radio shortly after the comedian had left their home and they rushed to his house to tell Miss Adams. She collapsed on hearing the news and was placed under a doctor's care, informed sources said.

Royal Laos Government Dims Parley

Won't Give Up 2 Key Cabinet Posts In Coalition Plan

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The royal Laotian government today dimmed prospects of success for the Geneva conference of rival Laotian princes. The government declared it would never give up two key cabinet posts in a proposed coalition government of national unity.

On the eve of Premier Prince Boun Oum's departure for Geneva, a cabinet spokesman said the royal government "will never yield" the defense and interior ministry posts to neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma's faction. It fears they would soon fall under the influence of Souvanna's half-brother and pro-Communist ally, Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Pathet Loa.

Boun Oum has resisted strong pressures from the United States and its Western Allies to get together with the two other princes. The dispute over cabinet assignments broke up the carefully prepared Vientiane summit conference last month.

The United States subsequently suspended its economic aid to Laos. Without explanation, the aid was restored Friday—48 hours after Boun Oum agreed to fly to Geneva for a new Laotian summit meeting.

Boun Oum, however, showed no sign of backing down. He informed the National Assembly that he would tell Souvanna that the neutralist leader had failed in his efforts to form a coalition government and should give up trying.

King Savang Vathana assigned Souvanna to the job of trying to work out a government with the approval of the other two princes.

Severe Cold Plunges Into South Again

Citrus Crop Loss To Total Millions From Record Cold

By The Associated Press

Severe cold knifed deep into the South again early today, dealing hard-hit citrus and vegetable growers in Texas and Florida another economic blow.

Losses from the record-breaking cold, which has held an icy grip on the Deep South since Tuesday, total millions of dollars. Citrus crop damage in the lower Rio Grande Valley alone has been placed at $19 million.

The storm, the most severe of the winter and one of the worst in many years, has been blamed for more than 150 deaths across the nation.

Although temperatures were less severe Friday in an area stretching from Arizona to the mid-Atlantic Coast, the Weather Bureau warned of a new storm brewing in the Rockies. It posted heavy snow warnings for Nebraska and Kansas and said the storm would sweep across the Central Plains toward the northern Great Lakes over the weekend.

The continued severe cold in the South probably won't inflict much additional damage on fruit and vegetable crops because they were ruined in much of the area by the first night of subfreezing temperatures. But it would be harmful to citrus groves.

Citrus trees were reported splitting from the cold in southern Texas where a 1951 freeze destroyed an estimated 12-million trees. Readings early today included 29 at Corpus Christi, 25 at Ellis and 26 at Houston.

Low readings in Florida included 24 at Gainesville, 33 in Tampa and 25 at Jacksonville, which was hit by freezing rain Friday. The ice froze birds to the trees in the usually sunny city.

Weekend Weather To Be Sunny, Mild

The Ohio weatherman said the mercury may range as high as 28 to 34 today under sunny skies and tonight's low will be only 18 to 24 degrees. Sunday will be warmer.

Light snow had been forecast for Friday night but there was none and the only precipitation in sight is a chance of a few flurries tomorrow afternoon.

Order Given For Arrest Of Gizenga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The central Congolese government today ordered the immediate arrest of Lumumbist leader Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville.

After a tense session, the cabinet agreed to give Stanleyville Army Commander Gen. Victor Lundula a free hand to take all necessary measures to prevent further defiance from the one-time rebel leader.

The government agreed to seek U.N. assistance in preventing Gizenga from escaping into the bush, if this is found to be necessary.

Authoritative government sources said the cabinet's decision was triggered by a new military clash in Stanleyville this morning in which Gizenga tried to order the company of soldiers remaining loyal to him to arrest Lundula.

Lundula's superior forces protected their chief, the sources said, but did not press their advantage at that time because the goverment had not given authorization to take the drastic step of arresting Gizenga, who still holds rank as deputy prime minister in the Leopoldville regime.

Lundula has taken four of Gizenga's aides into custody, but has hesitated to move against the Lumumbist leader himself because legally Gizenga is protected by the constitutional immunity from arrest accorded to all members of parliment.

There was no immediate word here as to how soon Lundula might act on the government's decision, but the town of Stanleyville has been in constant military alert for several days now, and a showdown could come this afternoon.

Gizenga is reported to have asked U.N. protection against the forces of Lundula.

U.N. headquarters, however, claimed to have no knowledge of such a request. It seems certain the United Nations will give full cooperation to the central government and Parliament in their strong bid to deal with Gizenga, who once claimed to be the late Premier Patrice Lumumba's rightful successor and won Communist support.

The Cabinet's action followed prolonged attempts by individual ministers and Parliament to bring Gizenga back to Leopoldville peaceably.

Since last October the Lumumbist heir has defied the Leopoldville government, choosing to stay isolated in Stanleyville. Friday a censure motion against him was introduced in Parliament. It probably will come up for vote Monday.

Today's Cabinet decision was unanimous, informants said, and included votes of many ministers who once supported Gizenga.

According to reports from Stanleyville, Gizenga tried to leave town this morning but Lundula's troops prevented his departure.

A GAPING HOLE was left in the side of this Hanoverton tavern when a car crashed through it early this morning and killed a patron. Two spectators are shown pulling back the canvass to view the damage. There were about 14 to 16 inside at the time and three were hurt.

6 Car Thefts, 3 Burglaries Seen Cleared

Arrest Of One Boy Implicates 2 More In City Crime Wave

Six auto thefts and three burglaries, including two city auto agencies and Beaver Local elementary school, were cleared up early today after a 15-year-old city youth nabbed by deputy sheriffs Friday night in a stolen car on the Y. & O. Rd., implicated another 15-year-old youngster and a 17-year-old from suburban East Liverpool, police said today.

Interrogated by police, the trio denied the thefts of four other cars reported to police since the first of the year, officers said.

All three were being held in the detention room at City Hall pending a hearing with their parents before Juvenile Officer Chris Pusey.

The story started when Patrolman Paul Burson Jr., desk officer, heard Deputies Herman (Cy) Wellman and Ronald Gause notifying the Lisbon office by radio they were chasing a car stolen late Friday afternoon in East Liverpool on the Y. & O. Rd. near Glenmoor.

Officer Burson immediately notified Patrolman C. E. (Bill) Tice and Kent Garvey in one cruiser and Patrolman Jerry Adkins in another and four officers used three private cars to join in the search, planning to block entrances into East Liverpool from Lisbon St., Dresden Ave., St. Clair Ave. and Pennsylvania Ave.

Cactus Bar's 'Slots' Cost Fine Of $200

Two officers confiscated four slot machines in a backroom of the Cactus Bar on State Route 30 near Chester, and cited a waitress on a charge of exhibiting gaming devices.

Beatrice Hughes of Hookstown R.D. 1 pleaded guilty to the charge filed at 11:30 by Cpl. C. W. Tighe of the Weirton Barracks and Trooper W. A. Steffick of the Wellsburg detachment.

Cpl. Tighe said the citation was issued on an open violation after he and the other officer spotted the "one-armed bandits" in a room adjacent to the barroom of the oft-raided tavern.

The woman signed a waiver of destruction, allowing State Police to dispose of the machines by burning, Cpl. Tighe said today.

Moose Lodge Burglary Is Surprise To 6

It was hard to tell who was the most surprised when burglars broke into the Moose Club, 125 E. 3rd St. early this morning — the would-be robbers or two couples waiting to close the clubrooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Allison, 301 E. 3rd St., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed, 523 Carolina Ave., Chester, were seated at a table at the rear of the clubroom waiting for the custodian, George Simms, 2026 Ohio Ave., to finish cleaning so they could lock up, police were told.

They heard a noise, looked up and saw the stranger standing in the doorway.

The would-be burglar yelled to someone behind him and then fled through a hallway and out a rear door, the two couples told officers. No one gave chase.

Police were notified immediately but were unable to find any trace of the men.

Officers said the burglars used a steel bar to pry open a rear door which leads down a pair of steps to a second door. The burglars also pried it open and gained entrance to a hallway and a third door, which was unlocked.

4 Of Hancock Indicted File Innocent Plea

Dismissal Of 'Blue Law' Case Asked By Weirton Retailer

Two city men were among four who pleaded innocent to indictments when arraigned Friday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland. The Grand Jury reported Tuesday.

Two others pleaded guilty and a motion was entered for dismissal of three "Blue Laws" charges against a Weirton store operator for doing business on the Sabbath.

Edward Keener, 37, of 1041½ Riverview St., pleaded innocent to a charge of felonious assault with a hammer on Vera Guerco of Georgetown Nov. 11 while on Route 30 near Chester.

Trial for Keener was set March 1 at 9:30 a.m. by Judge Ralph E. Pryor.

Kenneth Edward Broadbent, 21, of 229 W. 4th St., also pleaded innocent to a charge that he burned his 1959 auto Nov. 10 in Chester with intent to defraud an insurance firm.

Judge Pryor then sentenced Broadbent to a year in County Jail but delayed commitment pending a petition for probation. Judge Pryor will rule on the probation request Jan. 26 at 9:30 a.m.

Doris Taylor, 19, of Weirton pleaded innocent to felonious assault on Jerry Jeter of Weirton Oct. 26.

However, the court allowed her to plead guilty to a lesser charge of simple assault after an investigation by sheriff's deputies.

Starling Taylor, 18, of Weirton, indicted in connection with the same incident, also was permitted to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Judge Pryor set sentencing for each on Jan. 26 at 11 a.m.

Henry Taylor Jr., 21, of Weirton, named in a similar indictment, pleaded guilty to felonious assault. Judge Pryor set Jan. 26 at 11 a.m. for sentencing and a hearing on a request for probation.

Charles Conaway, 39, of Martins Ferry, named in five counts of fraud through forged checks and forgery, pleaded guilty to two indictments of uttering forged checks and the court nolled the other three.

Judge Pryor set Jan. 26 at 11 a.m. for sentencing of Conaway, whose record began with an AWOL charge in 1944 and includes jail escapes, court was told. A petition for probation will be filed.

DRIVE TO STAY ALIVE

HANOVERTON — A tavern patron was killed in a freak traffic accident early this morning when a car crashed through the side of the Midway Restaurant and three others in the bar and the driver of the car were seriously injured.

Earl McIntosh, 45, of Hanoverton R.D. 1 was killed instantly when crushed against the bar by the car driven by Wayne Hillyer, 32, of Hanoverton, which plunged through the side of the wooden structure at 12:40 a.m.

Police Chief Donald Sheen and Patrolman Roy Painter said Hillyer lost control of his 1956 sedan on a level, straight stretch of highway, crashed through four small brick walls and across the lawn of the Farmers National Bank before bulldozing into the tavern at the intersection of Routes 9 and 30.

This was the first traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year. None had been killed at this date in 1961.

Hillyer apparently was traveling at a very high rate of speed, police said. The tavern is less than a block from his home.

The car tore through the two-foot high brick walls near the bank and went completely inside the tavern. Damage to the building was estimated at $5,000.

Mrs. McIntosh, who suffered internal injuries, also was pinned against the bar. She is in "critical" condition today at Salem Central Clinic.

Police said there were 14 to 16 persons in the building at the time.

Carl Weber of Dungannon, also seated at the bar, was knocked from a stool to the floor. He also was taken to the hospital and is in "fair" condition.

Mrs. Annabelle Hohider, co-owner of the tavern with her husband, Charles Hohider, was behind the bar at the time. The entire bar was shoved against her and she was pinned against a back wall. She is in "fair" condition. Her husband was unhurt.

A Lisbon woman and her husband also were seated at the bar. The woman was hospitalized but the man was apparently knocked clear and not hurt badly.

Police said the entire bar area, one side of the building and the cooling system were demolished.

Police said the master switches in the building were pulled to prevent a fire from an electric spark.

Chester Man To Seek Post

J. S. Duffy To Ask Mayor Nomination

The Chester mayor's race now lists two ex-mayors among the candidates seeking nomination in the city primary April 3.

He was a modeler and designer of ceramics in this area for 40 years before retiring in 1961. He is married and has two daughters.

Duffy is the second Democrat to file for mayor as Alvin D. Clutter filed previously, along with two Republican candidates — Harold Dickey and Harry Abrams.

Abrams was mayor from 1940-44.

Rock, Mud Entomb Village

Efforts Considered Futile To Hunt Avalanche Dead

RANRAHIRCA, Peru (AP) — Little could be done for this Andean village today but mourn the victims of a thunderous avalanche. Ranrahirca is already dead and buried. There is nothing to rebuild. There is no one to rebuild for.

Forty-five feet of rock and mud entomb this farming village, most of its Indian peasant residents, its Roman Catholic church, its tile-roofed houses, school and stores.

It is now considered futile to try to unearth the debris in search of the dead, although a few poke around in the morass in search of relatives and friends.

is a tomb. Perhaps services will be held over it later.

The thunderous slide of ice, rock, mud and boulders as large as four-story buildings virtually erased Ranrahirca and neighboring Yanama after dusk Wednesday. More than 8,000 persons are officially listed as residents of these two villages and their surrounding rural areas.

Other villages and settlements in the Inca farming valley also were swallowed up in the mile-long sea of mud and stones.

How many died may never be known. Official estimates run from t[illegible] several thousand.

Rock, Mud Entomb Village

Efforts Considered Futile To Hunt Avalanche Dead

RANRAHIRCA, Peru (AP) — Little could be done for this Andean village today but mourn the victims of a thunderous avalanche. Ranrahirca is already dead and buried. There is nothing to rebuild. There is no one to rebuild for.

Forty-five feet of rock and mud entomb this farming village, most of its Indian peasant residents, its Roman Catholic church, its tile-roofed houses, school and stores.

It is now considered futile to try to unearth the debris in search of the dead, although a few poke around in the morass in search of relatives and friends.

Ranrahirca, once a peaceful village nestled in Huylas Valley under towering snow-capped peak[illegible] is a tomb. Perhaps services will be held over it later.

The thunderous slide of ice, rock, mud and boulders as large as four-story buildings virtually erased Ranrahirca and neighboring Yanama after dusk Wednesday. More than 8,000 persons are officially listed as residents of these two villages and their surrounding rural areas.

Other villages and settlements in the Inca farming valley also were swallowed up in the mile-long sea of mud and stones.

How many died may never be known. Official estimates run from 1,[illegible] several thousand. F[illegible]00 bodies have [illegible]ost will not be.

A GAPING HOLE was left in the side of this Hanoverton tavern when a car crashed through it early this morning and killed a patron. Two spectators are shown pulling back the canvass to view the damage. There were about 14 to 16 inside at the time and three were hurt.

6 Car Thefts, 3 Burglaries Seen Cleared

Six auto thefts and three burglaries, including two city auto agencies and Beaver Local elementary school, were cleared up early today after a 15-year-old city youth nabbed by deputy sheriffs Friday night in a stolen car on the Y. & O. Rd., implicated another 15-year-old youngster and a 17-year-old from suburban East Liverpool, police said today.

Interrogated by police, the trio denied the thefts of four other cars reported to police since the first of the year, officers said.

All three were being held in the detention room at City Hall pending a hearing with their parents before Juvenile Officer Chris Pusey.

The story started when Patrolman Paul Burson Jr., desk officer, heard Deputies Herman (Cy) Wellman and Ronald Gause notifying the Lisbon office by radio they were chasing a car stolen late Friday afternoon in East Liverpool on the Y. & O. Rd. near Glenmoor.

Officer Burson immediately notified Patrolman C. E. (Bill) Tice and Kent Garvey in one cruiser and Patrolman Jerry Adkins in another and four officers used three private cars to join in the search, planning to block entrances into East Liverpool from Lisbon St., Dresden Ave., St. Clair Ave. and Pennsylvania Ave.

Cactus Bar's 'Slots' Cost Fine Of $200

Two officers confiscated four slot machines in a backroom of the Cactus Bar on State Route 30 near Chester, and cited a waitress on a charge of exhibiting gaming devices.

Beatrice Hughes of Hookstown R.D. 1 pleaded guilty to the charge filed at 11:30 by Cpl. C. W. Tighe of the Weirton Barracks and Trooper W. A. Steffick of the Wellsburg detachment.

Cpl. Tighe said the citation was issued on an open violation after he and the other officer spotted the "one-armed bandits" in a room adjacent to the barroom of the oft-raided tavern.

The woman signed a waiver of destruction, allowing State Police to dispose of the machines by burning, Cpl. Tighe said today.

Moose Lodge Burglary Is Surprise To 6

It was hard to tell who was the most surprised when burglars broke into the Moose Club, 125 E. 3rd St. early this morning — the would-be robbers or two couples waiting to close the clubrooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Allison, 301 E. 3rd St., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed, 523 Carolina Ave., Chester, were seated at a table at the rear of the clubroom waiting for the custodian, George Simms, 2026 Ohio Ave., to finish cleaning so they could lock up, police were told.

They heard a noise, looked up and saw the stranger standing in the doorway.

The would-be burglar yelled to someone behind him and then fled through a hallway and out a rear door, the two couples told officers. No one gave chase.

Police were notified immediately but were unable to find any trace of the men.

Officers said the burglars used a steel bar to pry open a rear door which leads down a pair of steps to a second door. The burglars also pried it open and gained entrance to a hallway and a third door, which was unlocked.

4 Of Hancock Indicted File Innocent Plea

Dismissal Of 'Blue Law' Case Asked By Weirton Retailer

Two city men were among four who pleaded innocent to indictments when arraigned Friday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland. The Grand Jury reported Tuesday.

Two others pleaded guilty and a motion was entered for dismissal of three "Blue Laws" charges against a Weirton store operator for doing business on the Sabbath.

Edward Keener, 37, of 1041½ Riverview St., pleaded innocent to a charge of felonious assault with a hammer on Vera Guerco of Georgetown Nov. 11 while on Route 30 near Chester.

Trial for Keener was set March 1 at 9:30 a.m. by Judge Ralph E. Pryor.

Kenneth Edward Broadbent, 21, of 229 W. 4th St., also pleaded innocent to a charge that he burned his 1959 auto Nov. 10 in Chester with intent to defraud an insurance firm.

Pros. Atty. Floyd R. Tarr agreed to Broadbent's request to plead guilty to a lesser charge of attempted arson.

Judge Pryor then sentenced Broadbent to a year in County Jail but delayed commitment pending a petition for probation. Judge Pryor will rule on the probation request Jan. 26 at 9:30 a.m.

Doris Taylor, 19, of Weirton pleaded innocent to felonious assault on Jerry Jeter of Weirton Oct. 26.

However, the court allowed her to plead guilty to a lesser charge of simple assault after an investigation by sheriff's deputies.

Starling Taylor, 18, of Weirton, indicted in connection with the same incident, also was permitted to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Judge Pryor set sentencing for each on Jan. 26 at 11 a.m.

Henry Taylor Jr., 21, of Weirton, named in a similar indictment, pleaded guilty to felonious assault. Judge Pryor set Jan. 26 at 11 a.m. for sentencing and a hearing on a request for probation.

Charles Conaway, 39, of Martins Ferry, named in five counts of fraud through forged checks and forgery, pleaded guilty to two indictments of uttering forged checks and the court nolled the other three.

Judge Pryor set Jan. 26 at 11 a.m. for sentencing of Conaway, whose record began with an AWOL charge in 1944 and includes jail escapes, court was told. A petition for probation will be filed.

DRIVE TO STAY ALIVE

HANOVERTON — A tavern patron was killed in a freak traffic accident early this morning when a car crashed through the side of the Midway Restaurant and three others in the bar and the driver of the car were seriously injured.

Earl McIntosh, 45, of Hanoverton R.D. 1 was killed instantly when crushed against the bar by the car driven by Wayne Hillyer, 32, of Hanoverton, which plunged through the side of the wooden structure at 12:40 a.m.

Police Chief Donald Sheen and Patrolman Roy Painter said Hillyer lost control of his 1956 sedan on a level, straight stretch of highway, crashed through four small brick walls and across the lawn of the Farmers National Bank before bulldozing into the tavern at the intersection of Routes 9 and 30.

This was the first traffic fatality in Columbiana County this year. None had been killed at this date in 1961.

Hillyer apparently was traveling at a very high rate of speed, police said. The tavern is less than a block from his home.

The car tore through the two-foot high brick walls near the bank and went completely inside the tavern. Damage to the building was estimated at $5,000.

Mrs. McIntosh, who suffered internal injuries, also was pinned against the bar. She is in "critical" condition today at Salem Central Clinic.

Police said there were 14 to 16 persons in the building at the time.

Carl Weber of Dungannon, also seated at the bar, was knocked from a stool to the floor. He also was taken to the hospital and is in "fair" condition.

Mrs. Annabelle Hohider, co-owner of the tavern with her husband, Charles Hohider, was behind the bar at the time. The entire bar was shoved against her and she was pinned against a back wall. She is in "fair" condition. Her husband was unhurt.

A Lisbon woman and her husband also were seated at the bar. The woman was hospitalized but the man was apparently knocked clear and not hurt badly.

Police said the entire bar area, one side of the building and the cooling system were demolished.

Police said the master switches in the building were pulled to prevent a fire from an electric spark.

Chester Man To Seek Post

J. S. Duffy To Ask Mayor Nomination

The Chester mayor's race now lists two ex-mayors among the candidates seeking nomination in the city primary April 3.

He was a modeler and designer of ceramics in this area for 40 years before retiring in 1961. He is married and has two daughters.

Duffy is the second Democrat to file for mayor as Alvin D. Clutter filed previously, along with two Republican candidates — Harold Dickey and Harry Abrams.

Abrams was mayor from 1940-44.

Commissioners Cut $15,000

County Legion To Fight Slash In Soldier Aid Fund

The Columbiana County American Legion Council went on record Friday night as officially protesting a slash of over $15,000 in the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund ordered by county commissioners.

James Cregar, commander of American Legion Post 374, said county commissioners slashed the relief fund to $83,968 for 1962.

The commissioners of the relief fund had presented a budget of $99,509 to county commissioners for 1962, but it was slashed to $83,968, Cregar said.

He added the fund is entitled to approximately $100,000 each year from revenue derived from a half-mill property tax paid by Ohio residents.

The fund received $98,000 last year, but this amount was disbursed by October, Cregar said.

The council, meeting in Leetonia Post 131, went on record opposing the reduced budget for the new year and ordered a letter sent to county commissioners explaining its position. John Mackall, president of the relief fund, had presented the budget for the new year.

Post in the county have contributed more than $800 for the "Gifts to the Yanks Who Gave" fund, it was reported at a meeting.

Robert Patchen, who made the report, said the funds will be used to purchase gifts at Christmas for hospitalized veterans.

The council's Civil Defense committee is scheduled to hold a combined meeting Feb. 8 with county commissioners, county mayors and township trustees to discuss organization of a countywide CD program.

The committee already has met with commissioners and mayors and has a meeting scheduled with the trustees, Harmon Zepernick reported.

Dr. James Garstick of Columbiana and committee are to begin judging essays written by high school students in the county in the American Legion's annual essay contest.

The subject was "My Responsibility as an American Citizen." The essays named winners in the areas of each post have been turned over to the committee for judging and a county winner will be determined.

Council To Study Bill On City Tax Refunds

Council will consider legislation Monday night establishing a $1,000 appropriation to cover refunds to individuals and business places who overpaid on their 1961 income taxes.

Establishment of the special fund was decided upon last Monday after D. G. Wilkinson, tax commissioner, explained to Council that some individual returns were filed with payments covering all of 1961, although voters repealed the tax, effective Nov. 15.

The refunds will represent the amounts due the taxpayers for the period Nov. 15-Dec. 31. The refunds will affect only those who filed individual returns and paid in advance. Persons whose earnings were subject to withholding at the source are not affected, as the withholding stopped the day the tax law died.

$50,000 Fire Hits Small Ohio Hamlet

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Fire raged in the business block of the hamlet of Lithopolis early today, destroying Peoples' Grocery Store and damaging the roofs of an implement store and a barber shop that adjoined it.

Firefighters from a half-dozen nearby communities came to the aid of Lithopolis firemen in the 350-population town about midway between here and Columbus.

An unofficial damage estimate of around $50,000 was reported.

FBI Arrests Man Wanted For Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man sought by Cleveland police for first-degree murder was arrested in Chicago by FBI agents Friday night.

The man, Harold L. Jenkins, 25, of Cleveland, refused to make any statements concerning the fatal Christmas Eve beating of a man on an East Side street, according to the FBI.

Stamp Club To Join National Association

YMCA Stamp Club members voted to join the American Philatelic Society at a meeting Friday evening. Seven members were present.

First nomination of officers will be held Jan. 26 and the second nomination with election Feb. 9. A special prize will be awarded at the meeting.

Complainant Absent, Traffic Case Dropped

NEW CUMBERLAND — A charge of hazardous driving against Kurt Swan of New Cumberland was dismissed Friday night by Municipal Court Judge John D. Herron when the complainant, Vera Herron, failed to appear at a hearing.

Melvin Wilson, 49, of Pittsburgh was fined $20 and costs for hazardous driving in connection with a traffic accident Dec. 12 on State Route 2.

Car Thefts

accompanied by another boy and two girls, who later were cleared.

Using private cars, police went to the intersection of the Y. & O. Rd. and Routes 7 and 30 to meet the deputies and to bring the four youngsters to the police station.

Police began questioning the four youngsters but one boy and the girls told officers they didn't know the car had been stolen. They told police they got in the car at Lake Marwin when the 15-year-old told them it belonged to his uncle.

Police said the 1957 Chevrolet owned by Louella Jones, 759 Sophia St., was taken from Sophia St. between 4:50 and 8 p. m. yesterday.

Continuing to interrogate the 15-year-old, police learned the identities of the other two.

Heading for the 17-year-old's home, police and deputies spotted a wrecked car in a ditch on Anderson Blvd. outside the city limits.

The 17-year-old admitted taking the 1954 Chevrolet from the home of Harold G. Moore, 912 Orchard Grove Ave. last night. When Officer Burson and Deputy Wellman contacted Moore, he didn't know the auto had been stolen, officers said.

The youths also admitted taking two cars found by police in the same downtown neighborhood, officers said.

The three said they took a 1958 auto from Arb Motor Sales, 1340 Pennsylvania Ave. The car was stolen from the company's lot, apparently after two of the youths smashed a window in the company's office Saturday night or early Sunday and used a valve lifter to batter open a soft drink vending machine and obtain $8. They also battered desks in the office in a search for valuables, police said.

Discovered missing Thursday, the car was located by Lt. Thomas A. Walker in the Loblaw Market parking lot on Bradshaw Ave. about 2 a. m. Friday.

When Patrolman Orin Smith spotted the 1957 sedan of Charles S. Martin, 1006 Bradshaw Ave., on Sophia St., the valve lifter was found in the car and the rear seat had been removed. Martin reported the car was taken Wednesday night from a parking place near his home.

Two of the youths also broke into the used car office of the Litten Motor Sales New Year's Day, obtaining a key which they used to drive off a 1959 model.

A set of license plates also was stolen from a car parked in the vicinity of the lot, police said.

When the car was recovered on Walnut St. near Memorial Auditorium, the hubcaps were missing, police said.

The car was recovered a few hours later on Minerva St., police said.

Two of the youths also confessed to police and deputies they used one of the stolen cars to reach Beaver Local elementary school on Route 7.

They broke into the school offices, obtained $83 in cash and returned to the city in the car. When investigating the burglary, deputies had spotted two sets of footprints leading from and to a farm lane where the youngsters apparently parked the car.

Deputy Wellman said $50 of the loot was recovered.

Police Chief Americo Radeschi praised his officers and Deputies Wellman and Gause "for a job well done." He also commended local officers for using their private cars in the search last night.

Furnace Fault Shuts School

Plans will be taken Monday to Harrisburg for state approval for a new furnace for the Logan School in Ohio View, Frank Meredith, supervising principal said.

About 189 students at the school have been attending the Ray W. Snyder School since Tuesday. Snyder students are attending from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and those from Ohio View, 12:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Meredith said a teacher smelled fumes Monday after school and the Peoples Natural Gas Co. office at Midland was notified. Carbon monoxide was discovered.

Meredith said B. J. McCandless, Ellwood City architect, will take plans Monday to Harrisburg to have the 31-year-old, worn-out furnace replaced.

He said plans must be approved by the Department of Public Instruction and the Department of Labor and Industry. Then the Western Beaver County Board of Education will advertise for bids, which must be taken to Harrisburg for approval. Then the state will authorize the Board of Education to have the furnace installed.

Meredith said the project will take three weeks to a month.

South Side Post Auxiliary Awaits Bowling Dinner

The affair will be held at 6:30 at the post home near Hookstown.

Mrs. Virginia McDonald, president, presided and about 15 attended the meeting. It was announced that an auxiliary council meeting will be held Jan. 25 at the post home, starting about 11 a.m. About 70 or 80 will attend.

Plans were made to send supplies to needy children in the Philippines. Valentine gifts were sent to two "adopted" children, Jimmy Davies and Monica Tognarina, at a Scotland (Pa.) school.

3 Ohioans Are Killed In Head-On Collision

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Two cars collided head-on at the crest of a hill Friday night, killing three persons.

Stark County sheriff's deputies identified the victims as Eugene Coulter, 62, and his wife, Louella, 61, both of Akron, and Harold C. Holloway, 33, of Hartville.

The accident happened 1½ miles east of Uniontown on Ohio 619.

Deputies said Holloway's car went over an embankment and burst into flames following the crash. Uniontown volunteer firemen carried him out.

U.S., British Aides Near Accord On UN

WASHINGTON (AP) — British and American officials, conferring here since Thursday, were reported today to have narrowed differences between the two countries over U.N. issues.

The talks end this afternoon with a luncheon given by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Many of the problems discussed relate to issues that will arise in the U.N. General Assembly, which resumes its sessions next week.

The final subject scheduled for discussion was outer space problems, including problems of communication.

Adlai E. Stevenson, ambassador to the United Nations, Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, and their aides are meeting with their British counterparts, Ambassadors Patrick Dean and Duncan Wilson.

In discussions Friday, informants said, the U.S. and British representatives found common agreement on the proposition, strongly favored by the United States, that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant should have a larger staff for dealing with future crises.

The Congo crisis was cited as an example of an emergency into which the United Nations had to move without adequate time for preparation.

The discussions here also covered various colonial questions, including forthcoming U.N. debate on the future of Portuguese Angola, an African territory that was the scene of violent uprisings against Portuguese rule last year.

Key Club Will Erect Memorial Plaque

The Key Club of East Liverpool High School plans to put up a memorial plaque in the teenage room of the Carnegie Public Library, honoring Jeff Taylor, popular student killed in a traffic crash last Feb. 17.

Merrill Hall, sponsor of the club, said another project is a bulletin board to be placed outside the Memorial Auditorium for sports schedules and scores and other information of interest to the school.

County Health Board To Air Dump Control

LISBON — Proposed licensing of dumps will be discussed by the Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night at 8 in the health department quarters.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, said the group will also plan the annual Dr. Robert Dunlap healht essay contest among school students.

Glenmoor Girl Hurt By Auto

A Glenmoor girl was slightly injured when struck by a car while awaiting a school bus on County Route 424 in Glenmoor Friday morning at 7:30, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Sondra Flannigan, 13, daughter of William Flannigan of the Cannons Mills Rd., was struck by a car driven by Sandra Hilbert, 24, of Glenmoor.

The girl was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the knee and a bump on the head.

She was standing along the road waiting for her bus when the woman pulled off the highway because the windshield of her car became iced, patrolman said. The woman was cited for unsafe operation.

A Rogers man was injured when his car overturned on its side on Route 558 about a mile from Leetonia Friday at 6:25 p.m.

Officers said Gale W. Todd, 35, lost control on a downgrade. He went left of center, rolled over on the side and struck a tree.

Todd, who also was cited for unsafe operation, suffered a fracture and abrasions of the right arm. He was treated at Salem City Hospital.

Complainant Absent, Traffic Case Dropped

NEW CUMBERLAND — A charge of hazardous driving against Kurt Swan of New Cumberland was dismissed Friday night by Municipal Court Judge John D. Herron when the complainant, Vera Herron, failed to appear at a hearing.

Melvin Wilson, 49, of Pittsburgh was fined $20 and costs for hazardous driving in connection with a traffic accident Dec. 12 on State Route 2.

Commissioners Cut $15,000

County Legion To Fight Slash In Soldier Aid Fund

The Columbiana County American Legion Council went on record Friday night as officially protesting a slash of over $15,000 in the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Fund ordered by county commissioners.

James Cregar, commander of American Legion Post 374, said county commissioners slashed the relief fund to $83,968 for 1962.

The commissioners of the relief fund had presented a budget of $99,509 to county commissioners for 1962, but it was slashed to $83,968, Cregar said.

He added the fund is entitled to approximately $100,000 each year from revenue derived from a half-mill property tax paid by Ohio residents.

The fund received $98,000 last year, but this amount was disbursed by October, Cregar said.

The council, meeting in Leetonia Post 131, went on record opposing the reduced budget for the new year and ordered a letter sent to county commissioners explaining its position. John Mackall, president of the relief fund, had presented the budget for the new year.

Post in the county have contributed more than $800 for the "Gifts to the Yanks Who Gave" fund, it was reported at a meeting.

Robert Patchen, who made the report, said the funds will be used to purchase gifts at Christmas for hospitalized veterans.

The council's Civil Defense committee is scheduled to hold a combined meeting Feb. 8 with county commissioners, county mayors and township trustees to discuss organization of a countywide CD program.

The committee already has met with commissioners and mayors and has a meeting scheduled with the trustees, Harmon Zepernick reported.

Dr. James Garstick of Columbiana and committee are to begin judging essays written by high school students in the county in the American Legion's annual essay contest.

The subject was "My Responsibility as an American Citizen." The essays named winners in the areas of each post have been turned over to the committee for judging and a county winner will be determined.

Council To Study Bill On City Tax Refunds

Council will consider legislation Monday night establishing a $1,000 appropriation to cover refunds to individuals and business places who overpaid on their 1961 income taxes.

Establishment of the special fund was decided upon last Monday after D. G. Wilkinson, tax commissioner, explained to Council that some individual returns were filed with payments covering all of 1961, although voters repealed the tax, effective Nov. 15.

The refunds will represent the amounts due the taxpayers for the period Nov. 15-Dec. 31. The refunds will affect only those who filed individual returns and paid in advance. Persons whose earnings were subject to withholding at the source are not affected, as the withholding stopped the day the tax law died.

$50,000 Fire Hits Small Ohio Hamlet

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Fire raged in the business block of the hamlet of Lithopolis early today, destroying Peoples' Grocery Store and damaging the roofs of an implement store and a barber shop that adjoined it.

Firefighters from a half-dozen nearby communities came to the aid of Lithopolis firemen in the 350-population town about midway between here and Columbus.

An unofficial damage estimate of around $50,000 was reported.

FBI Arrests Man Wanted For Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man sought by Cleveland police for first-degree murder was arrested in Chicago by FBI agents Friday night.

The man, Harold L. Jenkins, 25, of Cleveland, refused to make any statements concerning the fatal Christmas Eve beating of a man on an East Side street, according to the FBI.

Motorist Fined

LISBON — Stephen F. Ewankowick, 19, of North Georgetown Lima was fined $5 and costs for speeding by County Judge James L. MacDonald Friday. Dixon J. Ashcraft, 41, of Coalton, W. Va., forfeited a $20 appearance bond for crossing the yellow line in another State Highway Patrol case.

Township Gets Aid

LISBON — A slag grant of $300 was given Thursday by Columbiana County commissioners to Salem Township after trustees said their road fund was depleted. Commissioners will meet Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Cosmic rays crash into the earth's atmosphere at an estimated billion billion every second.

accompanied by another boy and two girls, who later were cleared.

Using private cars, police went to the intersection of the Y. & O. Rd. and Routes 7 and 30 to meet the deputies and to bring the four youngsters to the police station.

Police began questioning the four youngsters but one boy and the girls told officers they didn't know the car had been stolen. They told police they got in the car at Lake Marwin when the 15-year-old told them it belonged to his uncle.

Police said the 1957 Chevrolet owned by Louella Jones, 759 Sophia St., was taken from Sophia St. between 4:50 and 8 p. m. yesterday.

Continuing to interrogate the 15-year-old, police learned the identities of the other two.

Heading for the 17-year-old's home, police and deputies spotted a wrecked car in a ditch on Anderson Blvd. outside the city limits.

The 17-year-old admitted taking the 1954 Chevrolet from the home of Harold G. Moore, 912 Orchard Grove Ave. last night. When Officer Burson and Deputy Wellman contacted Moore, he didn't know the auto had been stolen, officers said.

The youths also admitted taking two cars found by police in the same downtown neighborhood, officers said.

The three said they took a 1958 auto from Arb Motor Sales, 1340 Pennsylvania Ave. The car was stolen from the company's lot, apparently after two of the youths smashed a window in the company's office Saturday night or early Sunday and used a valve lifter to batter open a soft drink vending machine and obtain $8. They also battered desks in the office in a search for valuables, police said.

Discovered missing Thursday, the car was located by Lt. Thomas A. Walker in the Loblaw Market parking lot on Bradshaw Ave. about 2 a. m. Friday.

When Patrolman Orin Smith spotted the 1957 sedan of Charles S. Martin, 1006 Bradshaw Ave., on Sophia St., the valve lifter was found in the car and the rear seat had been removed. Martin reported the car was taken Wednesday night from a parking place near his home.

Two of the youths also broke into the used car office of the Litten Motor Sales New Year's Day, obtaining a key which they used to drive off a 1959 model.

A set of license plates also was stolen from a car parked in the vicinity of the lot, police said.

When the car was recovered on Walnut St. near Memorial Auditorium, the hubcaps were missing, police said.

They also admitted taking a car owned by Everett Vernaccini of Dixonville Dec. 31 while it was parked at the rear of his bakery at Pennsylvania and Minnesota Aves.

The car was recovered a few hours later on Minerva St., police said.

Two of the youths also confessed to police and deputies they used one of the stolen cars to reach Beaver Local elementary school on Route 7.

They broke into the school offices, obtained $83 in cash and returned to the city in the car. When investigating the burglary, deputies had spotted two sets of footprints leading from and to a farm lane where the youngsters apparently parked the car.

Deputy Wellman said $50 of the loot was recovered.

Police Chief Americo Radeschi praised his officers and Deputies Wellman and Gause "for a job well done." He also commended local officers for using their private cars in the search last night.

Furnace Fault Shuts School

Plans will be taken Monday to Harrisburg for state approval for a new furnace for the Logan School in Ohio View, Frank Meredith, supervising principal said.

About 189 students at the school have been attending the Ray W. Snyder School since Tuesday. Snyder students are attending from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and those from Ohio View, 12:30 to 4:30 p. m.

Meredith said a teacher smelled fumes Monday after school and the Peoples Natural Gas Co. office at Midland was notified. Carbon monoxide was discovered.

Meredith said B. J. McCandless, Ellwood City architect, will take plans Monday to Harrisburg to have the 31-year-old, worn-out furnace replaced.

He said plans must be approved by the Department of Public Instruction and the Department of Labor and Industry. Then the Western Beaver County Board of Education will advertise for bids, which must be taken to Harrisburg for approval. Then the state will authorize the Board of Education to have the furnace installed.

Meredith said the project will take three weeks to a month.

South Side Post Auxiliary Awaits Bowling Dinner

The affair will be held at 6:30 at the post home near Hookstown.

Mrs. Virginia McDonald, president, presided and about 15 attended the meeting. It was announced that an auxiliary council meeting will be held Jan. 25 at the post home, starting about 11 a.m. About 70 or 80 will attend.

Plans were made to send supplies to needy children in the Philippines. Valentine gifts were sent to two "adopted" children, Jimmy Davies and Monica Tognarina, at a Scotland (Pa.) school.

3 Ohioans Are Killed In Head-On Collision

Stark County sheriff's deputies identified the victims as Eugene Coulter, 62, and his wife, Louella, 61, both of Akron, and Harold C. Holloway, 33, of Hartville.

The accident happened 1½ miles east of Uniontown on Ohio 619.

Deputies said Holloway's car went over an embankment and burst into flames following the crash. Uniontown volunteer firemen carried him out.

The Coulters, pinned in the wreckage, were freed by Hartville firemen.

HAMMONDSVILLE—The Hammondsville Parent - Teacher Association will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. and Mrs. Shirley Plunkett, president, will preside.

U.S., British Aides Near Accord On UN

WASHINGTON (AP) — British and American officials, conferring here since Thursday, were reported today to have narrowed differences between the two countries over U.N. issues.

The talks end this afternoon with a luncheon given by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Many of the problems discussed relate to issues that will arise in the U.N. General Assembly, which resumes its sessions next week.

The final subject scheduled for discussion was outer space problems, including problems of communication.

Adlai E. Stevenson, ambassador to the United Nations, Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, and their aides are meeting with their British counterparts, Ambassadors Patrick Dean and Duncan Wilson.

In discussions Friday, informants said, the U.S. and British representatives found common agreement on the proposition, strongly favored by the United States, that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant should have a larger staff for dealing with future crises.

The Congo crisis was cited as an example of an emergency into which the United Nations had to move without adequate time for preparation.

The discussions here also covered various colonial questions, including forthcoming U.N. debate on the future of Portuguese Angola, an African territory that was the scene of violent uprisings against Portuguese rule last year.

Key Club Will Erect Memorial Plaque

The Key Club of East Liverpool High School plans to put up a memorial plaque in the teenage room of the Carnegie Public Library, honoring Jeff Taylor, popular student killed in a traffic crash last Feb. 17.

Merrill Hall, sponsor of the club, said another project is a bulletin board to be placed outside the Memorial Auditorium for sports schedules and scores and other information of interest to the school.

County Health Board To Air Dump Control

LISBON — Proposed licensing of dumps will be discussed by the Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night at 8 in the health department quarters.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, said the group will also plan the annual Dr. Robert Dunlap healht essay contest among school students.

Killed In Fall

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio — A fall into a coke bin at the Wheeling Steel Corp. Friday fatally injured Frank F. Ciotzyk, 51. Company officials said Ciotzyk, of Steubenville, was unloading stock near the blast furnace when he fell.

Lisbon Man Fined

LISBON — Jeffrey A. Butler, 21, of R.D. 3 was fined $5 and costs Thursday by County Judge James L. MacDonald after he pleaded guilty to driving on an expired license. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Portugal has been a republic since 1910.

Glenmoor Girl Hurt By Auto

A Glenmoor girl was slightly injured when struck by a car while awaiting a school bus on County Route 424 in Glenmoor Friday morning at 7:30, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Sondra Flannigan, 13, daughter of William Flannigan of the Cannons Mills Rd., was struck by a car driven by Sandra Hilbert, 24, of Glenmoor.

The girl was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of the knee and a bump on the head.

She was standing along the road waiting for her bus when the woman pulled off the highway because the windshield of her car became iced, patrolman said. The woman was cited for unsafe operation.

A Rogers man was injured when his car overturned on its side on Route 558 about a mile from Leetonia Friday at 6:25 p.m.

Officers said Gale W. Todd, 35, lost control on a downgrade. He went left of center, rolled over on the side and struck a tree.

Candidates Warned Of Filing Deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown today cautioned party and independent candidates seeking to enter the Nov. 6 general election that the filing deadline is 4 p. m. Feb. 7.

Non - partisan candidates for county court judge must file their nominating petitions by 4 p. m. Aug. 8.

Brown also pointed out that candidates from both political parties will be running for nomination for a total of 458 offices in the May 8 primary election.

Kovacs

entertainer Yves Montand and a score of other filmland people.

Miss Adams had gone ahead to the party, friends said, because Ernie had to work late. He joined her there. When they left, he followed her in his car, but she was not aware of his accident and went on home.

Scarcely known in most places a few years ago, Kovacs had won fame on television and in movies with his zany antics such as curling his lip over his moustache and staring squarely into the camera, giving a surprising Cyclops-like effect.

The corner's office said the actor suffered extensive head injuries.

Kovacs' first movie was "Operation Mad Ball" in 1957. He played a stuffy superior officer who vied with costar Jack Lemmon for the affections of nurse Kathryn Grant.

The role pegged him and producers cast him as a captain many times thereafter. His latest was as a captain in "Sail a Crooked Ship."

Kovacs, the son of a Hungarian tavern owner at Trenton, N. J., had sung in stock companies in the East and played bit parts before taking part in a talent audition on Broadway. He hit the proverbial jackpot. Offers poured in. And, unpredictably, in the midst of the furor he went to work in a drugstore.

Before making the bigtime nationally he had made a hit in the East with his Ernie Kovacs TV show. His sponsors let him do pretty much as he pleased. His final TV special was done without words.

"There's too much talk on TV," he said.

On TV Kovacs' sponsors let him do pretty much as he pleased. His final TV special was a show without words.

"There's too much talk on TV," he said.

In his early TV days, in the early fifties, he established such notable institutions as "The Early Eyeball Fraternal Marching Society." He was a columnist for the Trentonian at Trenton, N.J., from 1945 to 1950, and at various times did stints at radio disc jockeying, running a TV cooking show, and managing his own stock company.

Among his movies were "Operation Meatball," Bell, Book and Candle," "It Happened to Jane," "Our Man in Havana" and "Cry for Happy."

Miss Adams, Kovacs' second wife, and he had a child, Mia Susan, born in 1959. He had two other daughters by his first wife. They are Betty, 15, and Kippie, 13.

"I never want to leave home," he told an interviewer recently. "I never want to leave my wife. My kids. I love my home."

Elderly Man Sought After Missing Report

Charles Corbett, 840 Fairview St., left home at 12:30 p. m. Thursday, his wife told police in filing the missing person report at 2:40 p. m. Friday. Police also notified Hancock County authorities.

Police said Corbett last was seen in Chester. When he left his home, he was carrying a duffle bag and was wearing a gray hat, green pants and a dark overcoat, his wife said.

He has gray hair, is 5-foot-5 and weighs 175, police were told.

Theater Head Hit By Auto

The manager of the American Theater suffered possible back injuries when struck by a car while crossing E. 6th St. and Broadway Friday night, police reported.

George Kakouros, 52, of Lisbon St. was treated at City Hospital and then referred to his physician after the mishap at 8:31 p. m., hospital officials said.

Police were told by Donald R. Prescott, 17, of 742 Lisbon St., who was cited to juvenile officials, that he was pulling from the curb on the south side of E. 6th St. and making a left turn onto Broadway.

Kakouros told officers he was crossing Broadway from east to west on the north side of E. 6th St. when struck.

Ralph V. Roush, 1303 Erie St., told police the left side of his 1956 auto was damaged by a hit-run driver while parked on St. Clair Ave. near Welch Alley between 5:30 and 11 p. m. yesterday.

indictments charging employment of "his servants" on three Sundays, Dec. 3, 10 and 17, at the Value Center in Weirton, was filed on behalf of Sam Abrams, operator.

Pros. Tarr asked that Abrams be arraigned Jan. 26 to give him time to study the motion to quash the misdemeanor charges.

Earl Henry Caldwell of Weirton, indicted on a charge by the September Grand Jury for felonious assault, was ordered committed to the Weston State Hospital.

The court heard reports of examinations by two physicians made at the request of his counsel last year. Judge Pryor said Caldwell will be arraigned upon release from the hospital.

Pros. Tarr said it is expected that Edward Louis Carrothers, 21, of Rayland R.D. 2 will be extradited to face an indictment charging attempted armed robbery and assault of Atty. Frank A. Pietranton, former county prosecutor, Nov. 27.

Carrothers is being held in Jefferson County Jail in Steubenville on another charge. If sentenced in Jefferson County, a detainer will be placed against him and he will be extradited to Hancock upon release from prison.

Arraignment is scheduled Monday afternoon for Walter Cox Steiner, 20, and George Alvin Visnic, 21, both theft, and Armando Martello, 32, uttering a forged check.

All of Weirton, they were indicted Tuesday.

Avalanche

Another avalanche in this same Ancash Province 21 years ago killed an estimated 5,000 persons. Only 300 bodies were recovered then. Wednesday's avalanche provided its own mass grave. Virtually everyone in its path was killed in his tracks.

The deadly swath was born on the slopes of 22,205-foot Mount Huascaran—Peru's highest peak—and was unloosed by summer warmth.

The sun had settled behind the towering peaks when the slide swept nine miles down a canyon and into the countryside. Most in Ranrahirca were in their homes, just finishing dinner. Minutes later, all but 50 of the nearly 500 residents were dead.

"We had just had supper when we heard a big noise," said Manuel Melgarejo, whose hut on a hill near Ranrahirca was out of the avalanche's path.

"I called my wife and we grabbed up our two kids and ran, leaving everything behind," he said. "When we looked back a few minutes later, we saw what had happened. And then it became fearfully quiet and a black cloud hung over the valley."

Later Manuel returned.

"I could not believe it," he said. "Not until dawn did I see the awful destruction. There was no one injured. All in the path were killed and buried."

"Some twisted and torn bodies were churned to the surface of the mass," he went on. "They were placed on litters made of tree limbs and carried to a courtyard near the village."

Candidates Warned Of Filing Deadline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown today cautioned party and independent candidates seeking to enter the Nov. 6 general election that the filing deadline is 4 p. m. Feb. 7.

Non - partisan candidates for county court judge must file their nominating petitions by 4 p. m. Aug. 8.

Brown also pointed out that candidates from both political parties will be running for nomination for a total of 458 offices in the May 8 primary election.

entertainer Yves Montand and a score of other filmland people.

Miss Adams had gone ahead to the party, friends said, because Ernie had to work late. He joined her there. When they left, he followed her in his car, but she was not aware of his accident and went on home.

Scarcely known in most places a few years ago, Kovacs had won fame on television and in movies with his zany antics such as curling his lip over his moustache and staring squarely into the camera, giving a surprising Cyclops-like effect.

The corner's office said the actor suffered extensive head injuries.

Kovacs' first movie was "Operation Mad Ball" in 1957. He played a stuffy superior officer who vied with costar Jack Lemmon for the affections of nurse Kathryn Grant.

The role pegged him and producers cast him as a captain many times thereafter. His latest was as a captain in "Sail a Crooked Ship."

Kovacs, the son of a Hungarian tavern owner at Trenton, N. J., had sung in stock companies in the East and played bit parts before taking part in a talent audition on Broadway. He hit the proverbial jackpot. Offers poured in. And, unpredictably, in the midst of the furor he went to work in a drugstore.

Before making the bigtime nationally he had made a hit in the East with his Ernie Kovacs TV show. His sponsors let him do pretty much as he pleased. His final TV special was done without words.

"There's too much talk on TV," he said.

On TV Kovacs' sponsors let him do pretty much as he pleased. His final TV special was a show without words.

"There's too much talk on TV," he said.

In his early TV days, in the early fifties, he established such notable institutions as "The Early Eyeball Fraternal Marching Society." He was a columnist for the Trentonian at Trenton, N.J., from 1945 to 1950, and at various times did stints at radio disc jockeying, running a TV cooking show, and managing his own stock company.

Among his movies were "Operation Meatball," Bell, Book and Candle," "It Happened to Jane," "Our Man in Havana" and "Cry for Happy."

Miss Adams, Kovacs' second wife, and he had a child, Mia Susan, born in 1959. He had two other daughters by his first wife. They are Betty, 15, and Kippie, 13.

"I never want to leave home," he told an interviewer recently. "I never want to leave my wife. My kids. I love my home."

Elderly Man Sought After Missing Report

Charles Corbett, 840 Fairview St., left home at 12:30 p. m. Thursday, his wife told police in filing the missing person report at 2:40 p. m. Friday. Police also notified Hancock County authorities.

Police said Corbett last was seen in Chester. When he left his home, he was carrying a duffle bag and was wearing a gray hat, green pants and a dark overcoat, his wife said.

He has gray hair, is 5-foot-5 and weighs 175, police were told.

Theater Head Hit By Auto

The manager of the American Theater suffered possible back injuries when struck by a car while crossing E. 6th St. and Broadway Friday night, police reported.

George Kakouros, 52, of Lisbon St. was treated at City Hospital and then referred to his physician after the mishap at 8:31 p. m., hospital officials said.

Police were told by Donald R. Prescott, 17, of 742 Lisbon St., who was cited to juvenile officials, that he was pulling from the curb on the south side of E. 6th St. and making a left turn onto Broadway.

Kakouros told officers he was crossing Broadway from east to west on the north side of E. 6th St. when struck.

Ralph V. Roush, 1303 Erie St., told police the left side of his 1956 auto was damaged by a hit-run driver while parked on St. Clair Ave. near Welch Alley between 5:30 and 11 p. m. yesterday.

indictments charging employment of "his servants" on three Sundays, Dec. 3, 10 and 17, at the Value Center in Weirton, was filed on behalf of Sam Abrams, operator.

Pros. Tarr asked that Abrams be arraigned Jan. 26 to give him time to study the motion to quash the misdemeanor charges.

Earl Henry Caldwell of Weirton, indicted on a charge by the September Grand Jury for felonious assault, was ordered committed to the Weston State Hospital.

The court heard reports of examinations by two physicians made at the request of his counsel last year. Judge Pryor said Caldwell will be arraigned upon release from the hospital.

Pros. Tarr said it is expected that Edward Louis Carrothers, 21, of Rayland R.D. 2 will be extradited to face an indictment charging attempted armed robbery and assault of Atty. Frank A. Pietranton, former county prosecutor, Nov. 27.

Carrothers is being held in Jefferson County Jail in Steubenville on another charge. If sentenced in Jefferson County, a detainer will be placed against him and he will be extradited to Hancock upon release from prison.

Arraignment is scheduled Monday afternoon for Walter Cox Steiner, 20, and George Alvin Visnic, 21, both theft, and Armando Martello, 32, uttering a forged check.

All of Weirton, they were indicted Tuesday.

Another avalanche in this same Ancash Province 21 years ago killed an estimated 3,000 persons. Only 300 bodies were recovered then. Wednesday's avalanche provided its own mass grave. Virtually everyone in its path was killed in his tracks.

The deadly swath was born on the slopes of 22,205-foot Mount Huascaran—Peru's highest peak—and was unloosed by summer warmth.

The sun had settled behind the towering peaks when the slide swept nine miles down a canyon and into the countryside. Most in Ranrahirca were in their homes, just finishing dinner. Minutes later, all but 50 of the nearly 500 residents were dead.

"We had just had supper when we heard a big noise," said Manuel Melgarejo, whose hut on a hill near Ranrahirca was out of the avalanche's path.

"I called my wife and we grabbed up our two kids and ran, leaving everything behind," he said. "When we looked back a few minutes later, we saw what had happened. And then it became fearfully quiet and a black cloud hung over the valley."

Later Manuel returned.

"I could not believe it," he said. "Not until dawn did I see the awful destruction. There was no one injured. All in the path were killed and buried."

"Some twisted and torn bodies were churned to the surface of the mass," he went on. "They were placed on litters made of tree limbs and carried to a courtyard near the village."

No Action Likely This Year

When President Kennedy talks about boldness in connection with foreign trade, he makes us think of the matron who liked everything about her obstetrician except his bad habit of saying, "Presto!"

Boldness isn't the word for what the President has in mind. It strikes as false a note in his State of the Union message as was struck in the 1960 campaign when Mr. Kennedy sounded as if he thought he could cure Cuba, the recession and the tattered image of Uncle Sam by clapping his hands and shouting, "Yankee Doodle."

If the watchbirds who report Washington probabilities know what they're talking about, our young President is about to start a second semester of training in the art of public patience. The things he says he wants in his State of the Union message are going to be denied him for the second time in a row.

He is not going to get the most important things he listed—a "bold new instrument of American trade policy," disarmament, a dynamic Alliance for Progress in Latin America, authority to reduce taxes temporarily, a budget balanced in fact, a comprehensive farm program, a medical care program tied to the social security system, federal aid for education. It's doubtful if he can get even such things as a postal rate increase and revision of the military reserve program.

His inability to do these things will not be a reflection on his executive leadership, no matter what his critics want to say about it. They will be a reflection only on his political situation, which is not well understood. It will be a puzzle to Kennedy loyalists in 1962, as it was in 1961.

THE TIME has passed when a chief executive could tell Congress what it had to do, or else. Mr. Kennedy particularly has no hold on Congress because of his squeaker election in 1960. But in general no president can expect to dictate public policy, unless there is a national emergency.

It is now the role of the chief executive to present views for discussion, with a view to eventual action if the discussion proves fruitful.

For instance, Mr. Kennedy's administration is going all out for a sweeping revision of trade policy, one of the most ticklish subjects any representative or senator can be asked to consider. To imagine that anything of this magnitude can be settled in one session of Congress, or even in one presidential administration is like the obstretician who said "Presto!"

There can be nothing quick or bold on this score.

There can be nothing quick or bold about any of the other matters listed for quick and bold attention. But insofar as they are matters of legitimate concern, calling for executive leadership, there will be powerful public reaction to executive leadership.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S lifelong concentration on the profession of politics surely must have prepared him for the difference between recommendation and execution. But it is a matter of doubt that his countrymen, and especially those who resent the nerve-fraying pokiness of representative democracy are prepared.

They need to understand that proposal, discussion and disposal are the three steps in legislative government. Whatever is to be done years from now must be proposed now, with a view to hammering out a policy that ultimately will be widely acceptable.

The United States is entering a new era of trade policy; no one doubts this. It is going to undertake vast new responsibilities for the medical care of the needy aged; no one doubts that.

It is belatedly going to shift some of its obsessive interest in the Old World to problems of equal importance in the New World. It is going to change its arrangements for dealing with agricultural surpluses, urban affairs, chronic unemployment and equitable support for education, just as it finally had to cope with equitable finance for interstate highways.

These things are in the discussion stage. They entered this stage last year when President Kennedy proposed some of them and when others, like a new trade policy, were forced on American attention by developments in Europe and Asia.

They are not likely to reach the disposal stage this year.

DiSalle Will Try Again

Michael V. DiSalle will be a candidate for re-election to the governorship of Ohio next November if he wins the Democratic primary next May.

When Gov. DiSalle surprised Ohioans last October by saying he thought he could sell his ideas better by not being a candidate for another term, we raised an editorial eyebrow, as did most Ohio newspapers.

It did not seem to us a lame-duck governor would be in a good position to sell anything except his household furniture. It did seem to us there was more to his announcement than met the ear and eye.

For one thing, it seemed to make sense that Gov. DiSalle was saying to members of the Democratic party, in effect: "The way things stand as of today I have no desire to run for a second term as a Democratic candidate. It wouldn't b worth it, even if I won. You haven't given me enough support."

This would give every knowledgeable Democrat in Ohio a chance to do some political soul-searching.

WOULD THERE be anything Ohio Democrats could do to make a bid for re-election attractive to Mike DiSalle? Would he change his mind and run for re-election if they gave him tangible evidence of their desire to stand behind him, win or lose?

And there is this further thought that may have gone through the nimble DiSalle mind last fall when he said he was going to turn in his running shoes:

"Maybe the best way to let Ohio Democrats find out how much they need me is to let them see how things would look in my absence."

Whatever it was that prompted the announcement when it was made, there did seem to be more to it than met the ear and eye. Since then, the political pieces have been falling into new patterns.

Gov. DiSalle has learned, we believe, that being a "lame-duck" salesman is an exercise in political frustration. People are willing to listen to him out of respect for the office he still holds and out of respect for the attractive political personality he always has been.

But politics is essentially the art of getting things done, and a politician who is not going to be in power the next time around is a politician with no prospect of getting things done.

We suspect Gov. DiSalle was disappointed on that score, if it was the score he was playing.

BUT ON THE score we suspected he was playing, he was hitting all the keys.

Ohio Democrats have discovered more enthusiasm for Gov. DiSalle since last October than they had shown since they voted him into office with the assistance of many Ohio Republicans who had not liked the administration of C. William O'Neill.

Ohio Democrats have discovered something else, too—that without Mike DiSalle as a candidate for governor the future would look bare and bleak for the simple reason they have no one else of large enough political stature to show up on the horizon. They missed him as soon as he said he was going —and he hadn't left yet.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy may prove to be a formidable opponent for Gov. DiSalle, but an incumbent has such a tremendous advantage over any opponent, especially in a primary, that it is not likely the governor will be denied renomination.

Well, like any other game, politics should be fun. It should be fun for the players and fun for the spectators.

Gov. DiSalle is going to stay in the game. We were surprised and incredulous last October when he said he was going to stay out of it.

Welcome Figures

Reports from the Ohio Highway Patrol and other agencies show that those behind the wheel did just that — drove safer than they did in 1960.

Traffic deaths declined, as did injurious accidents, arrests, warnings and all the other figures and facts which spell out the pain, sorrow and expense which accompany our modern methods of transportation.

Did safe-driving warnings and advice help save a life? Did motorists actually try to make the journey less hazardous? Or was it luck?

Whatever it was, let us pray that it will be repeated again for 1962 and that when 1963 rolls around the average driver again will have something to be proud of—besides being alive.

Nip 'Em In The Cornflakes

What is this creeping nonsense about breakfast conferences?

They now have crept into the White House. They were there even before Dwight Eisenhower left and are finding sanctuary under John Kennedy.

They should be nipped in the cornflakes before they get any further. If there is one institution that should be kept personal and private, it's breakfast. It is no fit time to confer about anything, as all seasoned husbands and wives must have known for a long time, else they would have broken up their marriages with early-morning spats before they learned to forgive each other's foibles.

It was bad enough when the bizzy bees who are forever buzzing with important matters desecrated lunch with their intrusions. Before that, they had staked out late-afternoon and evening for their conferences, indoctrinations, arm-twisting and elbow bendings. Nothing is sacred to these operators and manipulators. Once they have become accustomed to sittting down at the table three times a day with the victims of their blandishments, you can bet on it they will be sitting on the edge of the bed next, or taking a tip from the Romans, who found that taking baths together created a clubby atmosphere for a business deal.

Breakfast belongs to the individual; it is properly an interval of meditation. There is no place at the breakfast table for a pest who leans forward, chin on hand and says, "Let's get down to business."

Labor Strikes Due In Japan

By Victor Riesel

Deep in the high ceilinged inner sanctums of some of our highest government officials, there can be heard a Banzai, or two — because there may be a riot or two in Japan late in February — around Feb. 23 to be exact.

Victor Riesel

Maybe not exactly riots as we know them, but certainly the Nipponese version of pickets. A series of strikes will rip through Japan.

They could not come at more appropriate and tense moments for the Kennedy administration which then will be fighting for the power to open the national sluice gates and permit floods of imports into the United States.

Since what stirs most fear in United States industrial and labor circles is low cost imports from Japan, any move there to increase the cost of production for the gentlemen from Japan — and therefore narrow the price gap — will be welcomed here.

Oddly enough, this depends on the success of some tough Socialist and Communist unions there, organized into something called "Sohyo."

THEY'VE SET Feb. 23 as their deadline for action — the launching of the "Spring Struggle." This will be unleashed by Sohyo and an ally, the joint committee "Shuritsu Roren." The latter is the "Liaison Council of Neutral Trade Unions."

They are all led by political hotbloods. Together, Sohyo and the "Shuritsu Roren" claim some 99 unions with five million members.

Earlier the Tanro, the Japanese Coal Mine Workers' Union, will strike. All this is being coordinated by the "Spring Struggle" outfit right now so the workers hit the bricks in a steady stream of demonstrations all through the first quarter of the year.

What they want, of course, is a much higher wage. Then, on March 3, they'll also kick off what they call a national movement for a minimum wage system.

If the workers increase their actual cash take, they'll be one of the higher priced groups of workers in the Orient and begin matching some of the pay standards in Western Europe.

There are many unseen benefits given the Japanese worker—enough to permit the authoritative Prof. Peter Drucker to write that the welfare and fringe benefits "often amount to as much as three times the basic wage."

HE REFERS to the Japanese workers' year end bonuses which come to as much as three months' pay when business is good. And family allowances which give a worker additional pay for each of his children. And cost-of-living increases as prices rise.

There is also a unique length of service allowance which increases as the years on the job total up.

Virtually all the big Japanese industries provide inexpensive housing, dormitories, blocks of homes for sale at low cost. Many companies pay round trip carfare to work each day. Meals are priced at cost, also cut-rate clothing, permanent medical care and permanent pay for the duration of an illness.

Some companies run low cost vacation resorts. All these in addition to the standard old age pension and garden variety welfare benefits.

Mark all this well. It will be at the vortex of President Kennedy's big battle this spring.

He wants the President of the United States to have the power to cut tariffs as he deems necessary.

HE'LL NOT get this power.

There is virtually unanimous opposition from the major industries —and unions — and the minor ones, too, though you will hear much of their overt support of the President on free and open trade.

It isn't Mr. Kennedy they have in mind. They do not want to set a precedent which will give any political leader the power to make or break an industry or union.

So everybody is looking for a formula. How can the United States make it possible for nations, such as Japan, which buy billions from us to sell here? Perhaps, say many, a system of licensing is feasible.

Thus, if a company abroad can prove it pays and maintains its workers at certain standards, not horribly below the wages and fringe cost of American workers, that company — and not the entire industry — can sell in the United States.

The cost gap now is almost as important as the missile gap once was.

A Leap Into The Past

By Richard C. Wald

LONDON

With a running leap into the past, the British are now involved in an attempt to fly by muscle alone, the way the birds do it.

In workshops throughout the land, amateurs and professionals are flexing their arm muscles, their brains or whatever else they use to best advantage in a race to prove that homo sapiens is as good as any animal and also to collect a 5,000 pound ($14,000) prize offered by Henry Kremer, a London industrialist, to the first man-powered craft in Britain that can fly a mile over an "8" shaped course.

MEN HAVE always tried to fly. The trouble is that, like Icarus, their wings don't always work.

Leonardo da Vinci could design a pair of wings that looked absolutely angelic but there is no record that he ever tried to fly with them, or that anybody ever tried using one of the flying machines he sketched in his notebooks. It is just as well, since none of them is aerodynamically sound.

In fact, that is what distinguishes the present British effort from almost anything that has gone before. Everything is aerodynamically sound. "They may not fly," one of the experimenters pointed out, "but they are sound."

To begin with, Mr. Kremer's prize money is being handled by the Royal Aeronautical Society which — once one accepts the basic improbability of a man flying anywhere in anything — is a perfectly respectable body. It has a subcommittee working specifically on the problem of man-powered flight.

Peter Masefield, president of the R.A.S., is delighted that four groups of engineers and scientist are tackling the problem. "This is just an attempt to show that, with modern knowledge and materials, it is possible for a man to raise himself into the air," he said.

The major groups are working with variations of a bicycle-with-wings. The idea is that a man in an enclosed structure with a huge wing to give lift, pedals away like mad to turn wheels that shove him along the runway and a propellor that should propel him into the air.

ONE GROUP at Southampton University managed to get a man into the air for a distance of 50 feet. He went 6 feet up. They think it may be the first such flight ever made at all under the power and control of a single man.

At the de Haviland airplane company in Hatfield, an amateur club with the aid of the firm's deputy chief aerodynamicist has developed a slightly larger craft called the "Puffin" which has now gone about 150 yards through the air.

In Southend, a group of enthusiasts is putting its money on a two-man engine, the two of them pedaling away on a tandem bicycle frame and working the controls with their arms.

There is little attempt just yet to say that the man-powered craft have any practical use. Mr. Masefield calls it a sporting gesture. Most of the designers call it an interesting problem.

The State Of Politics

By David Lawrence

President's Message Has Vote Appeal

Time was when a State of the Union message by the President to Congress was expected to give a frank analysis of what was actually happening inside the United States, as well as legislative proposals dealing with vital problems but in recent years it has become an opportunity for extra pub- David Lawrence licity through radio and television — a message based largely on political strategy.

Naturally, it is prepared carefully in an attempt to curry favor with large groups of voters by promising them benefits, special privileges and, particularly, a large share of federal funds.

President Kennedy didn't tell the American people of the chaotic internal situation that the nation faces as it struggles to emerge from one recession when the same basic causes are threatening another economic setback within the next 18 months. He didn't devote a single paragraph to the all-important question of monopoly as practiced by trade union groups.

He spoke only in general terms about desirable self restraints and the importance of productivity and stability. These, however, are meaningless words today in the absence of concrete legislative recommendations to curb monopoly on every side.

The President emphasized, instead, more and more handouts of money, such as possible reductions of some income taxes in the lower brackets. He promised large sums for medical care, which, of course, will be paid for out of an increase in Social Security taxes levied on almost everybody.

The President's message was concerned, too, with getting more votes from the farm group and more votes from the minority groups affected by the civil rights issue.

By promising more funds for education, it sought to line up the teachers' groups with their potential vote - getting apparatus throughout the country.

As a political document, it was cleverly phrased and sufficiently general not to give the opposition too many details of what the program really embraces. The real details will come later, in a series of probably 10 messages.

So far as business is concerned, it was given a small sop in the form of a tiny credit on tax payments — if money is invested in new equipment. But the formula is skimpy and doesn't promise the depreciation allowances across-the-board which are so necessary to help the heavy-goods industries as a whole. This is where unemployment is greatest.

THE IDEA of presidential "stand - by authority" to adjust personal income taxes downward might seem at first glance to be a handout that would benefit a large number of voters, particularly in the lower-tax brackets but they will not know how soon those same taxes will be raised to meet increasing government deficits.

What the President said in the field of foreign policy is not new. He outlines again American purposes and argues that the United States will neither retreat nor complicate matters by a rigid course.

This is a difficult field of policy for the President to describe. For he must come out in favor of further negotiation lest he be criticized as too inflexible. But at the same time, the Russians may derive a hint that the United States is willing to make some concessions.

On the whole, however, the international section of the President's address seems to be in accord with the general feeling of both parties in Congress, though his enthusiasm for the United Nations is not as widely shared.

THE MESSAGE neither advances nor retards the cause of peace but leaves the situation very much up in the air, as it has been for several years in the cold war.

Whenever there's an international crisis, the American people feel more secure if more and more money is spent for defense. The President's recommendations in this respect will, in the main, be approved by Congress.

The President's obviously political proposal to furnish medical care to aged persons, irrespective of whether he or she has the money to pay for such care, will encounter bitter opposition in Congress.

There is still a feeling that self-reliance should be encouraged as far as possible, and that, while the government should find a means of taking care of the indigent and the needy, it should not furnish medical aid to those who are able to afford it themselves or who have provided it through voluntary insurance and other medical aid plans.

PERHAPS the most controversial of all the President's proposals is his advocacy of a five-year plan that will delegate to the executive branch of the government the right to reduce tariffs arbitrarily in exchange for concessions from other countries, especially those in the Common Market of Europe. This is a complex problem with no easy solution. But the big fight in Congress will come over the idea of delegating to the President the power to kill off industries and bring unemployment also to businesses injured by lowered tariffs.

The critics, to be sure, will not get "equal time" to present their arguments right away but in due course the majority of the voters will find that there is no panacea in mere words or in spectacular or dramatic messages to Congress.

French TV Lacks Quality

By William Millinship

PARIS

The French are succumbing slowly and rather reluctantly to the lure of television. There are at present only about 2½ million sets in the country, and, although the number of viewers has increased more rapidly over the last year, sales resistance is still considerable.

The "box" is undoubtedly at odds with the French character. The French love talking, and "going out" is still synonymous with entertainment, even if it is only a matter of strolling along the grand boulevards or window shopping in the Champs Elysees.

But the preference for simple pleasures is not the only explanation. Resistance is comparatively easy because the programs themselves are not particularly alluring. There is no choice, except in frontier areas where foreign stations can be picked up.

The state-run French television has a monopoly over the rest of the country and the hand of the government lies heavily on its status.

This is particularly noticeable in the news bulletins. There was an uproar in Parliament recently over biased reporting of a debate. Extracts from a speech by a government supporter were given three minutes' screening. Opposition spokesmen shared a little over two minutes and their voices were covered by a commentary.

THE GOVERNMENT line is, if anything, even more carefully followed in reporting foreign affairs. Slanting is commonplace in commentaries to filmed reports.

The United Nations forces in Katanga have been methodically presented as the villains of the story and treated with irony.

No Action Likely This Year

When President Kennedy talks about boldness in connection with foreign trade, he makes us think of the matron who liked everything about her obstetrician except his bad habit of saying, "Presto!"

Boldness isn't the word for what the President has in mind. It strikes as false a note in his State of the Union message as was struck in the 1960 campaign when Mr. Kennedy sounded as if he thought he could cure Cuba, the recession and the tattered image of Uncle Sam by clapping his hands and shouting, "Yankee Doodle."

If the watchbirds who report Washington probabilities know what they're talking about, our young President is about to start a second semester of training in the art of public patience. The things he says he wants in his State of the Union message are going to be denied him for the second time in a row.

He is not going to get the most important things he listed—a "bold new instrument of American trade policy," disarmament, a dynamic Alliance for Progress in Latin America, authority to reduce taxes temporarily, a budget balanced in fact, a comprehensive farm program, a medical care program tied to the social security system, federal aid for education. It's doubtful if he can get even such things as a postal rate increase and revision of the military reserve program.

His inability to do these things will not be a reflection on his executive leadership, no matter what his critics want to say about it. They will be a reflection only on his political situation, which is not well understood. It will be a puzzle to Kennedy loyalists in 1962, as it was in 1961.

THE TIME has passed when a chief executive could tell Congress what it had to do, or else. Mr. Kennedy particularly has no hold on Congress because of his squeaker election in 1960. But in general no president can expect to dictate public policy, unless there is a national emergency.

It is now the role of the chief executive to present views for discussion, with a view to eventual action if the discussion proves fruitful.

For instance, Mr. Kennedy's administration is going all out for a sweeping revision of trade policy, one of the most ticklish subjects any representative or senator can be asked to consider. To imagine that anything of this magnitude can be settled in one session of Congress, or even in one presidential administration is like the obstretician who said "Presto!"

There can be nothing quick or bold on this score.

There can be nothing quick or bold about any of the other matters listed for quick and bold attention. But insofar as they are matters of legitimate concern, calling for executive leadership, there will be powerful public reaction to executive leadership.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S lifelong concentration on the profession of politics surely must have prepared him for the difference between recommendation and execution. But it is a matter of doubt that his countrymen, and especially those who resent the nerve-fraying pokiness of representative democracy are prepared.

They need to understand that proposal, discussion and disposal are the three steps in legislative government. Whatever is to be done years from now must be proposed now, with a view to hammering out a policy that ultimately will be widely acceptable.

The United States is entering a new era of trade policy; no one doubts this. It is going to undertake vast new responsibilities for the medical care of the needy aged; no one doubts that.

It is belatedly going to shift some of its obsessive interest in the Old World to problems of equal importance in the New World. It is going to change its arrangements for dealing with agricultural surpluses, urban affairs, chronic unemployment and equitable support for education, just as it finally had to cope with equitable finance for interstate highways.

These things are in the discussion stage. They entered this stage last year when President Kennedy proposed some of them and when others, like a new trade policy, were forced on American attention by developments in Europe and Asia.

They are not likely to reach the disposal stage this year.

DiSalle Will Try Again

Michael V. DiSalle will be a candidate for re-election to the governorship of Ohio next November if he wins the Democratic primary next May.

When Gov. DiSalle surprised Ohioans last October by saying he thought he could sell his ideas better by not being a candidate for another term, we raised an editorial eyebrow, as did most Ohio newspapers.

It did not seem to us a lame-duck governor would be in a good position to sell anything except his household furniture. It did seem to us there was more to his announcement than met the ear and eye.

For one thing, it seemed to make sense that Gov. DiSalle was saying to members of the Democratic party, in effect: "The way things stand as of today I have no desire to run for a second term as a Democratic candidate. It wouldn't b worth it, even if I won. You haven't given me enough support."

This would give every knowledgeable Democrat in Ohio a chance to do some political soul-searching.

WOULD THERE be anything Ohio Democrats could do to make a bid for re-election attractive to Mike DiSalle? Would he change his mind and run for re-election if they gave him tangible evidence of their desire to stand behind him, win or lose?

And there is this further thought that may have gone through the nimble DiSalle mind last fall when he said he was going to turn in his running shoes:

"Maybe the best way to let Ohio Democrats find out how much they need me is to let them see how things would look in my absence."

Whatever it was that prompted the announcement when it was made, there did seem to be more to it than met the ear and eye. Since then, the political pieces have been falling into new patterns.

Gov. DiSalle has learned, we believe, that being a "lame-duck" salesman is an exercise in political frustration. People are willing to listen to him out of respect for the office he still holds and out of respect for the attractive political personality he always has been.

But politics is essentially the art of getting things done, and a politician who is not going to be in power the next time around is a politician with no prospect of getting things done.

We suspect Gov. DiSalle was disappointed on that score, if it was the score he was playing.

BUT ON THE score we suspected he was playing, he was hitting all the keys.

Ohio Democrats have discovered more enthusiasm for Gov. DiSalle since last October than they had shown since they voted him into office with the assistance of many Ohio Republicans who had not liked the administration of C. William O'Neill.

Ohio Democrats have discovered something else, too—that without Mike DiSalle as a candidate for governor the future would look bare and bleak for the simple reason they have no one else of large enough political stature to show up on the horizon. They missed him as soon as he said he was going—and he hadn't left yet.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy may prove to be a formidable opponent for Gov. DiSalle, but an incumbent has such a tremendous advantage over any opponent, especially in a primary, that it is not likely the governor will be denied renomination.

Well, like any other game, politics should be fun. It should be fun for the players and fun for the spectators.

Gov. DiSalle is going to stay in the game. We were surprised and incredulous last October when he said he was going to stay out of it.

Welcome Figures

Reports from the Ohio Highway Patrol and other agencies show that those behind the wheel did just that — drove safer than they did in 1960.

Traffic deaths declined, as did injurious accidents, arrests, warnings and all the other figures and facts which spell out the pain, sorrow and expense which accompany our modern methods of transportation.

Did safe-driving warnings and advice help save a life? Did motorists actually try to make the journey less hazardous? Or was it luck?

Whatever it was, let us pray that it will be repeated again for 1962 and that when 1963 rolls around the average driver again will have something to be proud of—besides being alive.

Nip 'Em In The Cornflakes

What is this creeping nonsense about breakfast conferences?

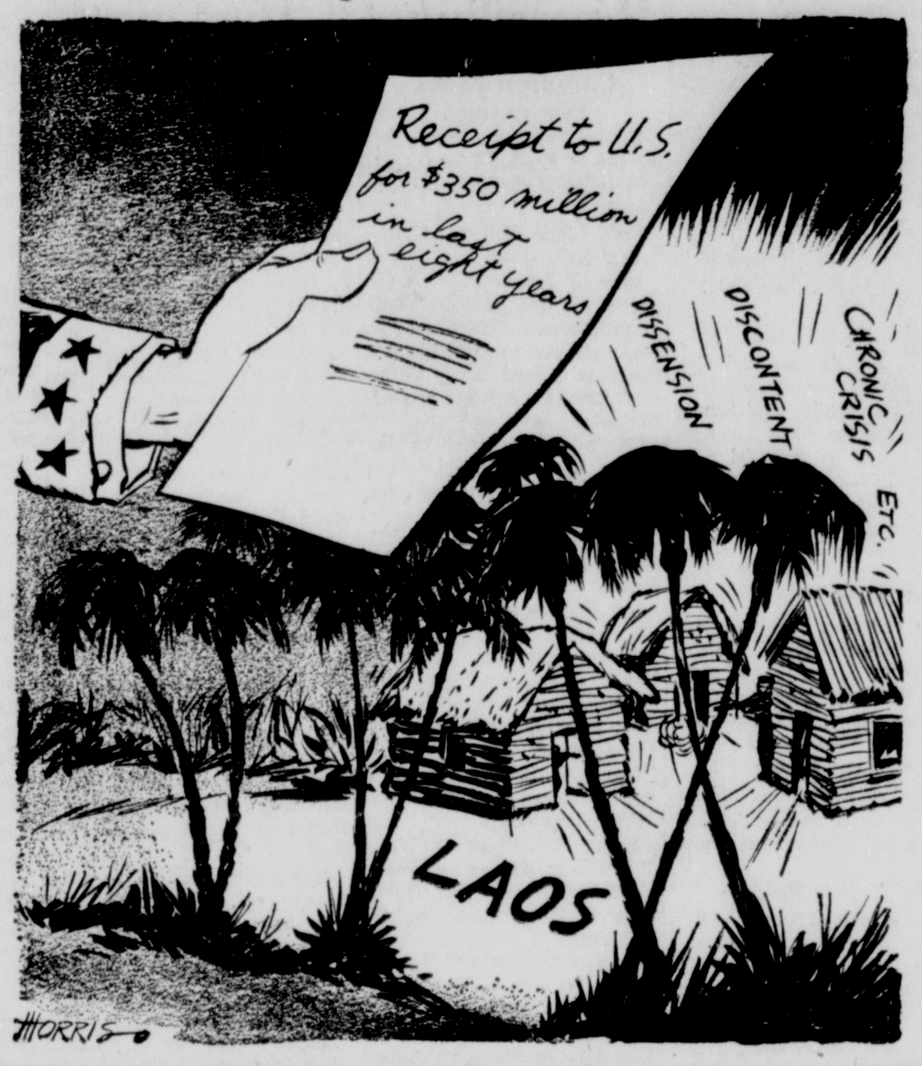
They now have crept into the White House. They were there even before Dwight Eisenhower left and are finding sanctuary under John Kennedy.

They should be nipped in the cornflakes before they get any further. If there is one institution that should be kept personal and private, it's breakfast. It is no fit time to confer about anything, as all seasoned husbands and wives must have known for a long time, else they would have broken up their marriages with early-morning spats before they learned to forgive each other's foibles.

It was bad enough when the bizzy bees who are forever buzzing with important matters desecrated lunch with their intrusions. Before that, they had staked out late-afternoon and evening for their conferences, indoctrinations, arm-twisting and elbow bendings. Nothing is sacred to these operators and manipulators. Once they have become accustomed to sittting down at the table three times a day with the victims of their blandishments, you can bet on it they will be sitting on the edge of the bed next, or taking a tip from the Romans, who found that taking baths together created a clubby atmosphere for a business deal.

Breakfast belongs to the individual; it is properly an interval of meditation. There is no place at the breakfast table for a pest who leans forward, chin on hand and says, "Let's get down to business."

Bought And Paid For!



Labor Strikes Due In Japan

By Victor Riesel

Deep in the high ceilinged inner sanctums of some of our highest government officials, there can be heard a Banzai, or two — because there may be a riot or two in Japan late in February — around Feb. 23 to be exact.

Victor Riesel

Maybe not exactly riots as we know them, but certainly the Nipponese version of pickets. A series of strikes will rip through Japan.

They could not come at more appropriate and tense moments for the Kennedy administration which then will be fighting for the power to open the national sluice gates and permit floods of imports into the United States.

Since what stirs most fear in United States industrial and labor circles is low cost imports from Japan, any move there to increase the cost of production for the gentlemen from Japan — and therefore narrow the price gap — will be welcomed here.

Oddly enough, this depends on the success of some tough Socialist and Communist unions there, organized into something called "Sohyo."

THEY'VE SET Feb. 23 as their deadline for action — the launching of the "Spring Struggle." This will be unleashed by Sohyo and an ally, the joint committee "Shuritsu Roren." The latter is the "Liaison Council of Neutral Trade Unions."

They are all led by political hotbloods. Together, Sohyo and the "Shuritsu Roren" claim some 99 unions with five million members.

Earlier the Tanro, the Japanese Coal Mine Workers' Union, will strike. All this is being coordinated by the "Spring Struggle" outfit right now so the workers hit the bricks in a steady stream of demonstrations all through the first quarter of the year.

What they want, of course, is a much higher wage. Then, on March 3, they'll also kick off what they call a national movement for a minimum wage system.

If the workers increase their actual cash take, they'll be one of the higher priced groups of workers in the Orient and begin matching some of the pay standards in Western Europe.

There are many unseen benefits given the Japanese worker—enough to permit the authoritative Prof. Peter Drucker to write that the welfare and fringe benefits "often amount to as much as three times the basic wage."

HE REFERS to the Japanese workers' year end bonuses which come to as much as three months' pay when business is good. And family allowances which give a worker additional pay for each of his children. And cost-of-living increases as prices rise.

There is also a unique length of service allowance which increases as the years on the job total up.

Virtually all the big Japanese industries provide inexpensive housing, dormitories, blocks of homes for sale at low cost. Many companies pay round trip carfare to work each day. Meals are priced at cost, also cut-rate clothing, permanent medical care and permanent pay for the duration of an illness.

Some companies run low cost vacation resorts. All these in addition to the standard old age pension and garden variety welfare benefits.

Mark all this well. It will be at the vortex of President Kennedy's big battle this spring.

He wants the President of the United States to have the power to cut tariffs as he deems necessary.

HE'LL NOT get this power.

There is virtually unanimous opposition from the major industries —and unions — and the minor ones, too, though you will hear much of their overt support of the President on free and open trade.

It isn't Mr. Kennedy they have in mind. They do not want to set a precedent which will give any political leader the power to make or break an industry or union.

So everybody is looking for a formula. How can the United States make it possible for nations, such as Japan, which buy billions from us to sell here? Perhaps, say many, a system of licensing is feasible.

Thus, if a company abroad can prove it pays and maintains its workers at certain standards, not horribly below the wages and fringe cost of American workers, that company — and not the entire industry — can sell in the United States.

The cost gap now is almost as important as the missile gap once was.

A Leap Into The Past

By Richard C. Wald

LONDON

With a running leap into the past, the British are now involved in an attempt to fly by muscle alone, the way the birds do it.

In workshops throughout the land, amateurs and professionals are flexing their arm muscles, their brains or whatever else they use to best advantage in a race to prove that homo sapiens is as good as any animal and also to collect a 5,000 pound ($14,000) prize offered by Henry Kremer, a London industrialist, to the first man-powered craft in Britain that can fly a mile over an "8" shaped course.

Leonardo da Vinci could design a pair of wings that looked absolutely angelic but there is no record that he ever tried to fly with them, or that anybody ever tried using one of the flying machines he sketched in his notebooks. It is just as well, since none of them is aerodynamically sound.

In fact, that is what distinguishes the present British effort from almost anything that has gone before. Everything is aerodynamically sound. "They may not fly," one of the experimenters pointed out, "but they are sound."

To begin with, Mr. Kremer's prize money is being handled by the Royal Aeronautical Society which — once one accepts the basic improbability of a man flying anywhere in anything — is a perfectly respectable body. It has a subcommittee working specifically on the problem of man-powered flight.

Peter Masefield, president of the R.A.S., is delighted that four groups of engineers and scientist are tackling the problem. "This is just an attempt to show that, with modern knowledge and materials, it is possible for a man to raise himself into the air," he said.

The major groups are working with variations of a bicycle-with-wings. The idea is that a man in an enclosed structure with a huge wing to give lift, pedals away like mad to turn wheels that shove him along the runway and a propellor that should propel him into the air.

ONE GROUP at Southampton University managed to get a man into the air for a distance of 50 feet. He went 6 feet up. They think it may be the first such flight ever made at all under the power and control of a single man.

At the de Haviland airplane company in Hatfield, an amateur club with the aid of the firm's deputy chief aerodynamicist has developed a slightly larger craft called the "Puffin" which has now gone about 150 yards through the air.

In Southend, a group of enthusiasts is putting its money on a two-man engine, the two of them pedaling away on a tandem bicycle frame and working the controls with their arms.

There is little attempt just yet to say that the man-powered craft have any practical use. Mr. Masefield calls it a sporting gesture. Most of the designers call it an interesting problem.

The State Of Politics

By David Lawrence

President's Message Has Vote Appeal

Time was when a State of the Union message by the President to Congress was expected to give a frank analysis of what was actually happening inside the United States, as well as legislative proposals dealing with vital problems but in recent years it has become an opportunity for extra publicity through radio and television — a message based largely on political strategy.

David Lawrence

Naturally, it is prepared carefully in an attempt to curry favor with large groups of voters by promising them benefits, special privileges and, particularly, a large share of federal funds.

President Kennedy didn't tell the American people of the chaotic internal situation that the nation faces as it struggles to emerge from one recession when the same basic causes are threatening another economic setback within the next 18 months. He didn't devote a single paragraph to the all-important question of monopoly as practiced by trade union groups.

He spoke only in general terms about desirable self restraints and the importance of productivity and stability. These, however, are meaningless words today in the absence of concrete legislative recommendations to curb monopoly on every side.

The President emphasized, instead, more and more handouts of money, such as possible reductions of some income taxes in the lower brackets. He promised large sums for medical care, which, of course, will be paid for out of an increase in Social Security taxes levied on almost everybody.

The President's message was concerned, too, with getting more votes from the farm group and more votes from the minority groups affected by the civil rights issue.

By promising more funds for education, it sought to line up the teachers' groups with their potential vote-getting apparatus throughout the country.

As a political document, it was cleverly phrased and sufficiently general not to give the opposition too many details of what the program really embraces. The real details will come later, in a series of probably 10 messages.

So far as business is concerned, it was given a small sop in the form of a tiny credit on tax payments — if money is invested in new equipment. But the formula is skimpy and doesn't promise the depreciation allowances across-the-board which are so necessary to help the heavy-goods industries as a whole. This is where unemployment is greatest.

THE IDEA of presidential "stand-by authority" to adjust personal income taxes downward might seem at first glance to be a handout that would benefit a large number of voters, particularly in the lower-tax brackets but they will not know how soon those same taxes will be raised to meet increasing government deficits.

What the President said in the field of foreign policy is not new. He outlines again American purposes and argues that the United States will neither retreat nor complicate matters by a rigid course.

This is a difficult field of policy for the President to describe. For he must come out in favor of further negotiation lest he be criticized as too inflexible. But at the same time, the Russians may derive a hint that the United States is willing to make some concessions.

Ex-Officer Foiled In Bid To Rob Bank

CLEVELAND (AP) — A former California sheriff's deputy was foiled in his attempt to rob a bank in suburban Mayfield Heigh bank in suburan Mayfield Heights by a teller's screams. He then shot himself critically when Cleveland police halted his getaway car.

James Baird Jr., 42, was in critical condition at St. Vincent Charity Hospital. He had a .38-caliber bullet wound in his head. He attempted suicide in his car, stopped by police at East 36th Street and Euclid Avenue Friday.

Police said Baird had used the gun 20 minutes earlier when he tried to hold up the Central National Bank branch in the Eastgate Shoping Center. When Mrs. Irene Crowe screamed at his demand for money, Baird fled empty-handed.

Another teller spotted the getaway car, and police made a county-wide broadcast. Two detectives saw the car speed by and halted it. They drew a gun, but Baird already had fired a bullet into his head.

Baird had been staying with an aunt and uncle in Mayfield Heights since his arrival Wednesday from California.

Police said he recently had been a security guard at San Francisco International Airport, previously was a Marin County deputy and a policeman in Daly City and Sausalito, Calif.

Last Dec. 12, police said, Baird was charged in San Rafael, Calif., with raping the 9-year-old daughter of another Marin County deputy. Records show, police said, that Baird was released on $2,625 bond, but was arrested again Dec. 14 on charges of molesting a 12-year-old girl.

He pleaded innocent to both charges, but failed to appear for a preliminary hearing Dec. 22, it was reported.

5 Youths Face Court In Murder, Car Theft Counts

CINCINNATI (AP)—Five young men were due in Police Court today to face charges of first-degree murder and auto theft in a robbery-killing that yielded only $2.

Two of the men—John M. Bennie, 20, and Jerry Jones, 20—also face charges of rape of a 14-year-old girl.

Fred Wilson, 17; Harold Wilson, 22, and Larry T. Johnson, 23, also of Cincinnati, face similar charges with Bennie and Jones in the killing last Sunday of a service station attendant.

Shellie Mitchell, 34, and Jessie Houze, 25, were charged with Bennie and Jones with rape of a girl in Houze's apartment less than a block from the service station shortly before the robbery-slaying.

Detectives said they recovered the shotgun Friday. They also arrested Albert Brown, 17, in Lexington, Ky., and returned him to Cincinnati as a material witness.

Directors Re-Elected For Potters Savings

Joseph M. Blazer, Winston A. Porter and Richard B. Smith were re-elected to three-year terms on the Board of Directors of the Potters Savings & Loan Co. at the annual stockholders meeting Friday afternoon.

The directors will meet Friday at 1 p. m. to reorganize.

Chester Fire Loss $37,470 During '61

Chester's total fire loss in 1961 amounted to $37,470, over double the $17,350 of 1961, Clarence Lennens, secretary - treasurer, revealed today in the annual report of the Chester fire department.

The 1959 fire loss was only $7,-100.

The 1961 loss included house fires, $14,700; house contents, $8,-730; business buildings, $2,000; business building contents, $10,-040; industrial buildings, $300, and vehicles, $1,700.

Police said they are continuing the investigation and still were at the scene at mid-morning. The Lisbon State Highway Patrol was sent to the scene to offer aid.

Dr. William A. Kolozsi, Columbiana County coroner, viewed the scene last night.

Painter said he has filed charges of driving on the wrong side of the highway and exceeding the speed limit against Hillyer.

He said further charges may be filed. The Columbiana County prosecutor's office conducted an investigation at the scene this morning.

Painter said Hillyer was headed east on Route 30 and struck the tavern after going through the intersection. He said skid marks measured 139 feet.

Ex-Officer Foiled In Bid To Rob Bank

CLEVELAND (AP) — A former California sheriff's deputy was foiled in his attempt to rob a bank in suburban Mayfield Heigh bank in suburan Mayfield Heights by a teller's screams. He then shot himself critically when Cleveland police halted his getaway car.

James Baird Jr., 42, was in critical condition at St. Vincent Charity Hospital. He had a .38-caliber bullet wound in his head. He attempted suicide in his car, stopped by police at East 36th Street and Euclid Avenue Friday.

Police said Baird had used the gun 20 minutes earlier when he tried to hold up the Central National Bank branch in the Eastgate Shoping Center. When Mrs. Irene Crowe screamed at his demand for money, Baird fled empty-handed.

Another teller spotted the getaway car, and police made a county-wide broadcast. Two detectives saw the car speed by and halted it. They drew a gun, but Baird already had fired a bullet into his head.

Baird had been staying with an aunt and uncle in Mayfield Heights since his arrival Wednesday from California.

Police said he recently had been a security guard at San Francisco International Airport, previously was a Marin County deputy and a policeman in Daly City and Sausalito, Calif.

Last Dec. 12, police said, Baird was charged in San Rafael, Calif., with raping the 9-year-old daughter of another Marin County deputy. Records show, police said, that Baird was released on $2,625 bond, but was arrested again Dec. 14 on charges of molesting a 12-year-old girl.

He pleaded innocent to both charges, but failed to appear for a preliminary hearing Dec. 22, it was reported.

5 Youths Face Court In Murder, Car Theft Counts

CINCINNATI (AP)—Five young men were due in Police Court today to face charges of first-degree murder and auto theft in a robbery-killing that yielded only $2.

Two of the men—John M. Bennie, 20, and Jerry Jones, 20—also face charges of rape of a 14-year-old girl.

Fred Wilson, 17; Harold Wilson, 22, and Larry T. Johnson, 23, also of Cincinnati, face similar charges with Bennie and Jones in the killing last Sunday of a service station attendant.

Shellie Mitchell, 34, and Jessie Houze, 25, were charged with Bennie and Jones with rape of a girl in Houze's apartment less than a block from the service station shortly before the robbery-slaying.

Detectives said they recovered the shotgun Friday. They also arrested Albert Brown, 17, in Lexington, Ky., and returned him to Cincinnati as a material witness.

Educator Claimed

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Arthur Schalk, 81, a founder of the nearby town of Fairfield and a retired Ohio State University professor, died at his home Friday.

It was the conviction of St. John Baptist de la Salle that each youth is a prince and must be taught to realize God has "crowned him with honor and glory and set him above all the works of His hands." Yet, each must also realize that all his fellow men are also princes like himself.

The warm spirit of the saint, who gave all his wealth to the poor, manifested itself in the establishment of schools for the sons of working men in the 17th Century, the introduction of group teaching and the normal school to the field of education, and the founding of the teaching order of youth, the Christian Brothers.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

The Drama Of Topanga Canyon

Last November, a terrible fire started on the wooded slopes of the Santa Monica mountains and swept down through Topanga Canyon. An enormous pillar of smoke rose high and spread out, hiding the sun behind a sinister murky glow. White ashes from the conflagration floated far and wide over Los Angeles. The curator of the Southwest Museum — dedicated to the study of the American Indian — told me that back in the days of the first Spanish settlers in California the Indian tribes called the Santa Monica region "the place of a thousand smokes", presumably because it was time and again ravaged by forest fires.

DR. PEALE

In more recent years Topanga Canyon became a topflight residential section, dotted with beautiful, costly homes. Before the fire was checked nearly 500 dwellings were destroyed.

—:—

AT THE TIME, I was in the Beverly Hills area — close enough actually to smell the smoke and see the flames. Of course, I felt sorry for all the people whose homes were up in that canyon. I made telephone calls to several personal friends to find out how they were faring.

I first reached a couple whose house was still unharmed. It was the lady who answered the phone. I asked, "How is the situation out there?"

"Oh, the fire is very close!" she answered in a jittery voice. "I'm so frightened! What will we do if our home burns down?"

"Well, Mary," I said, "you can always get another house." (I knew, immediately on saying this, that it was definitely the wrong thing to say.)

"I'm surprise at you!" she exclaimed. "Why, everything I value is in this house. This is my nest. I'll have you know. If we lose it I just don't know what I will do!"

It's a pathetic state to be in—feeling that if you lose your house your whole world will tumble in. But apparently there was no use trying to help the lady get a more positive slant on the situation. Fortunately her house was spared.

THEN I talked with a friend whose home in Topanga Canyon was a spectacularly beautiful place, high up on a hill, commanding a fabulous view.

I already had heard the bad news that the fire had reached it and burned it to the ground in an hour. I said, "Justin, I'm awfully sorry about your house. Just wanted to tell you so."

"Norman," he replied, "don't have us on your mind. Jane and the kids are safe. So far as the house is concerned, it was only a material thing. Losing it is just one of those roadblocks to hurdle on the road of life. So don't worry about us. If I get into real spiritual difficulties sometime, that's when I'll want some sympathy and encouragement from you."

It is in moments of crisis and misfortune that people reveal their true sense of values. Those who get most upset or discouraged are the ones whose ideas of happiness are most bound up with possessions, wealth, position, status — the worldly things. Men and women awake to spiritual values, on the other hand, often will display strength and insight you didn't know they had.

A THIRD couple of my acquaintance stayed in their Topanga Canyon home until the blaze came sweeping up their street and they could hear trees and shrubs crackling in the flames.

There were great clouds of smoke rolling over the area and finally the police at their door told them they must leave at once. Taking a last quick look around their beautiful living room, they wondered, "What shall we take?"

There would be time to take a valuable painting off the wall, or save a tapestry worth thousands of dollars, or some of their silver. But the wife said, "Let's take the Bible." It was her grandmother's big, family Bible which the wife still used in teaching Sunday school classes. It was full of long-hand notes, the spiritual learning of a lifetime. "Yes," said the husband, "all these other things are of equal value. They are material but that Book is of higher value and with the faith it gives to us we will rebuild our home."

And that Book is what she and her husband took with them as they walked out through the smoke and uproar and on down the canyon, two devoted people serenely carrying the old basic Book in which we read, "My peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

Trinity Church Meeting Planned

The annual ecclesiastical meeting of the congregation of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday at the 11 a. m. worship when elders and deacons will be elected.

$5,604 Given To Campaign Of Palsy Unit

The annual fund drive of the Columbiana County Chapter of the United Cerebral Palsy Association produced a total of $5,604.19 and further contributions may be received later, County Recorder Richard G. Brian, campaign chairman, reported today.

The drive yielded $3,368 in the East Liverpool-Chester area. A house-to-house canvass in the two communities netted $1,939 and special gifts in East Liverpool brought in $1,429.65, Brian said.

Brian said the 1961 drive topped all previous campaigns by $2,200. In former years, the association was forced to conduct two drives each year to raise the money needed to operate its school and nursery, he added.

He estimated that another $1,000 may be received in the next two months. At present, the totals are complete except for the East Palestine report, which has not been filed, Brian said.

He also praised the Columbiana County rural school system for its co-operation in solicitation of students for the drive, made possible by the aid of County Supt. James L. McBride.

The house-to-house canvass and special gifts produced these amounts from other communities: Newell, $188; Wellsville, $545; West Point, $38; Salineville area, $272; Scio, $402, and Lisbon, $358.

In special gifts, these sums were received from other communities: Columbiana, $35; Beloit, $20; East Palestine, $50; Salem, $27; Irondale, $5; Butler, Pa., $5; Steubenville, $5, and Leetonia, $2.

The collection in the county school system yielded $282. The participating schools were United Local, Beaver Local, Calcutta West Point, Rogers, Highlandtown, No. 16 and East Palestine.

$5,604 Given To Campaign Of Palsy Unit

The annual fund drive of the Columbiana County Chapter of the United Cerebral Palsy Association produced a total of $5,604.19 and further contributions may be received later, County Recorder Richard G. Brian, campaign chairman, reported today.

The drive yielded $3,368 in the East Liverpool-Chester area. A house-to-house canvass in the two communities netted $1,939 and special gifts in East Liverpool brought in $1,429.65, Brian said.

Brian said the 1961 drive topped all previous campaigns by $2,200. In former years, the association was forced to conduct two drives each year to raise the money needed to operate its school and nursery, he added.

He estimated that another $1,000 may be received in the next two months. At present, the totals are complete except for the East Palestine report, which has not been filed, Brian said.

He also praised the Columbiana County rural school system for its co-operation in solicitation of students for the drive, made possible by the aid of County Supt. James L. McBride.

The house-to-house canvass and special gifts produced these amounts from other communities: Newell, $188; Wellsville, $545; West Point, $38; Salineville area, $272; Scio, $402, and Lisbon, $358.

In special gifts, these sums were received from other communities: Columbiana, $35; Beloit, $20; East Palestine, $50; Salem, $27; Irondale, $5; Butler, Pa., $5; Steubenville, $5, and Leetonia, $2.

The collection in the county school system yielded $282. The participating schools were United Local, Beaver Local, Calcutta West Point, Rogers, Highlandtown, No. 16 and East Palestine.

FIRST CHURCH of GOD

Rev. Raymond Miller, Pastor

Grant St. and St. Clair Ave., East Liverpool

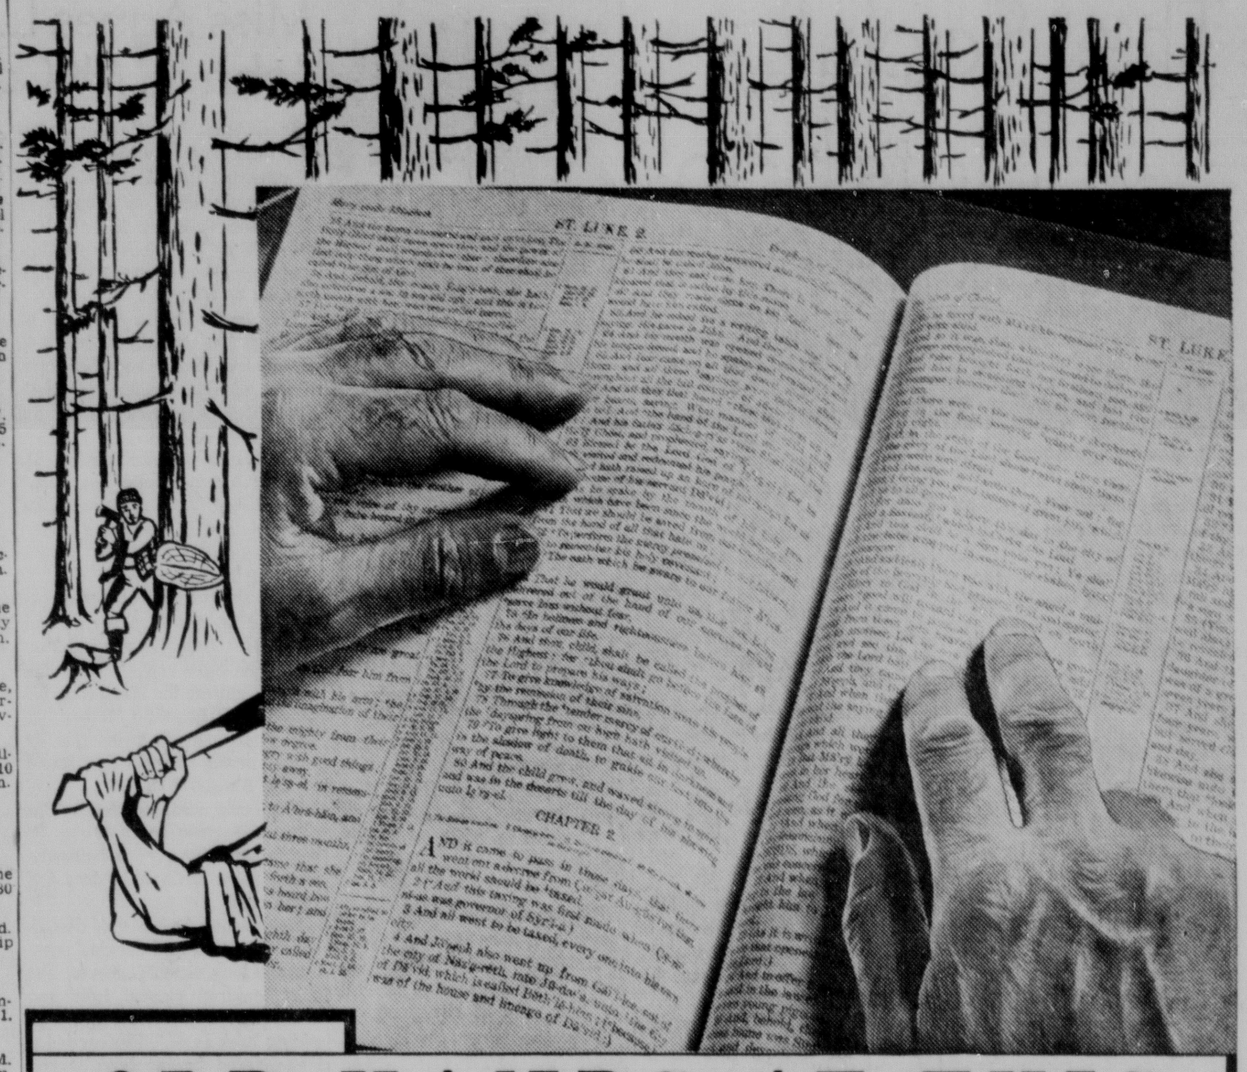
Evangelist Richardson of Cincinnati comes to us from the Billy Graham organization having 15 years evangelistic experience.

These Services Are Open To Every One Of Every Denomination, Race, Creed and Color.

Good preaching, and singing every night. Come and bring a friend. You will receive both a moral and a spiritual uplifting if you do.

The great film, MR. TEXAS will be shown the last night of the meeting, January 21.

PREACHING—BRING A FRIEND—SINGING



OLD HANDS AT THIS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A man who knows nothing about trees may admire a forest. But he'll never make a living in the timber business.

The Bible is like our other resources. It can fill any man with a sense of awe . . . but its rich treasures are for the earnest and patient seeker.

As you've held the Book and leafed its pages, you could almost feel its sacredness. And yet, when you began to read, perhaps it was like plodding an unfamiliar path.

Try again, today. But try with the zeal of the apprentice who counts experience itself a valuable reward. And turn to the Church for the inspiration that its worship and Bible study can provide.

Soon, like the timberman's forest, your Bible will be a friendly place of familiar trails, rich in God-given treasure. For, remember, even old hands once groped to find the Way.

As you've held the Book and leafed its pages, you could almost feel its sacredness. And yet, when you began to read, perhaps it was like plodding an unfamiliar path.

Try again, today. But try with the zeal of the apprentice who counts experience itself a valuable reward. And turn to the Church for the inspiration that its worship and Bible study can provide.

Soon, like the timberman's forest, your Bible will be a friendly place of familiar trails, rich in God-given treasure. For, remember, even old hands once groped to find the Way.

MRS. J. K. McCARRON
Bride Of Wellsville Rites.

Miss Agnes L. McIntosh, John K. McCarron Wed

Miss Agnes Lou McIntosh wore a crystal crown and fingertip veil of imported silk illusion when she became the bride of John Keith McCarron Saturday morning, Dec. 30, at 11 o'clock in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Wellsville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McIntosh of Grandview Ave., and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCarron, 1760 Chester Ave., Wellsville.

Fr Gerald Curran, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with white poinsettia, pines and seven-branch candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Miss Mary Kay Wellington was organist for the High Nuptial Mass. Mrs. Dolly Brophy and Miss Josephine Sgro sang "Pontis Angelicus" during the Mass and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed a bouquet of white mums before the statue of the Blessed Virgin.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle.

The Basque bodice was designed with a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long, tapered sleeves. The skirt featured pleated tulle and lace panels with ruffled, lace tiers adding back accent. She carried a lace-covered prayer book topped with an arrangement of white orchids, lily-of-the-valley and satin streamers. She observed the traditions.

Mrs. Martha Jasenec, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a red velvet sheath fashioned with a silk organza overskirt. A round neckline and three-quarter sleeves highlighted the bodice. Miss Janet Smith and Miss Linda Matthews were bridesmaids and wore dresses identical to that of the matron of honor, which were made by Mrs. Fred Matthews, mother of Miss Matthews. All wore white Dior bows as headpieces and carried white fur muffs trimmed with holly. Gifts from the bride were crystal necklace and earring sets.

Hugh McCarron served as his brother's best man. Joseph Jasenec and Paul Nightingale were ushers. They received cufflink sets from the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a gray faille dress and the bridegroom's mother a beige suit. Both used matching accessories and corsages of white carnations.

Aides were Mrs. Mae Walton, Mrs. Edna Brown, Miss Janice Matthews and Miss Barbara Moore. Junior aides were Barbara McIntosh and Debbie Williams. Miss Darlene McCarron presided at the guest register.

The newlyweds are graduates of Wellsville High School. The bride is employed at the F. W. Woolworth Co. Her husband has completed his Army service and is attending Steubenville College. He is employed at the Homer Laughlin China Co. of Newell. They are receiving friends at 683 Lincoln Ave.

MISS ELVA TRIPLETT
Fiancee Of Clarence Sprouse.

Elva M. Triplett To Be Bride In June Ceremony

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Elva Mae Triplett, daughter of Mrs. Opal Triplett, 1016 Florence St., to Clarence Sprouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Sprouse of Cleveland.

The prospective bride is a member of the Senior Class of East Liverpool High School. Her fiance is an employe of the Davis Paint Co. at Cleveland.

Miss Agnes L. McIntosh, John K. McCarron Wed

Miss Agnes Lou McIntosh wore a crystal crown and fingertip veil of imported silk illusion when she became the bride of John Keith McCarron Saturday morning, Dec. 30, at 11 o'clock in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Wellsville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McIntosh of Grandview Ave., and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCarron, 1760 Chester Ave., Wellsville.

Fr Gerald Curran, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with white poinsettia, pines and seven-branch candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Miss Mary Kay Wellington was organist for the High Nuptial Mass. Mrs. Dolly Brophy and Miss Josephine Sgro sang "Pontis Angelicus" during the Mass and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed a bouquet of white mums before the statue of the Blessed Virgin.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a ballerina-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle.

The Basque bodice was designed with a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long, tapered sleeves. The skirt featured pleated tulle and lace panels with ruffled, lace tiers adding back accent. She carried a lace-covered prayer book topped with an arrangement of white orchids, lily-of-the-valley and satin streamers. She observed the traditions.

Mrs. Martha Jasenec, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a red velvet sheath fashioned with a silk organza overskirt. A round neckline and three-quarter sleeves highlighted the bodice. Miss Janet Smith and Miss Linda Matthews were bridesmaids and wore dresses identical to that of the matron of honor, which were made by Mrs. Fred Matthews, mother of Miss Matthews. All wore white Dior bows as headpieces and carried white fur muffs trimmed with holly. Gifts from the bride were crystal necklace and earring sets.

Hugh McCarron served as his brother's best man. Joseph Jasenec and Paul Nightingale were ushers. They received cufflink sets from the bridegroom.

MRS. J. K. McCARRON
Bride Of Wellsville Rites.

The mother of the bride wore a gray faille dress and the bridegroom's mother a beige suit. Both used matching accessories and corsages of white carnations.

A reception for 150 followed at the Knights of Columbus hall. The bridal table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a four-tier cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. White tapers in crystal candelabra and a silver coffee service completed the setting.

Aides were Mrs. Mae Walton, Mrs. Edna Brown, Miss Janice Matthews and Miss Barbara Moore. Junior aides were Barbara McIntosh and Debbie Williams. Miss Darlene McCarron presided at the guest register.

Annual Science Fair To Be Held At Steubenville

Students in Grades 7 through 12 in schools throughout the area have been invited to take part in the fourth annual Tri-State Science Fair to be held March 2-5 at the Steubenville Arena.

Bruce von der Heydt, general chairman, said details of rules and regulations will be announced soon for the science exhibit which in previous years has been held at Westgate School here.

Although emphasis will be on individual projects, group projects of not more than three students will be eligible.

Over 40 district schools were represented in previous fairs, and prizes, ranging from ribbons to cash and savings bonds, were awarded.

Parents Pay Cost Of Boy's BB Shot

LISBON — The parents of a 11-year-old village boy who fired an airgun and struck the eye of a railroad engineer Dec. 27 were ordered to pay damages by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at a hearing Thursday.

Damages include $81.60 for the window of the engine cab, medical expenses of the engineer and the two days pay he lost. The gun was returned to the dealer, who reimbursed the mother, as the judge ordered.

Police Chief Cleo Mellott reminded parents today of the state law prohibiting anyone younger than 17 from owning or using a regular weapon or an airgun.

Mellott said he reminded store owners twice last fall about selling such items to youths.

Constable Petitions Rehiring In Hanover

LISBON — A petition with approximately 300 signatures will be presented to the Hanover Township trustees at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Township Hall in behalf of Ray Painter of Hanoverton, whose constable job was abolished.

Painter said only five persons refused to sign.

Play House Cast To Give Comedy

The Speech - Arts Department of East Liverpool High School will sponsor a play produced by the touring repertory company of the Cleveland Play House Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at Westgate School.

Shown are Alan Lindgren, Sally Noble and Susan Sadler, cast members of "Arms and the Man," a three-act comedy by George Bernard Shaw. It is a forerunner of "The Chocolate Soldier" and, although it is a satire on war, it does not picture soldiers in battle, just the battle of the boudoir. The playhouse is now in its 46th season and the cast of eight are accomplished drama majors with experience in fields of TV and various stage successes.

H. Keith Langdon, teacher of the department, said the group is sponsoring the play as a fund-raising project and to attempt to see the reaction to live drama, as there have been no productions in this line here for a number of years.

Proceeds will be used for the annual senior play and other purposes. Tickets, at $1.75 for adults and $1.25 for students, may be purchased from members of the department and at the door. There will be no reserved seats.

Lions Hear Teacher

Resource Conservation Seen 'Price Of Survival'

"Conservation is so vital and so interrelated with other problems facing the world that unless we use our natural resources more prudently we are in danger of depleting them," the Lions Club was warned Friday by Walter Lineberry.

"If I had to choose a title for this topic, I believe it would be 'Conservation — The Price of Survival'," he said.

"Conservation must become a way of life and of thinking; thinking in terms of what our grandchildren will have, or else we are in danger of depleting the most valuable resource — man himself," the science teacher at Beaver Local High School told the club at the Travelers Hotel.

"It behooves us to educate our children to the idea of conservation," he continued, explaining it is tied closely to demography, a statistical study of populations. And the population explosion is significant in world politics and what it means to us as a nation and a community, he added.

Lineberry pointed out natural resources were consumed in World War II and are being consumed now to maintain the standard of living "at an alarming rate."

Unless we learn to use them more prudently, we may run short of some, perhaps in our own times. However, they still are adequate if we use them wisely, the science instructor said.

Demographers estimate the world population by the year 2000 will be nearly 6 billion, more than double the population at the time of World War II. And the rate of increase in the United States is faster than that of the world.

Some estimate Ohio will be a continuous city by 2000, he added.

There is no substitute for soil or for food grown in the soil although scientists have attempted to find substitutes. Although it is a necessity and priceless, a hard rain, within 60 minutes, can remove an inch of top soil, which has taken centuries to produce, Lineberry declared.

"There's a parallel between good soil and good health which makes it obvious that we must replenish the soil and keep it fertile. But in the last 100 years, much of the land has been destroyed or eroded chiefly because of a lack of concern."

Water is taken for granted yet streams are polluted although legislation has been passed to clean up the streams. However, natural springs, once plentiful, are seldom seen today, he continued.

"Again, it's a matter of land cover and replacement of forests and grasslands," Lineberry said.

He pointed out mineral resources probably are chiefly responsible for our standard of living. Yet more than half the coal ever produced has been taken out of the ground in the last 50 years.

The United States has 45 per cent of the World's reserve, which should be sufficient if used wisely although it may be more expensive to mine.

But at the present rate, petroleum may last only 15 to 20 years, he said, adding that high grade iron ore has been depleted; little copper remains and lead is going fast.

"The need for conservation runs throughout the world situation where the free world and the communist bloc are attempting to influence the undecided peoples. And the chief problem is to show them how to increase their standard of living," he said.

Lineberry explained he became actively interested in conservation when he attended a summer conservation laboratory at Leesville two years ago where all phases of conservation were studied.

Ohio Tax Chief Urges Change In Tax Structure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Improved collection measures and equity within the present tax structure are urged by Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers.

Appearing before a legislative subcommittee studying state and local government financing Friday, Bowers suggested tax revision instead of new taxes.

He said real property tax revision should receive first attention because of variances in assessment standards. He also recommended creation of a three-member board to equalize assessments, a task he said the present Board of Tax Appeals should not handle.

Bowers called for changes in farm personal property taxation and said that real agricultural property generally is underassessed.

The legislative subcommittee is headed by Rep. Fred K. Cassel, R-Wyandot. Results of the study will be submitted to the 1963 General Assembly.

Burned-Out Couple Finds Another Home

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mays, whose Y. & O. home was destroyed by fire Jan. 5, are expected to move shortly into another home on Cain St., Harry Reckner, Glenmoor fire chief, reported today.

Reckner said the elderly couple has expressed appreciation to friends, neighbors, firemen and others who helped them with furniture, clothing and other assistance.

The Wellsville Board of Education has contributed $50 from its salary fund for purchase of new books for the Hillcrest-Fairview School, it was announced when the Parent - Teacher Association met Thursday night.

The books will be added to the collection purchased last fall by the PTA for $200 for the school library.

New bookcases built by the homeroom mothers were displayed.

Mrs. Mabel Richards reported 85 new members, while Mrs. Wilmer Ralston said $185 was netted in a sale of Christmas novelties.

Mrs. Loretta Hawksworth, president, conducted business and led the Pledge of Alegiance. The Rev. James Sanko of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church led devotions.

The attendance banner was awarded Mrs. Frances Jack's first grade. The fourth grade homeroom mothers served refreshments, with Mrs. Ann Jones as chairman.

Next meeting is Feb. 8.

125 Attend Training Event For 4-H Staffs

LISBON — About 125 attended the first of two 4-H advisors and officers conferences for 1962 Thursday night at the Lincoln School.

Instructors were Floyd Lower and Miss Julia Shank for the advisors; Harold Windram for presidents and vice presidents; O. J. Harrold for secretaries and treasurers; the Rev. William Brown for devotions; Miss G. C. Hartley of Youngstown, recreation; Don Myers for health and safety leaders, and Al Hartman, reporters.

Mrs. Roger Stafford of Minerva R. D. 2, accompanied by Mrs. James Pendry of Lisbon, discussed and held group singing, and Miss Shank and Myers explained the relation of the 4-H Clubs with the extension service program.

Chester Girl Passes State Exam For Nurse

Miss Jane Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Miller of Carolina Ave., Chester, has passed the Ohio State Board examination for registered nurses, and plans to go to Boston in March for post-graduate work in obstetrics.

Miss Miller was graduated in September from the Ohio Valley Hospital School of Nursing at Steubenville and is currently in the obstetrical department.

A 1958 graduate of Chester High School, Miss Miller received a national merit rating in all subjects in the state exam taken at Columbus.

"I often think of joining the weight problem instead of trying to lick it. One young woman I know did just that. She tried everything to reduce. Finally she decided to buy a new wardrobe in her large size and be happy with what she had.

"I'm tempted to follow that path myself. It's easier to remain in a rut than climb out of it. And it's easier to adhere to an old, established improper pattern than to create a new and proper one.

"I know that youth, beauty and vitality are to be gained but apparently I am not willing to contribute Effort to the cause. Any encouraging words from you would be greatly appreciated," she concluded.

THE TROUBLE is you are not convinced you want to diet, and this indecision keeps you from going ahead. Do some straight thinking before you leap into that larger size!

Joining the problem is merely rationalizing. This substitute for action lulls you into contentment, temporarily. Your weight will not hold steady, even at a higher level. It doesn't take much overindulgence to gain two to three pounds a year.

Also, with each passing decade, nature uses 5 to 7 per cent less fuel to run the body. What size will you be in another ten years? It is harder to reduce at 40 than it is at 30. You are saying in effect that you have decided to put yourself in a worse hole than you are in at present!

Thirty years of age is beautifully young. Why not make up your mind to discover the joy of being slim, feeling young and having fun? The choice is yours.

Adventure with a different plan. Instead of trying to hew to a diet, which obviously bores you, swing into action and slim down by losing bulky inches. Exercise can help you to come alive. . .and pull out of the rut, mentally and physically.

Turn on a tune. . .music lifts the feet. Or get a set of exercise records, or turn on a TV exercise session. You might like to join an exercise-dance class. When you begin to feel lithe and limber, you won't want to sit and stuff.

Census Will Seek Purchasing Data

The January Current Population Survey will include special questions on plans to purchase automobiles, television sets, washing machines, and refrigerators, the U. S. Census Bureau announced today.

This is part of a quarterly survey being made at the request of the Federal Reserve Board for use in a national study of consumer buying trends.

At the request of the Defense Department, home owners in the Current Population Survey panel will be asked if they have a fallout shelter of if they intend to install one within the next 12 months. Another special question will cover television set ownership. This question is being asked at the request of the Advertising Research Foundation.

The special questions on consumer buying plans, television set ownership, and fallout shelters are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Current Population Survey.

The Current Population Survey will be conducted here and in 332 other sample areas of the country during next week. Information will be collected locally by: Mrs. Goldie Steele, 507 Commerce St., Wellsville.

Industry Club Sets Meeting

The Industry Women's Club will meet Thursday night at 8 at the home of the president, Mrs. William Chapman, of the Midland-Beaver Rd., instead of the Ohio View School as previously announced. The school is temporarily closed because of furnace trouble.

The Executive Board met Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. William Ralph.

Mrs. Chapman presided and announced that Mrs. John Gordon and Mrs. O. J. Lee will assist the hostess chairman, Mrs. Jack M. Peck, at the meeting.

Articles for Dixmont State Hospital will be collected.

A public card party will be sponsored Friday at 8 p.m. in the fire hall by the Industry volunteer fire department auxiliary.

Prizes and refreshments will be featured.

Mrs. Alan Leiffer, general chairman, said tickets may be purchased from any member.

Mrs. Fred Wilton of Ohio View has returned following a five-day visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kennedy, in Mt. Lebanon.

Annual Science Fair To Be Held At Steubenville

Students in Grades 7 through 12 in schools throughout the area have been invited to take part in the fourth annual Tri-State Science Fair to be held March 2-5 at the Steubenville Arena.

Bruce von der Heydt, general chairman, said details of rules and regulations will be announced soon for the science exhibit which in previous years has been held at Westgate School here.

Although emphasis will be on individual projects, group projects of not more than three students will be eligible.

Over 40 district schools were represented in previous fairs, and prizes, ranging from ribbons to cash and savings bonds, were awarded.

Parents Pay Cost Of Boy's BB Shot

LISBON — The parents of a 11-year-old village boy who fired an airgun and struck the eye of a railroad engineer Dec. 27 were ordered to pay damages by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at a hearing Thursday.

Damages include $81.60 for the window of the engine cab, medical expenses of the engineer and the two days pay he lost. The gun was returned to the dealer, who reimbursed the mother, as the judge ordered.

Police Chief Cleo Mellott reminded parents today of the state law prohibiting anyone younger than 17 from owning or using a regular weapon or an airgun.

Mellott said he reminded store owners twice last fall about selling such items to youths.

Constable Petitions Rehiring In Hanover

LISBON — A petition with approximately 300 signatures will be presented to the Hanover Township trustees at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Township Hall in behalf of Ray Painter of Hanoverton, whose constable job was abolished.

Painter said only five persons refused to sign.

Filling Station Aide Reports $400 Theft

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—A filling station attendant reported a $400 robbery today and told sheriff's deputies he doesn't know who did it.

Ronald Taylor said he went into the rest room and someone locked the door from the outside. When he got out 12 minutes later, the money was gone, he said.

Play House Cast To Give Comedy

The Speech - Arts Department of East Liverpool High School will sponsor a play produced by the touring repertory company of the Cleveland Play House Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at Westgate School.

Shown are Alan Lindgren, Sally Noble and Susan Sadler, cast members of "Arms and the Man," a three-act comedy by George Bernard Shaw. It is a forerunner of "The Chocolate Soldier" and, although it is a satire on war, it does not picture soldiers in battle, just the battle of the boudoir. The playhouse is now in its 46th season and the cast of eight are accomplished drama majors with experience in fields of TV and various stage successes.

H. Keith Langdon, teacher of the department, said the group is sponsoring the play as a fund-raising project and to attempt to see the reaction to live drama, as there have been no productions in this line here for a number of years.

Proceeds will be used for the annual senior play and other purposes. Tickets, at $1.75 for adults and $1.25 for students, may be purchased from members of the department and at the door. There will be no reserved seats.

Lions Hear Teacher

Resource Conservation Seen 'Price Of Survival'

"Conservation is so vital and so interrelated with other problems facing the world that unless we use our natural resources more prudently we are in danger of depleting them," the Lions Club was warned Friday by Walter Lineberry.

"If I had to choose a title for this topic, I believe it would be 'Conservation — The Price of Survival'," he said.

"Conservation must become a way of life and of thinking; thinking in terms of what our grandchildren will have, or else we are in danger of depleting the most valuable resource — man himself," the science teacher at Beaver Local High School told the club at the Travelers Hotel.

"It behooves us to educate our children to the idea of conservation," he continued, explaining it is tied closely to demography, a statistical study of populations. And the population explosion is significant in world politics and what it means to us as a nation and a community, he added.

Lineberry pointed out natural resources were consumed in World War II and are being consumed now to maintain the standard of living "at an alarming rate."

Unless we learn to use them more prudently, we may run short of some, perhaps in our own times. However, they still are adequate if we use them wisely, the science instructor said.

Demographers estimate the world population by the year 2000 will be nearly 6 billion, more than double the population at the time of World War II. And the rate of increase in the United States is faster than that of the world.

Some estimate Ohio will be a continuous city by 2000, he added.

There is no substitute for soil or for food grown in the soil although scientists have attempted to find substitutes. Although it is a necessity and priceless, a hard rain, within 60 minutes, can remove an inch of top soil, which has taken centuries to produce, Lineberry declared.

"There's a parallel between good soil and good health which makes it obvious that we must replenish the soil and keep it fertile. But in the last 100 years, much of the land has been destroyed or eroded chiefly because of a lack of concern."

Water is taken for granted yet streams are polluted although legislation has been passed to clean up the streams. However, natural springs, once plentiful, are seldom seen today, he continued.

"Again, it's a matter of land cover and replacement of forests and grasslands," Lineberry said.

He pointed out mineral resources probably are chiefly responsible for our standard of living. Yet more than half the coal ever produced has been taken out of the ground in the last 50 years.

The United States has 45 per cent of the World's reserve, which should be sufficient if used wisely although it may be more expensive to mine.

But at the present rate, petroleum may last only 15 to 20 years, he said, adding that high grade iron ore has been depleted; little copper remains and lead is going fast.

"The need for conservation runs throughout the world situation where the free world and the communist bloc are attempting to influence the undecided peoples. And the chief problem is to show them how to increase their standard of living," he said.

Lineberry explained he became actively interested in conservation when he attended a summer conservation laboratory at Leesville two years ago where all phases of conservation were studied.

Ohio Tax Chief Urges Change In Tax Structure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Improved collection measures and equity within the present tax structure are urged by Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers.

Appearing before a legislative subcommittee studying state and local government financing Friday, Bowers suggested tax revision instead of new taxes.

He said real property tax revision should receive first attention because of variances in assessment standards. He also recommended creation of a three-member board to equalize assessments, a task he said the present Board of Tax Appeals should not handle.

Bowers called for changes in farm personal property taxation and said that real agricultural property generally is underassessed.

The legislative subcommittee is headed by Rep. Fred K. Cassel, R-Wyandot. Results of the study will be submitted to the 1963 General Assembly.

Midland Rips New Brighton, 57-37, In 4th League Win

Wellsville Gains Easy 64-37 Victory Over Chester Five

JANUARY 13, 1962 EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 10

Aloi, Lake Shine In 13th Straight

By ANDY NUZZO

A 37-point scoring burst in the second half propelled the Midland Leopards to a decisive 57-37 victory over the New Brighton Lions Friday night at New Brighton.

The victory was the 13th straight for Hank Kuzma's unbeaten chargers and their fourth straight in Section 8 play.

Al Aloi and Rich Lake sparked the Leopards, scoring 21 and 18 points respectively.

New Brighton was led by their diminutive guard, Bill Maybray, who poured 19 points through the hoop with long jump shots.

Neither team was hot from the field. Midland dropped in 19 of 55 shots for 35 per cent and New Brighton hit on 14 of 66 shots for a miserable 21 per cent.

The Leopards out - rebounded the Lions, 49-44. Bill Sallis was high with 14 rebounds, followed closely by Sam Forester and Aloi who pulled down 12 and 10 respectively.

Midland had its hands full in the first half. New Brighton jumped off to a quick 4-0 lead and the Leopards didn't register a field goal until the 5:50 mark of the opening period, when Rich Lake sotle the ball and drove for a lay-up.

Aloi followed him with a jumper from the side and Sallis added a free throw to give Midland a short - lived 5-4 lead.

New Brighton came back and had a six-point lead with one minute left in the first period, 14-8.

Aloi dropped in two free throws with 22 seconds remaining in the quarter to cut the lead to 14-10, which is how it stood at the end of the first period.

Midland tied the game at 14-14 with 6:25 left in the second stanza when Aloi canned another jumper from the side and Lake took a pass from Harry Petrosky and broke loose for an easy lay-up.

But Maybray wasted no time in putting the Lions back in front by swishing a jump shot from the side. It was the last time New Brighton held the lead.

Lake then stole the ball and sank another easy lay - up and Aloi added two fielders as Midland took a slim 20-16 lead to the dressing room at the half.

Midland put the game out of reach in the third stanza with an 11-point spree.

It started when Lake sank a free throw to give Midland a 22-18 lead with a little over four minutes remaining in the third period.

Aloi, Lake, and Sallis then connected on successive jumpers, Aloi added two free throws and Lake sank another jumper to give Midland a 32-18 lead with 2:18 remaining in the third period.

The Leopards moved out to a 39-25 third quarter advantage and poured it on in the final stanza to win going away.

In the preliminary, Ed Olkowski's Midland JV squad romped to an easy victory over the New Brighton JV's, 48-23. Henry Slappy had 18 points and Ray Hoppa had 16 to lead the Leopard JV's.

Tuesday night Midland will entertain the Rochester Rams in a Section 8 scrap.

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

They won't come much easier for Wellsville High than that 64-37 romp over Chester's Panthers Friday night.

Rolling to a big lead early in the first period, the Tigers eased to their third victory in six games with only a brief taste of what rightly could be called opposition.

McDevitt's tall starters needed only one quarter to put the game out of reach of the inaccurate-shooting Panthers.

Ripping Chester's zone defense to shreds with perhaps their best markmanship of the year, the varsity crew posted a 20-8 first period lead, then slowed considerably to lead by 28-14 at halftime.

After that, the reserves kept the rout in progress and helped guard Roger Ours and center Steve Baldwin fatten their scoring averages via a fast-break attack.

OURS, 5-8 senior, pumped in 21 points and Baldwin, 6-6 junior, connected on six jump shots for 12 to lead the favored Tigers to victory.

Most of Baldwin's field goals were from the key area and the big center appears to have sharpened his shooting eye. He shows 116 points in his seven games of the season, a 16.5 average.

The West Virginians' shooting was almost atrocious at times, particularly in the second quarter when the Gold and Blue missed 13 straight attempts. The period found them making one of 17 shots.

Poor shooting (13 of 57 for 22 per cent), mental errors and a shabby defense led to the sixth loss in nine games for Coach Max Tuttle's Panthers.

WELLSVILLE used a full-court press to effectively slow down Chester's attack, but when the Panthers did succeed in moving the ball upcourt, they usually missed their shots.

Blaine Pinney fought gamely for rebounds in the first half, but the 6-2 senior center appeared to tire in the second and saw his worthwhile effort go for nil. He led Chester's 13-goal attack with nine points.

Jim Conkle, a starter who was benched early, clicked on four straight shots in the final quarter to finish with eight, while Jerry Smith matched his accumulation with two goals and four of six free throws.

Coach McDevitt indicated he was somewhat pleased with the improved shooting of the Tigers, but commented the defensive maneuvers of several starters need added work.

EVERYONE but two who saw action for Wellsville broke into the scoring column. Starter Jim Powell got six, while Forrest Harris contributed five and Ed Nelson two.

As a squad, the Tigers shot 46 per cent in making 29 of 63. They hit nine of 19 in the first quarter, three of 12 in the second, 12 of 20 in the third, and five of 12 in the final.

The preliminary game found Wellsville's reserves also gaining a decisive victory, 56-21, over Chester's reserves. The losers were behind, 14-1, at the end of the first period.

Wilson and Andy Dash scored nine points to top the attack of Coach Chuck McMillan's winners, while the swift Mark Leyda added eight. Mayhew's five points led the losers.

Spires Hits For 36 In Stanton's Ninth

IRONDALE — Stanton Local and Don "The Stilt" Spires got warmed up for its meeting with Beaver Local here tonight by lacing Smithfield, 79-56, Friday.

All Spires did Friday night was hit a new season's high of 36 points to pace Coach Harry Diehl's club to its ninth straight victory.

Spires dropped in 14 field goals and eight charity tosses to account for the total. Jim Leedy and Bob Mills consistently set Spires up with neat passes to the 6-foot-7 ace.

Leedy wound up with 13 points for the evening but Mills, Stanton's No. 2 scorer, only played about half of the contest when he came up with four personal fouls with only a minute gone in the third quarter. He added nine points to the attack.

The previous high for Spires this season was a 32-point performance against Wintersville. The 36 last night shoots him over the 200 marks and gives the all-stater 215 in nine games.

Stanton took a smashing 25-8 lead at the first quarter and ran it up to 45-19 by halftime.

Smithfield, which now shows a 1-8 record, was paced by Beany with 19 points and Krulcik's 16 markers.

Columbiana Tops Lisbon Five, 58-53

LISBON — Coach Gary Pike's Lisbon five led throughout the first half, but fell behind in the final two periods and dropped a 58-53 decision to Tri-County foe Columbiana here Friday night.

Lisbon sported a 24-20 lead at halftime, but Columbiana didn't stay down for long by grabbing a 41-38 edge to take into the fourth period.

Paul Schultz fired in 19 points and Dale Murphy added 13 to lead the way.

Three Lisbon starters gained the double figures with Dave McPherson's 13 tops. Jeff Henry added 12 and Craig Pannier had 10.

Crestview Keeps Unbeaten String

Undefeated Crestview was given one of its stiffer tests of the season, but handled the task with perfection by coming from behind to trip Lordstown, 69-62, Friday night on the winner's floor.

The latest victory was Crestview's ninth straight and leaves the Rebels among three unbeaten teams in the district.

Crestview led at the end of the first quarter, 22-16, but fell behind, 39-34, at halftime. Bruce Weber must have pulled some Knute Rockne tactics at halftime for Crestview came out and shot in front at the end of the third period, 51-46.

Lordstown captured the reserve game, 34-24.

Salem Stomps Warren In First Big 8 Test

SALEM — Coach John Cabas' Quakers passed their first Big 8 conference test with flying colors by trouncing Warren, 80-57, here Friday night.

Bob Eskay, one of four Salem starters in the double figures, led the attack with 20 points while teammates Bill Beery, John Borrelli and Gary Jeffries dropped in 16, 14 and 11 points respectively.

Warren kept the game tight for the first half and only trailed the Quakers by one point, 28-27.

Eskay tallied 12 points in the third quarter when Salem got red hot to whip into the lead, 52-39.

Warren's Jim Gardner scored 14 points but the 6-foot-7 center fouled out in the third quarter.

NCAA Eyes Plan To Stamp Out Gambling And Bribery

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association's 56th annual convention was prepared to ballot today on six major proposals, including a program aimed at stamping out a gambling and bribery menace.

Concluding a weeklong session in which various proposals were put in voting form by the policy-making council and reporting committees, the full membership was to ballot on these proposals:

1. NCAA backing of national federations in track, basketball and gymnastic groups in opposition to AAU control of these sports in international competition.
2. A 16-point program to combat the gambling and bribery menace.
3. A national "letter of intent" to control enrollment intentions of prospective college athletes.
4. A college-backed program to comply with President Kennedy's physical fitness proposals.
5. More vigorous opposition to premature signing of collegiate football players by professional teams.
6. Establishment of a certification program for college all-star football games.

Also on tap, but expected to be defeated, was a proposal by Notre Dame to revise the NCAA rules committee structure to give the committee authority to rule on disputed contests where interpretation of rules by game officials is questioned.

The Irish made good on a second field goal try to win over Syracuse after time had expired. However the Big Ten and Eastern college athletic commissioners, who provided the game officials, and Gen. Robert Neyland, chairman of the NCAA rules committee, ruled the replay was in error.

The NCAA vs AAU hassle still is in a tug-of-war stage and, regardless of any action today on the proposals for separate national sports federations, the battle still may be settled without White House or international arbitration as has been suggested by both sides.

NCAA leaders indicate the door still is open for a settlement of differences which mainly involve collegiate demands for equal voice with the AAU in control of international competition by American amateur athletes.

Minnesota Aims For Big 10 Lead In Iowa TV Tilt

By The Associated Press

The only other team which has not lost in the conference, Ohio State (1-0), is at home tonight against lowly Michigan (0-2).

Should Minnesota, which has scored home-court victories over Purdue and Indiana, defeat Iowa, the Gophers then get their supreme test against Ohio State at Minneapolis next Saturday.

Leetonia Five Pulls Upset

MINERVA — Leetonia pulled a mild upset Friday night by turning back Minerva, 56-49, in a Tri-County battle.

Coach Len Batcha's team showed three starters contributing heavily to the attack with Henry Nemez collecting 15 to lead the drive, Rush Lehman and Francis Goering added 11 each.

Leetonia led most of the way, taking an 18-9 first quarter margin which was later chopped to 39-29 at halftime. The winners pulled in front again, 44-39, after three quarters.

The reserve game went to Minerva, 59-17.

Midland Rips New Brighton, 57-37, In 4th League Win

Wellsville Gains Easy 64-37 Victory Over Chester Five

Aloi, Lake Shine In 13th Straight

By ANDY NUZZO

A 37-point scoring burst in the second half propelled the Midland Leopards to a decisive 57-37 victory over the New Brighton Lions Friday night at New Brighton.

The victory was the 13th straight for Hank Kuzma's unbeaten chargers and their fourth straight in Section 8 play.

Al Aloi and Rich Lake sparked the Leopards, scoring 21 and 18 points respectively.

New Brighton was led by their diminutive guard, Bill Maybray, who poured 19 points through the hoop with long jump shots.

Neither team was hot from the field. Midland dropped in 19 of 55 shots for 35 per cent and New Brighton hit on 14 of 66 shots for a miserable 21 per cent.

The Leopards out - rebounded the Lions, 49-44. Bill Sallis was high with 14 rebounds, followed closely by Sam Forester and Aloi who pulled down 12 and 10 respectively.

Midland had its hands full in the first half. New Brighton jumped off to a quick 4-0 lead and the Leopards didn't register a field goal until the 5:50 mark of the opening period, when Rich Lake sotle the ball and drove for a lay-up.

Aloi followed him with a jumper from the side and Sallis added a free throw to give Midland a short - lived 5-4 lead.

New Brighton came back and had a six-point lead with one minute left in the first period, 14-8.

Aloi dropped in two free throws with 22 seconds remaining in the quarter to cut the lead to 14-10, which is how it stood at the end of the first period.

Midland tied the game at 14-14 with 6:25 left in the second stanza when Aloi canned another jumper from the side and Lake took a pass from Harry Petrosky and broke loose for an easy lay-up.

But Maybray wasted no time in putting the Lions back in front by swishing a jump shot from the side. It was the last time New Brighton held the lead.

Lake then stole the ball and sank another easy lay - up and Aloi added two fielders as Midland took a slim 20-16 lead to the dressing room at the half.

Midland put the game out of reach in the third stanza with an 11-point spree.

It started when Lake sank a free throw to give Midland a 22-18 lead with a little over four minutes remaining in the third period.

Aloi, Lake, and Sallis then connected on successive jumpers, Aloi added two free throws and Lake sank another jumper to give Midland a 32-18 lead with 2:18 remaining in the third period.

The Leopards moved out to a 39-25 third quarter advantage and poured it on in the final stanza to win going away.

In the preliminary, Ed Olkowski's Midland JV squad romped to an easy victory over the New Brighton JV's, 48-23. Henry Slappy had 18 points and Ray Hoppa had 16 to lead the Leopard JV's.

Tuesday night Midland will entertain the Rochester Rams in a Section 8 scrap.

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

They won't come much easier for Wellsville High than that 64-37 romp over Chester's Panthers Friday night.

Rolling to a big lead early in the first period, the Tigers eased to their third victory in six games with only a brief taste of what rightly could be called opposition.

McDevitt's tall starters needed only one quarter to put the game out of reach of the inaccurate-shooting Panthers.

Ripping Chester's zone defense to shreds with perhaps their best markmanship of the year, the varsity crew posted a 20-8 first period lead, then slowed considerably to lead by 28-14 at halftime.

After that, the reserves kept the rout in progress and helped guard Roger Ours and center Steve Baldwin fatten their scoring averages via a fast-break attack.

OURS, 5-8 senior, pumped in 21 points and Baldwin, 6-6 junior, connected on six jump shots for 12 to lead the favored Tigers to victory.

Most of Baldwin's field goals were from the key area and the big center appears to have sharpened his shooting eye. He shows 116 points in his seven games of the season, a 16.5 average.

The West Virginians' shooting was almost atrocious at times, particularly in the second quarter when the Gold and Blue missed 13 straight attempts. The period found them making one of 17 shots.

Poor shooting (13 of 57 for 22 per cent), mental errors and a shabby defense led to the sixth loss in nine games for Coach Max Tuttle's Panthers.

WELLSVILLE used a full-court press to effectively slow down Chester's attack, but when the Panthers did succeed in moving the ball upcourt, they usually missed their shots.

Blaine Pinney fought gamely for rebounds in the first half, but the 6-2 senior center appeared to tire in the second and saw his worthwhile effort go for nil. He led Chester's 13-goal attack with nine points.

Jim Conkle, a starter who was benched early, clicked on four straight shots in the final quarter to finish with eight, while Jerry Smith matched his accumulation with two goals and four of six free throws.

Coach McDevitt indicated he was somewhat pleased with the improved shooting of the Tigers, but commented the defensive maneuvers of several starters need added work.

EVERYONE but two who saw action for Wellsville broke into the scoring column. Starter Jim Powell got six, while Forrest Harris contributed five and Ed Nelson two.

As a squad, the Tigers shot 46 per cent in making 29 of 63. They hit nine of 19 in the first quarter, three of 12 in the second, 12 of 20 in the third, and five of 12 in the final.

The preliminary game found Wellsville's reserves also gaining a decisive victory, 56-21, over Chester's reserves. The losers were behind, 14-1, at the end of the first period.

Wilson and Andy Dash scored nine points to top the attack of Coach Chuck McMillan's winners, while the swift Mark Leyda added eight. Mayhew's five points led the losers.

Spires Hits For 36 In Stanton's Ninth

IRONDALE — Stanton Local and Don "The Stilt" Spires got warmed up for its meeting with Beaver Local here tonight by lacing Smithfield, 79-56, Friday.

All Spires did Friday night was hit a new season's high of 36 points to pace Coach Harry Diehl's club to its ninth straight victory.

Spires dropped in 14 field goals and eight charity tosses to account for the total. Jim Leedy and Bob Mills consistently set Spires up with neat passes to the 6-foot-7 ace.

Leedy wound up with 13 points for the evening but Mills, Stanton's No. 2 scorer, only played about half of the contest when he came up with four personal fouls with only a minute gone in the third quarter. He added nine points to the attack.

The previous high for Spires this season was a 32-point performance against Wintersville. The 36 last night shoots him over the 200 marks and gives the all-stater 215 in nine games.

Stanton took a smashing 25-8 lead at the first quarter and ran it up to 45-19 by halftime.

Smithfield, which now shows a 1-8 record, was paced by Beany with 19 points and Krulcik's 16 markers.

Salem Stomps Warren In First Big 8 Test

Bob Eskay, one of four Salem starters in the double figures, led the attack with 20 points while teammates Bill Beery, John Borrelli and Gary Jeffries dropped in 16, 14 and 11 points respectively.

Warren kept the game tight for the first half and only trailed the Quakers by one point, 28-27.

Eskay tallied 12 points in the third quarter when Salem got red hot to whip into the lead, 52-39.

NCAA Eyes Plan To Stamp Out Gambling And Bribery

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association's 56th annual convention was prepared to ballot today on six major proposals, including a program aimed at stamping out a gambling and bribery menace.

Concluding a weeklong session in which various proposals were put in voting form by the policy-making council and reporting committees, the full membership was to ballot on these proposals:

1. NCAA backing of national federations in track, basketball and gymnastic groups in opposition to AAU control of these sports in international competition.

2. A 16-point program to combat the gambling and bribery menace.

3. A national "letter of intent" to control enrollment intentions of prospective college athletes.

4. A college-backed program to comply with President Kennedy's physical fitness proposals.

5. More vigorous opposition to premature signing of collegiate football players by professional teams.

6. Establishment of a certification program for college all-star football games.

Also on tap, but expected to be defeated, was a proposal by Notre Dame to revise the NCAA rules committee structure to give the committee authority to rule on disputed contests where interpretation of rules by game officials is questioned.

The Irish made good on a second field goal try to win over Syracuse after time had expired. However the Big Ten and Eastern college athletic commissioners, who provided the game officials, and Gen. Robert Neyland, chairman of the NCAA rules committee, ruled the replay was in error.

The NCAA vs AAU hassle still is in a tug-of-war stage and, regardless of any action today on the proposals for separate national sports federations, the battle still may be settled without White House or international arbitration as has been suggested by both sides.

NCAA leaders indicate the door still is open for a settlement of differences which mainly involve collegiate demands for equal voice with the AAU in control of international competition by American amateur athletes.

Minnesota Aims For Big 10 Lead In Iowa TV Tilt

By The Associated Press

The only other team which has not lost in the conference, Ohio State (1-0), is at home tonight against lowly Michigan (0-2).

Should Minnesota, which has scored home-court victories over Purdue and Indiana, defeat Iowa, the Gophers then get their supreme test against Ohio State at Minneapolis next Saturday.

Two other Big Ten games are scheduled tonight: Illinois (1-1) at Michigan State (0-2) and Northwestern (0-2) at Purdue (1-1).

Crestview Keeps Unbeaten String

Undefeated Crestview was given one of its stiffer tests of the season, but handled the task with perfection by coming from behind to trip Lordstown, 69-62, Friday night on the winner's floor.

The latest victory was Crestview's ninth straight and leaves the Rebels among three unbeaten teams in the district.

Crestview led at the end of the first quarter, 22-16, but fell behind, 39-34, at halftime. Bruce Weber must have pulled some Knute Rockne tactics at halftime for Crestview came out and shot in front at the end of the third period, 51-46.

Allen paced the balanced attack displayed by Lordstown with 16 points as all five starters hit in the double figures.

Toronto's 1-2 Punch Stops Beaver Local Quint, 58-48

Sciance, Coulter Net 44

The loss broke a brief two-game winning streak for the Beavers who now stand 3-4 on the season.

Toronto's double-barreled attack accounted for 44 points as Sciance hooped 25 and Coulter got 19.

The Red Knights gained a 14-8 lead at the end of the first quarter and then picked up a 28-19 edge at halftime. The third quarter ended with Toronto still on top, 44-33.

Beaver Local, who had conquered Carrollton and Chester in consecutive order, couldn't get its offense in gear. Junior George Gaydos again topped the Beavers with 14 points while Tom Greenwood fired in 12.

Coach Tom McCall and his squad have their work cut out tonight when the Beavers visit Stanton Local, which has won nine straight contests.

Toronto's reserve squad picked up a 50-40 victory in the preliminary contest.

N. Cumberland Beaten In Last Three Seconds

St. Anthony's Martino dropped in a foul shot with three seconds remaining to give his squad a tense 52-51 victory over New Cumberland Friday night at Follansbee.

The foul shot broke a 51-51 deadlock and sent the Blue Raiders to their sixth defeat in 10 starts.

Simmonetti led the scoring for St. Anthony's with 17 points, but Cicolella was the hero when he tossed in 10 of his 14 points in the last quarter.

New Cumberland, behind 11-9 at the first quarter, took a 27-21 edge at halftime, but was behind, 41-35, when the third period ended.

Weber And Hoover Favored In $15,000 Bowling Event

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The scramble for the $15,000 men's championship in the 21st All-Star Bowling Tournament is shaping up as a battle between the slenderest and the heftiest stars in big time bowling.

Dick Weber, the 124-pound St. Louis sharpshooter, led the 16-man field today after 12 of 16 rounds with a 241-13 Petersen point total. Dick Hoover, the 235-pound star of the St. Louis Falstaffs, trails him by only 45 pins.

Roy Lown of El Paso, Tex., was in third place nearly eight points behind Hoover. Under the Petersen point system, which has governed this event for all of its 21 years, a bowler gets one point for every game won and one point for every 50 pins knocked down.

Shirley Garms of Chicago, who last year shared "bowler of the year" honors with Weber, led the women with 111-26 points. Robbie Frey, the saucy redhead from Torrence, Calif., was close behind with 109-33.

Both the men's and women's field roll three more blocks in the round-robin series today. The tournament concludes with a three-game position round, the last portion of which will be televised at 9 p.m. EST on ABC, replacing the weekly boxing match.

Four-time former champion Don Carter of St. Louis was nearly 15 points behind Weber in eighth place. Marion Ladewig, seven times women's champion from Grand Rapids, Mich., was immersed in 12th place in the women's field and defending champion Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N.Y., was in 16th place, far out of the race for the $5,000 women's title.

Steers Corral Pipiers In ABL

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Steers found the rugged defense they needed to overwhelm the Cleveland Pipers 109-93 Friday night in the opener of the American Basketball League first half playoff.

The Steers had to have that victory, because they now must battle on the Pipers' home court in Cleveland tonight and again Sunday afternoon if a third game is needed.

Kansas City produced a hot 48 per cent shooting average while checking Cleveland's vaunted speed. The Pipers managed to hit only 34 per cent of their field shots.

Goalby's Lead Threatened In Pro Golf Play

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Two of the deadliest money performers in tournament golf, Gary Player and Doug Sanders, posed a major challenge to front running Bob Goalby in the third round of the $25,000 San Diego Open today.

The weather, which turned miserable late Friday and at best was uncertain today, offered another problem for all of the field, now trimmed to 81 professionals and eight amateurs.

Player was leading money winner in golf last year with $68,377 registered, and Sanders was third, some $4,000 behind Arnold Palmer, with $61,027 to his credit.

Player and Sanders were just two shots back of Goalby as they headed toward the 54th hole point over the par 35-36 — 71 Stardust Country Club's 6725-yard course.

Three blows off the pace were Jay Hebert and two outsiders, Johnny Pott and Don Massengal, while the 139 threats included Mike Souchak, Art Wall Jr. and others.

Palmer, winner in the San Diego last year, was in a large colony of 141 that also included National PGA champion Jerry Barber.

Toronto Star May Miss KC Track Meet

BOSTON (AP) — One of the favorites in the 36th Knights of Columbus track meet at Boston Garden tonight may not be able to put on much of a show after all.

His coach, Fred Foote, notified meet officials Friday night that Kidd would be on hand for the two-mile run, which he won last year as a schoolboy in 8:49.2.

In Toronto Foote said Kidd was due to see the doctor Saturday morning. "If the swelling is even close to what it was today (Friday) he won't be running," Foote said.

There are many other entries capable of giving the crowd the thrilling performance it hoped to get from Kidd. One is Frank Budd of Villanova, the world sprint champion who has been clocked in 9.2 for 100 yards.

Others among the six defending champions are John Thomas, Boston's former world high jump champion; high hurdler Bill Johnson of Maryland, miler Charlie Jones, who holds the third fastest time ever run in the Knights of Columbus meet 4:07.8, and pole vaulter Roland Cruz of Villanova.

Jones, a product of the famous Boys' Town, will be shooting for Ron Delany's meet record of 4:05 in the mile. Delany also holds the indoor world record of 4:01.4, posted in the 1959 New York Knights of Columbus meet.

South Side Drops Tough 44-41 Tilt At S. Fayette

The loss was South Side's third in four Section starts and put the overall record at 4-9.

Coach Dave Nichol used some new faces in the starting lineup, but the change didn't help the South Side offense which fell behind, 16-8, at the end of the first quarter.

The Rams got rolling in the second quarter and only trailed by a 24-20 count at halftime. The third period ended with South Fayette holding a 32-30 edge. The last tie occurred at 34-34.

Grady's 18 points were tops for the night on both sides of the scorebook. Cecil Frazier and Dale Ashcroft each fired in 12 points for the Rams.

Top-Ranked Quints In Action

OSU Shoots For No. 12

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Most of college basketball's elite will see action tonight.

Ohio State's undefeated Buckeyes, undisputed leaders in the national ratings, shoot for their 12th straight victory against Michigan in a Big Ten game at Columbus, Ohio. Fourth-ranked Southern California (11-3) will try to recoup at Washington after being knocked over by the Huskies in Friday night's top upset. Oklahoma State is at fifth-ranked Kansas State (11-2), and sixth-ranked Villanova (13-1) meets Xavier on the Ohioans' court.

Mississippi State (10-0), No. 7 and the only unbeaten major outside Ohio State, plays at Vanderbilt; eighth-ranked Duquesne (10-1) takes on Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh; Miami (Ohio) is at No. 9-ranked Bowling Green (11-1) and Maryland faces 10th-ranked Duke (10-2) at Durham.

Second-ranked Cincinnati (11-2) is idle and third-ranked Kentucky has the night off after breezing past Louisiana State Friday night, 84-63, for its eleventh victory in a row and its 12th in 13 starts.

Washington pulled off Friday night's stunner with its 85-67 rout of Southern Cal in their Big Five game at Seattle. Bill Hanson scored 37 points for the Huskies, who broke things open during a three-minute span in the second half by outpointing the Trojans 15-6.

Kentucky never gave LSU a chance, racing to an 8-0 edge in the opening moments and boosting its lead to 19 points at the half. Sophomore Cotton Nash led the Wildcats once again with 26 points.

With Utah penalized out of any postseason appearances by the NCAA, Utah State and Brigham Young enhanced their possibilities in the Skyline Conference. The Utacs beat Colorado State University 69-59 and BYU tripped Wyoming 73-63. There were surprises as usual in the Southwest Conference, with Texas A&M trouncing Southern Methodist 75-55 and Rice belting Texas 89-64. The results left the Aggies, SMU and Rice tied at the top with 3-1 records.

Yale kept atop the Ivy League, boosting its conference mark to 3-0 by walloping favored Princeton 83-60. Len Chappell returned to his native Pennsylvania and led Wake Forest to a 71-66 victory over St. Francis. The Deacons' big man counted 34 points and pulled down 16 rebounds, only three less than the entire St. Francis squad.

Joe Schmidt To Be Wired For Sound In Pro Classic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Schmidt will be wired for sound Sunday as the West's football squad collides with the East in the 12th annual Pro Bowl game in the Coliseum.

The veteran Detroit linebacker will wear an electronically rigged helmet from which shock signals are transmitted to a receiver on the sidelines.

Dr. Stephen Reid, Northwestern University's team physician, says this is the first time the device has been worn in a football game for the purpose of designing better protective headgear.

Dr. Reid was an outstanding guard at Northwestern in 1936. He was commissioned by the American Medical Association to conduct the research.

The test will try out the electronic setup that telemeters data about the shock that Schmidt absorbs. No medical data will be elicited from this test, but later an electroencephalograph will be added to send brain-wave data to the sidelines.

Schmidt, perennial all-pro selection for the game, is appearing for the eighth time here, and is a sort of gridiron astronaut. In 1956, in a game against the Los Angeles Rams, his helmet contained a tiny receiver used for relaying defensive signals from the bench to the field. The experiment didn't last long. Buster Ramsey, Detroit assistant coach, became irked at a team reversal, forgot his electronic manners, and threw the microphone on the ground.

The effect of this, amplified many, many times in Schmidt's ear, caused the big linebacker to leap high in the air, and he got rid of his receiver.

Schmidt says he doesn't want to hear the results of Sunday's test.

"If I discover the degree of shock to which I am subjected I might want to quit this game," he said.

Toronto's 1-2 Punch Stops Beaver Local Quint, 58-48

★ ★ ★ Sciance, Coulter Net 44 ★ ★ ★

The loss broke a brief two-game winning streak for the Beavers who now stand 3-4 on the season.

Toronto's double-barreled attack accounted for 44 points as Sciance hooped 25 and Coulter got 19.

The Red Knights gained a 14-8 lead at the end of the first quarter and then picked up a 28-19 edge at halftime. The third quarter ended with Toronto still on top, 44-33.

Beaver Local, who had conquered Carrollton and Chester in consecutive order, couldn't get its offense in gear. Junior George Gaydos again topped the Beavers with 14 points while Tom Greenwood fired in 12.

Coach Tom McCall and his squad have their work cut out tonight when the Beavers visit Stanton Local, which has won nine straight contests.

Toronto's reserve squad picked up a 50-40 victory in the preliminary contest.

N. Cumberland Beaten In Last Three Seconds

St. Anthony's Martino dropped in a foul shot with three seconds remaining to give his squad a tense 52-51 victory over New Cumberland Friday night at Follansbee.

The foul shot broke a 51-51 deadlock and sent the Blue Raiders to their sixth defeat in 10 starts.

Simmonetti led the scoring for St. Anthony's with 17 points, but Cicolella was the hero when he tossed in 10 of his 14 points in the last quarter.

New Cumberland, behind 11-9 at the first quarter, took a 27-21 edge at halftime, but was behind, 41-35, when the third period ended.

Weber And Hoover Favored In $15,000 Bowling Event

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The scramble for the $15,000 men's championship in the 21st All-Star Bowling Tournament is shaping up as a battle between the slenderest and the heftiest stars in big time bowling.

Dick Weber, the 124-pound St. Louis sharpshooter, led the 16-man field today after 12 of 16 rounds with a 241-13 Petersen point total. Dick Hoover, the 235-pound star of the St. Louis Falstaffs, trails him by only 45 pins.

Roy Lown of El Paso, Tex., was in third place nearly eight points behind Hoover. Under the Petersen point system, which has governed this event for all of its 21 years, a bowler gets one point for every game won and one point for every 50 pins knocked down.

Shirley Garms of Chicago, who last year shared "bowler of the year" honors with Weber, led the women with 111-26 points. Robbie Frey, the saucy redhead from Torrence, Calif., was close behind with 109-33.

Both the men's and women's field roll three more blocks in the round-robin series today. The tournament concludes with a three-game position round, the last portion of which will be televised at 9 p.m. EST on ABC, replacing the weekly boxing match.

Four-time former champion Don Carter of St. Louis was nearly 15 points behind Weber in eighth place. Marion Ladewig, seven times women's champion from Grand Rapids, Mich., was immersed in 12th place in the women's field and defending champion Phyllis Notaro of Brant, N.Y., was in 16th place, far out of the race for the $5,000 women's title.

Steers Corral Pipiers In ABL

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Steers found the rugged defense they needed to overwhelm the Cleveland Pipers 109-93 Friday night in the opener of the American Basketball League first half playoff.

The Steers had to have that victory, because they now must battle on the Pipers' home court in Cleveland tonight and again Sunday afternoon if a third game is needed.

Kansas City produced a hot 48 per cent shooting average while checking Cleveland's vaunted speed. The Pipers managed to hit only 34 per cent of their field shots.

Fight Results

Goalby's Lead Threatened In Pro Golf Play

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Two of the deadliest money performers in tournament golf, Gary Player and Doug Sanders, posed a major challenge to front running Bob Goalby in the third round of the $25,000 San Diego Open today.

The weather, which turned miserable late Friday and at best was uncertain today, offered another problem for all of the field, now trimmed to 81 professionals and eight amateurs.

Player was leading money winner in golf last year with $68,377 registered, and Sanders was third, some $4,000 behind Arnold Palmer, with $61,027 to his credit.

Player and Sanders were just two shots back of Goalby as they headed toward the 54th hole point over the par 35-36 — 71 Stardust Country Club's 6725-yard course.

Three blows off the pace were Jay Hebert and two outsiders, Johnny Pott and Don Massengal, while the 139 threats included Mike Souchak, Art Wall Jr. and others.

Palmer, winner in the San Diego last year, was in a large colony of 141 that also included National PGA champion Jerry Barber.

Toronto Star May Miss KC Track Meet

BOSTON (AP) — One of the favorites in the 36th Knights of Columbus track meet at Boston Garden tonight may not be able to put on much of a show after all.

His coach, Fred Foote, notified meet officials Friday night that Kidd would be on hand for the two-mile run, which he won last year as a schoolboy in 8:49.2.

In Toronto Foote said Kidd was due to see the doctor Saturday morning. "If the swelling is even close to what it was today (Friday) he won't be running," Foote said.

There are many other entries capable of giving the crowd the thrilling performance it hoped to get from Kidd. One is Frank Budd of Villanova, the world sprint champion who has been clocked in 9.2 for 100 yards.

Others among the six defending champions are John Thomas, Boston's former world high jump champion; high hurdler Bill Johnson of Maryland, miler Charlie Jones, who holds the third fastest time ever run in the Knights of Columbus meet 4:07.8, and pole vaulter Roland Cruz of Villanova.

Jones, a product of the famous Boys' Town, will be shooting for Ron Delany's meet record of 4:05 in the mile. Delany also holds the indoor world record of 4:01.4, posted in the 1959 New York Knights of Columbus meet.

South Side Drops Tough 44-41 Tilt At S. Fayette

The loss was South Side's third in four Section starts and put the overall record at 4-9.

Coach Dave Nichol used some new faces in the starting lineup, but the change didn't help the South Side offense which fell behind, 16-8, at the end of the first quarter.

The Rams got rolling in the second quarter and only trailed by a 24-20 count at halftime. The third period ended with South Fayette holding a 32-30 edge. The last tie occurred at 34-34.

Grady's 18 points were tops for the night on both sides of the scorebook. Cecil Frazier and Dale Ashcroft each fired in 12 points for the Rams.

Top-Ranked Quints In Action

OSU Shoots For No. 12

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Most of college basketball's elite will see action tonight.

Ohio State's undefeated Buckeyes, undisputed leaders in the national ratings, shoot for their 12th straight victory against Michigan in a Big Ten game at Columbus, Ohio. Fourth-ranked Southern California (11-3) will try to recoup at Washington after being knocked over by the Huskies in Friday night's top upset. Oklahoma State is at fifth-ranked Kansas State (11-2), and sixth-ranked Villanova (13-1) meets Xavier on the Ohioans' court.

Mississippi State (10-0), No. 7 and the only unbeaten major outside Ohio State, plays at Vanderbilt; eighth-ranked Duquesne (10-1) takes on Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh; Miami (Ohio) is at No. 9-ranked Bowling Green (11-1) and Maryland faces 10th-ranked Duke (10-2) at Durham.

Second-ranked Cincinnati (11-2) is idle and third-ranked Kentucky has the night off after breezing past Louisiana State Friday night, 84-63, for its eleventh victory in a row and its 12th in 13 starts.

Washington pulled off Friday night's stunner with its 85-67 rout of Southern Cal in their Big Five game at Seattle. Bill Hanson scored 37 points for the Huskies, who broke things open during a three-minute span in the second half by outpointing the Trojans 15-6.

Kentucky never gave LSU a chance, racing to an 8-0 edge in the opening moments and boosting its lead to 19 points at the half. Sophomore Cotton Nash led the Wildcats once again with 26 points.

With Utah penalized out of any postseason appearances by the NCAA, Utah State and Brigham Young enhanced their possibilities in the Skyline Conference. The Utacs beat Colorado State University 69-59 and BYU tripped Wyoming 73-63. There were surprises as usual in the Southwest Conference, with Texas A&M trouncing Southern Methodist 75-55 and Rice belting Texas 89-64. The results left the Aggies, SMU and Rice tied at the top with 3-1 records.

Yale kept atop the Ivy League, boosting its conference mark to 3-0 by walloping favored Princeton 83-60. Len Chappell returned to his native Pennsylvania and led Wake Forest to a 71-66 victory over St. Francis. The Deacons' big man counted 34 points and pulled down 16 rebounds, only three less than the entire St. Francis squad.

Joe Schmidt To Be Wired For Sound In Pro Classic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Schmidt will be wired for sound Sunday as the West's football squad collides with the East in the 12th annual Pro Bowl game in the Coliseum.

The veteran Detroit linebacker will wear an electronically rigged helmet from which shock signals are transmitted to a receiver on the sidelines.

Dr. Stephen Reid, Northwestern University's team physician, says this is the first time the device has been worn in a football game for the purpose of designing better protective headgear.

Dr. Reid was an outstanding guard at Northwestern in 1936. He was commissioned by the American Medical Association to conduct the research.

The test will try out the electronic setup that telemeters data about the shock that Schmidt absorbs. No medical data will be elicited from this test, but later an electroencephalograph will be added to send brain-wave data to the sidelines.

Schmidt, perennial all-pro selection for the game, is appearing for the eighth time here, and is a sort of gridiron astronaut. In 1956, in a game against the Los Angeles Rams, his helmet contained a tiny receiver used for relaying defensive signals from the bench to the field. The experiment didn't last long. Buster Ramsey, Detroit assistant coach, became irked at a team reversal, forgot his electronic manners, and threw the microphone on the ground.

The effect of this, amplified many, many times in Schmidt's ear, caused the big linebacker to leap high in the air, and he got rid of his receiver.

Schmidt says he doesn't want to hear the results of Sunday's test.

"If I discover the degree of shock to which I am subjected I might want to quit this game," he said.

On Party Legislative Plans

Democratic Liberal Unit Sees Steering Group OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a House Democratic liberal group say they expect to get what they wanted all along: a steering committee to "advise and consult" on party legislative plans.

And they say they have reached a private understanding with Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to get the machinery moving in a week or 10 days.

Publicly, at his first news conference Friday as speaker, McCormack was only lukewarm to the idea.

"I would have no objection if the Democratic caucus decides to do it," he said.

But he added he would take no active part in setting up such a steering committee.

McCormack previously had said "a policy committee is out."

But Rep. Chet Holifield of California, a leading proponent of the steering committee, said the group never had sought power to dictate policy to the House's new Democratic leaders or supplant the powerful and often conservative Rules Committee, which governs the flow of legislation to the House floor. He made a sharp distinction between a "steering committee" and a "policy committee."

Other sources said that what the liberal group wanted all along was a committee that would:

Have a function of advising and consulting with McCormack's leadership on legislative business.

They said McCormack in private meetings had agreed to this format and they doubted it will be necessary to bring the matter before the caucus by petition. But they said they had the required 50 signatures if needed.

Another committee backer, Rep. Henry Reuss, of Wisconsin, said he expected the steering committee would be "effective and fruitful."

Holifield described the House Rules Committee as "a supercommittee passing on the merits of legislation reported favorably by other committees" having jurisdiction.

He conceded his opinion was not shared by everyone but said that "no intervening committee (such as the Rules Committee) has a moral right to withhold a bill reported favorably by a legislative committee of jurisdiction."

However, Holifield said that argument has nothing to do with the kind of steering committee the group wants.

"I'm satisfied with the Rules Committee as it is now set up," he said.

'Drifting Toward Socialism'

President's 'Too Soft' On Reds, GOP Unit Told

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) —The Republican National Committee, laying the groundwork for the 1962 election campaigns, was told by two speakers Friday that the Kennedy administration is too soft on communism abroad and drifting toward socialism at home.

The committee was to hear today from the acknowledged leader of the GOP's conservative wing, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Goldwater was scheduled to address a luncheon ending its two-day meeting.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, committee chairman, said in a speech Friday night that the President did not stick with the facts in reporting on world crises in the State of the Union address.

Miller said the situation in Laos and South Viet Nam has deteriorated instead of improved, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has not been strengthened.

Miller added that the dispute with Russia in Berlin remained a major problem, and American policy in the Congo was opposed by other NATO countries.

"The Pollyana attitude and the strategy of the ostrich may serve the purpose of the administration in domestic policies, but abroad they can only serve to increase the recklessness of our enemies and the confusion and despair of our friends," Miller said.

President Kennedy is promising the American people a variety of welfare packages," Miller said, "but the people will give more than they get."

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, told the group earlier that Kennedy made a "left turn" after listening to Americans for Democratic Action. This group has a program to socialize the nation, he said.

Get Out Of U.N., He Urges

Rickenbacker Says U.S. Should Sever Soviet Ties

CLEVELAND (AP) — Eddie Rickenbacker came to town Friday and said a lot—all the way from his view the United States should severe relations with Russia and get out of the United Nations to thoughts on what's wrong with the airline industry.

Three - quarters of the American population will never be able to afford air travel, the board chairman of Eastern Air Lines told a news conference. Rickenbacker said all the airlines overbought jet equipment and have more seats than can be used now. He forecast several mergers in the industry.

To a Shrine Luncheon Club meeting, Rickenbacker said this country should not only break off relations with the Soviet Union but also with "all so-called neutrals."

The U.S. should quit the U.N. and "regain control of our own foreign policy and national solvency," the war hero said, adding:

"From all indications we are heading toward an ultimate surrender. For God's sake—for honor and for our undying souls—let's fight and die before the final enslavement."

An overflow crowd estimated at 500 gave Rickenbacker a standing ovation. He had warm praise for the "heroic efforts" of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., "to awaken the American people to the danger this country, its people and generations to come would have to face."

Rickenbacker was critical of Washington leaders and U.N. representatives. He called for a "rebirth of American patriotic, national conservatism," saying Congress must be more conservative "or our nation's slide down the wrong highway into communism will be accelerated."

He also urged abolition of "futile, wasteful so - called 'foreign aid' " and federal income tax. Rickenbacker said the latter was prescribed by Karl Marx "to destroy private property and establish socialism throughout the world."

Noting that only 14 per cent of the population uses airplanes for travel, Rickenbacker said he believes this can be expanded to 25 per cent at the highest.

2 Youths Nabbed For Robbing 2 Spinster Sisters

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police have captured two Akron youths sought in the robbery of two spinster sisters who were held in captivity for 18 hours last Dec. 28-29.

Police said a tip led to the arrests early today of the youths in a car shortly after they returned from Miami, Fla.

Held on suspicion were Bob Ray Tripett, 23, and Frank J. Sotelo, about 18.

Detective Sgt. Carl Hanes said the youths admitted robbing the sisters, Dorothy Frazier, 67, and Ruth, 64, of more than $2,000 and detaining them in their Akron home overnight.

Hanes quoted the youths as saying they spent part of the money for a new Cadillac and were returning "to give themselves up." The detective said they had several hundred dollars left.

Police gave this account of the incident:

The sisters, both retired school teachers, were held all night by two men who forced their way into their home. Dorothy was ordered to withdraw $2,000 from the sisters' bank account the morning of Dec. 29 and Ruth was held hostage until her sister returned.

As long ago as 5,000 years, Chinese doctors dispensed ma huang, an herbal drug containing ephedrine, now prescribed in combatting asthma and hay fever.

On Party Legislative Plans

Democratic Liberal Unit Sees Steering Group OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a House Democratic liberal group say they expect to get what they wanted all along: a steering committee to "advise and consult" on party legislative plans.

And they say they have reached a private understanding with Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to get the machinery moving in a week or 10 days.

Publicly, at his first news conference Friday as speaker, McCormack was only lukewarm to the idea.

"I would have no objection if the Democratic caucus decides to do it," he said.

But he added he would take no active part in setting up such a steering committee.

McCormack previously had said "a policy committee is out."

But Rep. Chet Holifield of California, a leading proponent of the steering committee, said the group never had sought power to dictate policy to the House's new Democratic leaders or supplant the powerful and often conservative Rules Committee, which governs the flow of legislation to the House floor. He made a sharp distinction between a "steering committee" and a "policy committee."

Other sources said that what the liberal group wanted all along was a committee that would:

Have a function of advising and consulting with McCormack's leadership on legislative business.

They said McCormack in private meetings had agreed to this format and they doubted it will be necessary to bring the matter before the caucus by petition. But they said they had the required 50 signatures if needed.

Another committee backer, Rep. Henry Reuss, of Wisconsin, said he expected the steering committee would be "effective and fruitful."

Holifield described the House Rules Committee as "a supercommittee passing on the merits of legislation reported favorably by other committees" having jurisdiction.

He conceded his opinion was not shared by everyone but said that "no intervening committee (such as the Rules Committee) has a moral right to withhold a bill reported favorably by a legislative committee of jurisdiction."

However, Holifield said that argument has nothing to do with the kind of steering committee the group wants.

"I'm satisfied with the Rules Committee as it is now set up," he said.

'Drifting Toward Socialism'

President's 'Too Soft' On Reds, GOP Unit Told

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) —The Republican National Committee, laying the groundwork for the 1962 election campaigns, was told by two speakers Friday that the Kennedy administration is too soft on communism abroad and drifting toward socialism at home.

The committee was to hear today from the acknowledged leader of the GOP's conservative wing, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Goldwater was scheduled to address a luncheon ending its two-day meeting.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, committee chairman, said in a speech Friday night that the President did not stick with the facts in reporting on world crises in the State of the Union address.

Miller said the situation in Laos and South Viet Nam has deteriorated instead of improved, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has not been strengthened.

Miller added that the dispute with Russia in Berlin remained a major problem, and American policy in the Congo was opposed by other NATO countries.

"The Pollyana attitude and the strategy of the ostrich may serve the purpose of the administration in domestic policies, but abroad they can only serve to increase the recklesness of our enemies and the confusion and despair of our friends," Miller said.

President Kennedy is promising the American people a variety of welfare packages," Miller said, "but the people will give more than they get."

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, told the group earlier that Kennedy made a "left turn" after listening to Americans for Democratic Action. This group has a program to socialize the nation, he said.

Get Out Of U.N., He Urges

CLEVELAND (AP) — Eddie Rickenbacker came to town Friday and said a lot—all the way from his view the United States should severe relations with Russia and get out of the United Nations to thoughts on what's wrong with the airline industry.

Three - quarters of the American population will never be able to afford air travel, the board chairman of Eastern Air Lines told a news conference. Rickenbacker said all the airlines overbought jet equipment and have more seats than can be used now. He forecast several mergers in the industry.

To a Shrine Luncheon Club meeting, Rickenbacker said this country should not only break off relations with the Soviet Union but also with "all so-called neutrals."

The U.S. should quit the U.N. and "regain control of our own foreign policy and national solvency," the war hero said, adding:

"From all indications we are heading toward an ultimate surrender. For God's sake—for honor and for our undying souls—let's fight and die before the final enslavement."

An overflow crowd estimated at 500 gave Rickenbacker a standing ovation. He had warm praise for the "heroic efforts" of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., "to awaken the American people to the danger this country, its people and generations to come would have to face."

Rickenbacker was critical of Washington leaders and U.N. representatives. He called for a "rebirth of American patriotic, national conservatism," saying Congress must be more conservative "or our nation's slide down the wrong highway into communism will be accelerated."

He also urged abolition of "futile, wasteful so - called 'foreign aid' " and federal income tax. Rickenbacker said the latter was prescribed by Karl Marx "to destroy private property and establish socialism throughout the world."

Noting that only 14 per cent of the population uses airplanes for travel, Rickenbacker said he believes this can be expanded to 25 per cent at the highest.

2 Youths Nabbed For Robbing 2 Spinster Sisters

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police have captured two Akron youths sought in the robbery of two spinster sisters who were held in captivity for 18 hours last Dec. 28-29.

Police said a tip led to the arrests early today of the youths in a car shortly after they returned from Miami, Fla.

Held on suspicion were Bob Ray Tripett, 23, and Frank J. Sotelo, about 18.

Detective Sgt. Carl Hanes said the youths admitted robbing the sisters, Dorothy Frazier, 67, and Ruth, 64, of more than $2,000 and detaining them in their Akron home overnight.

Hanes quoted the youths as saying they spent part of the money for a new Cadillac and were returning "to give themselves up." The detective said they had several hundred dollars left.

Police gave this account of the incident:

The sisters, both retired school teachers, were held all night by two men who forced their way into their home. Dorothy was ordered to withdraw $2,000 from the sisters' bank account the morning of Dec. 29 and Ruth was held hostage until her sister returned.

As long ago as 5,000 years, Chinese doctors dispensed ma huang, an herbal drug containing ephedrine, now prescribed in combatting asthma and hay fever.

2 IN MEMORIAM

Elizabeth Smith—In loving memory of our mother who passed away Jan. 14 1960.
A bitter grief, a shock severe, to part with one we love so dear.
She never failed to do her best, her heart was true and tender.
She worked hard for those she left and ever will be remembered.
God loved her too and thought it best, so he took her home to eternal rest.
Sons, Daughters and grandchildren

IN loving memory of our son and brother, Corp, Paul Myler killed in Italy, Jan. 14, 1944. Sadly missed by those who loved him.
Mr. & Mrs. James Myler James and Gerald.

3 CARDS OF THANKS

OUR sorrow is hard to bear, but we know that without the comfort and consolation of our friends, neighbors and relatives, the loss of our beloved mother, Mary Bolles, would have been a heavy burden. To each and every person whose kindness and thoughtfulness helped us so much at this time, we extend our grateful acknowledgement.

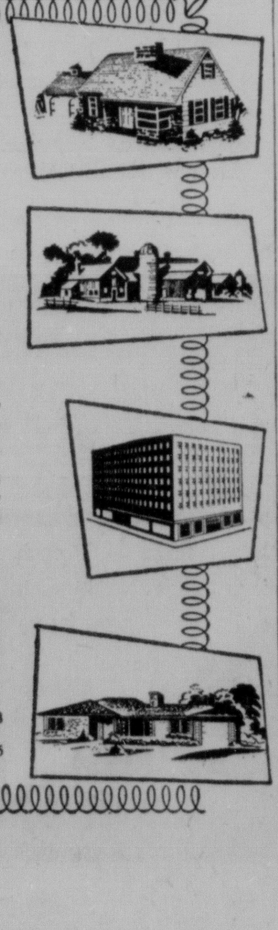
How To Prepare Your House Before Offering It For Sale



The Home-owner who decides to sell his property often puts it up for sale without PREPARING the house in any way.

"Why should I spend money on something I'm going to sell?" he asks.

The answer is that a few hundred dollars of preparation can sometimes mean several THOUSAND dollars difference in the price you get!

It all depends on what the house needs before being shown. Occasionally, we see properties that are ready to go "as is". More often, a few touches here and there can make a vastly better impression on a prospective buyer.

We'll be glad to analyze your situation with you thoroughly. You are welcome to benefit from our many years in this business without charge or obligation. Call us today — you'll be glad you did. tomorrow!

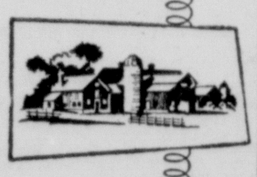
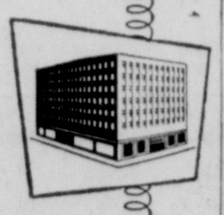
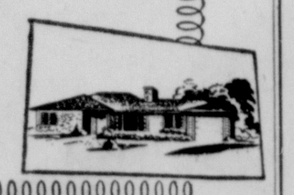
How To Prepare Your House Before Offering It For Sale







The Home-owner who decides to sell his property often puts it up for sale without PREPARING the house in any way.

"Why should I spend money on something I'm going to sell?" he asks.

The answer is that a few hundred dollars of preparation can sometimes mean several THOUSAND dollars difference in the price you get!

It all depends on what the house needs before being shown. Occasionally, we see properties that are ready to go "as is". More often, a few touches here and there can make a vastly better impression on a prospective buyer.

We'll be glad to analyze your situation with you thoroughly. You are welcome to benefit from our many years in this business without charge or obligation. Call us today — you'll be glad you did, tomorrow!

Junior Editors Quiz on INDIANS

QUESTION: How many Indians live in the U. S.?

ANSWER: Indians, naturally, were the first new friends the pilgrims made when they arrived in this country. In fact, the Indian Chief Massasoit, with about 90 of his men, celebrated the first Thanksgiving Day with the Mayflower voyagers in 1620. There is no way of knowing exactly how many Indians were in the United States at that time, but it is estimated that when Columbus discovered America in 1492 there were less than one million.

It may surprise you to learn there are nearly twice as many Indians in America today as there were during the great military campaigns against the Indians on the Western frontier following the Civil War. Also, their numbers are increasing each year as they learn more and more about good health practices. Ten years ago there were about 360,000 Indians in the United States. According to the latest U. S. census, taken in 1960, there now are 523,591 Indians of more than 100 separate tribes. Dr. Eugene Nida, who helps Indians translate the Bible into their languages, says about 70,000 Indians in the United States aren't able to speak English. The state with the most Indians is Arizona, where more than 65,000 live. There are about 54,000 in Oklahoma, 42,000 in New Mexico, 23,000 in South Dakota and lesser numbers in every state in the nation with the possible exception of Delaware. In Alaska about one-third of the population, or nearly 25,000 persons, are Indians.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What's the best way to clean porcelain on a kitchen range?

A. Be sure to wait until it's cool, because porcelain enamel is glassfused on steel and is breakable if misused. Use mild soap and warm water. Avoid cleaning powder and harsh abrasives which may scratch the glossy enamel finish.

Q. How can I avoid undue waste of chocolate when melting it?

A. Much of the chocolate is wasted when it sticks to the bottom and sides of the container. But this can be avoided if the container is thoroughly greased before the chocolate is put into it.

Q. How can I prolong the life of a broom?

A. Dip the broom into a bucket of boiling water at least once a week. This will not only keep it clean, but will prolong its life.

Q. How can I restore a taffeta slip that has become limp?

A. Sponge it with borax and water. Use a half-teaspoon of borax to half a pint of warm water, making sure that the borax is completely dissolved. Sponge the slip on the wrong side and, when nearly dry, iron on the wrong side with a moderately hot iron.

Q. How can I prepare egg whites and yolks in the "for-sure, no-broken-yolk" way?

A. Puncture a small hole at one end of the shell. This releases the white into a collecting bowl, while the yolk remains inside. Then break the shell, and you have your yolk—whole.

Q. The toes of my youngster's shoes are constantly becoming scuffed and unattractive looking. What can I do about this?

A. After shining the shoes well, brush several layers of shellac over the tips. Not only will the leather retain its gloss, but the shellac will protect it against careless kicks, scratches, and the like.

13 County Hives Of Bees Infected

LISBON — Only 13 bee hives of the 1,867 inspected in Columbiana County in 1961 had any infection of American foulbrood, according to the yearly report of William Marty of East Palestine, County apiary inspector.

Leading townships with bee colonies were Elkrun, 227; Unity, 220; Fairfield, 174; St. Clair, 145; Salem, 139, and Knox, 131. Liverpool township had only 35 and Washingtonville 36, Marty's report showed.

American foulbrood is a highly contagious disease which kills the larva, with no young bees born. This eventually kills the hive and then bees from other colonies take the honey and infect their hives.

Calcutta Postal Unit Depends On One Bid

Whether the Calcutta area will have a contract postal branch may be decided within two weeks, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today as he forwarded the lone bid to regional officials in Cincinnati.

In the department's proposal asking bids, it specified the branch must be located on Route 170 between Calcutta and Routes 7 and 30 and the bidder must guarantee to provide quarters, heat, light and clerical help and provide financial service consisting of postal money orders, registry, parcel post and stamp sales.

However, if a branch is established, the mail will not be delivered or received there, he emphasized.

Claims Of Idle Show Week's Increase Of 8

Harry Dinsmore, manager of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service, said there were 161 new claims and 541 continuing claims filed the week just ended.

Sen. Goldwater Indicates U.S. Should Pull Out Of UN

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says there is no reason why the United States should continue participation in the United Nations.

"The idea was wonderful," he said, "but the world is not ready for it."

He said he always had been charitably inclined to the United Nations but, he added, "since the Communists can stop any peace movement, the United Nations becomes more ineffective."

Speaking in the home town of the leader of the militantly conservative John Birch Society Friday night, Goldwater said he did not know of one member of that group who is in the White House.

But, he added, "The Americans for Democratic Action, who talk about peaceful coexistence, are in the White House close to the President. There are 31 members of the ADA there."

"I am not worried about the extreme right wing in our country," Goldwater said. "They are not in government in Washington. I am worried about the extremists to the left who are in government."

When asked if he would accept support from the John Birch Society, he said: "I would accept political support."

County Sees Safer Driving

The number of traffic deaths not only dropped from 26 in 1960 to 19 last year, there were fewer injury accidents — 216 compared to 226 in 1960 — and fewer people hurt — 372 to 385, the Lisbon post reported.

Arrests amounted to 2,907, compared to 3,221 the previous year, and warnings issued totaled 6,728, down from the 7,005 of 1960. Total accidents were 729 — 60 less than the year before.

The arrests included 2,011 in traffic — of which 483 were made at the scene of accidents; 401 misdeameanors such as license or registration violations and 12 felony arrests.

Three aircraft accidents were investigated. A total of 214 cases of providing assistance was logged, and $1,253 collected in registration fees.

Music Firm Cited In Supermarket Case

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Hudix Music Co. of Youngstown has been temporarily restrained from sending background music to outlets of Kroger and Loblaw grocery chains in the Wooster and Cleveland areas.

Mahoning County Common Plea Judge John W. Ford issued the order Friday on a complaint by Musaire, Inc., of Wooster. David B. Denison, Musaire president, charged Hudix appropriated and sold its background music to the supermarket outlets.

Judge Ford set April 16 for a hearing on a permanent restraining order. He issued a permanent restraining order against Hudix in November 1960, on a complaint by Ohio Music Corp. of Cleveland. Ohio Music also had charged Hudix with piracy of the air waves.

Prizes Presented 6 In Legion Essay Event

EAST PALESTINE — Six high school students were awarded prizes for essays in the annual American Legion contest, it was announced at a meeting of Post 31 Thursday night.

Winners include Georgia Sutherin, Galen Black, Virginia Charlton, Janice Ulbrich, Marilyn Lipp and Loretta Noel. Their entries will be submitted in the county-wide contest.

Mahoning Unit Backs Lake-To-River Canal

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning County Planning Commission has announced support of proposed construction of a Lake Erie-to-Ohio River canal. Wheeling, W. Va. city officials meanwhile announced formal opposition to the canal.

Falls Result In Injury To 5

Frank Luther, 46, of Hookstown R.D. 1 was treated yesterday morning for possible fractured ribs suffered when he fell on ice several days ago.

13 County Hives Of Bees Infected

LISBON — Only 13 bee hives of the 1,867 inspected in Columbiana County in 1961 had any infection of American foulbrood, according to the yearly report of William Marty of East Palestine, County apiary inspector.

The county had 326 apiaries and 84 colonies froze out during the winter, five were smothered, 44 colonies had crossed comb and 16 were queenless.

Leading townships with bee colonies were Elkrun, 227; Unity, 220; Fairfield, 174; St. Clair, 145; Salem, 139, and Knox, 131. Liverpool township had only 35 and Washingtonville 36, Marty's report showed.

American foulbrood is a highly contagious disease which kills the larva, with no young bees born. This eventually kills the hive and then bees from other colonies take the honey and infect their hives.

Calcutta Postal Unit Depends On One Bid

Whether the Calcutta area will have a contract postal branch may be decided within two weeks, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today as he forwarded the lone bid to regional officials in Cincinnati.

The regional officers will decide whether to accept or reject the offer.

In the department's proposal asking bids, it specified the branch must be located on Route 170 between Calcutta and Routes 7 and 30 and the bidder must guarantee to provide quarters, heat, light and clerical help and provide financial service consisting of postal money orders, registry, parcel post and stamp sales.

However, if a branch is established, the mail will not be delivered or received there, he emphasized.

Claims Of Idle Show Week's Increase Of 8

Unemployment claims in East Liverpool for the week, ending today totaled 801 — an increase of eight over last week.

Harry Dinsmore, manager of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service, said there were 161 new claims and 541 continuing claims filed the week just ended.

Ohio Soldier Killed, Pinned Between Tanks

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Spec. 4 John F. Shanholtzer of Mantua, Ohio, was killed Tuesday when he was pinned between two tanks in the 1st Cavalry Division training area north of Seoul, the U. S. Army reported today.

Shanholtzer, 22, assigned to the 3rd Medium Tank Battalion, 40th Armor, 1st Cavalry Divsion, was standing behind a halted tank when another tank ran into him.

Sen. Goldwater Indicates U.S. Should Pull Out Of UN

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says there is no reason why the United States should continue participation in the United Nations.

"The idea was wonderful," he said, "but the world is not ready for it."

He said he always had been charitably inclined to the United Nations but, he added, "since the Communists can stop any peace movement, the United Nations becomes more ineffective."

Speaking in the home town of the leader of the militantly conservative John Birch Society Friday night, Goldwater said he did not know of one member of that group who is in the White House.

But, he added, "The Americans for Democratic Action, who talk about peaceful coexistence, are in the White House close to the President. There are 31 members of the ADA there."

"I am not worried about the extreme right wing in our country," Goldwater said. "They are not in government in Washington. I am worried about the extremists to the left who are in government."

Belmont is the hometown of Robert Welch, founder and head of the John Birch Society, which has headquarters here.

When asked if he would accept support from the John Birch Society, he said: "I would accept political support."

County Sees Safer Driving

Columbiana County drivers rate a pat on the back for safer driving in 1961, according to a summary of Ohio Highway Patrol activities for the year.

The number of traffic deaths not only dropped from 26 in 1960 to 19 last year, there were fewer injury accidents — 216 compared to 226 in 1960 — and fewer people hurt — 372 to 385, the Lisbon post reported.

Arrests amounted to 2,907, compared to 3,221 the previous year, and warnings issued totaled 6,728, down from the 7,005 of 1960. Total accidents were 729 — 60 less than the year before.

The arrests included 2,011 in traffic — of which 483 were made at the scene of accidents; 401 misdeameanors such as license or registration violations and 12 felony arrests.

The unit handled 155 special details, gave 95 safety talks, recovered $4,376 in stolen property and made 415 PUCO inspections.

Three aircraft accidents were investigated. A total of 214 cases of providing assistance was logged, and $1,253 collected in registration fees.

Music Firm Cited In Supermarket Case

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Hudix Music Co. of Youngstown has been temporarily restrained from sending background music to outlets of Kroger and Loblaw grocery chains in the Wooster and Cleveland areas.

Mahoning County Common Plea Judge John W. Ford issued the order Friday on a complaint by Musaire, Inc., of Wooster. David B. Denison, Musaire president, charged Hudix appropriated and sold its background music to the supermarket outlets.

Judge Ford set April 16 for a hearing on a permanent restraining order. He issued a permanent restraining order against Hudix in November 1960, on a complaint by Ohio Music Corp. of Cleveland. Ohio Music also had charged Hudix with piracy of the air waves.

Prizes Presented 6 In Legion Essay Event

EAST PALESTINE — Six high school students were awarded prizes for essays in the annual American Legion contest, it was announced at a meeting of Post 31 Thursday night.

Winners include Georgia Sutherin, Galen Black, Virginia Charlton, Janice Ulbrich, Marilyn Lipp and Loretta Noel. Their entries will be submitted in the county-wide contest.

Mahoning Unit Backs Lake-To-River Canal

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning County Planning Commission has announced support of proposed construction of a Lake Erie-to-Ohio River canal. Wheeling, W. Va. city officials meanwhile announced formal opposition to the canal.

YOU ARE THERE . . . inside the Mercury Space Capsule, atop the Redstone Booster Rocket. You give your instruments a last-moment check. All O.K. You're tense, in your air-conditioned space suit. Through helmet earphones you hear the countdown: "Five . . . four . . . three . . . two . . . one . . . LIFT OFF!"

As the Redstone zooms up, crushing "G" forces press against your body. Now you begin flashing reports back to earth. "Pressure and oxygen A.O.K." . . . "Power off." . . . "Escape tower jettisoned." . . . "Capsule separating from booster." . . . "Switching to manual controls." . . . "Periscope out. Beautiful sight!" . . . "Retro-rockets fired." . . . "Approaching re-entry, heat shield A.O.K." . . . "8, 9, 10 G's!" . . . "ALL CLEAR, have helicopters stand by for pickup!"

Thanks to the exciting new Science Program, YOU can share in these thrilling adventures of America's first ASTRONAUTS. Now YOU can explore the amazing age of MAN IN SPACE!

For only 10¢ you get the fascinating "Man in Space" sample Activity Kit — and, as a special introductory gift with your Sample Kit, you ALSO receive a Revell scale model of the Mercury Space Capsule and Redstone Rocket, complete with accessories. You learn all about the problems facing America's spacemen: weightlessness . . . breathing . . . food . . . clothing . . . cosmic radiation. ALMOST LIKE BEING AN ASTRONAUT YOURSELF!

Enjoy Monthly Adventures Like These

Each month this new program will take you on a "guided tour" of a different field of science. One month you will see earth and sky through the eyes of the weather man. Another time a chemist will show you metal that burns and gas that pours. A biologist will let you look through his microscope at a living cell.

On other adventures your guides will be radio engineers . . . medical-researchers . . . map-makers . . . nuclear physicists.

Giant tracking antennae follow you through space!

What It Will Mean to Your Family

Think what these adventures will mean to your family — especially if you have children in school! It will stimulate them to participate in science projects. It will help prepare them for life in the space age—may even lead to a scientific career.

MAIL COUPON with only 10¢ for the Introductory Package (including sample Activity Kit and, as your special introductory gift, the complete space capsule model). With it we will also send the current Activity Kit for which you will be billed only $1, plus shipping. No further obligation. If you do not wish to continue, simply write us within 10 days. Otherwise, you pay only $1 (plus shipping) for each month's scientific adventure. You may cancel at any time. To get your Introductory Package, send the coupon now, with only 10¢, to: SCIENCE PROGRAM, Dept. 2-FWA-1, Garden City, N.Y.

How to Help Your Children Bowl Better

By DON CARTER as told to Jack Ryan

Don Carter, a big-league bowler since 1952, has won every important bowling title, including the 1961 world invitational match championship. He was named Bowler of the Year in 1953, 1954, 1957, 1958, and 1960. His wife LaVerne is one of the country's leading woman bowlers.

KAREN, my 11-year-old daughter, was supposed to be doing some homework last week, but when I walked into the recreation room of our St. Louis home there she was, steam iron in hand, carefully measuring her bowling approach across the linoleum floor.

I never interrupt a bowler moving to the foul line, so I watched Karen take her four steps just right and swing the iron in a natural arc. No wrist twist this time, I thought happily, but from behind me I heard my wife LaVerne call:

"The follow-through! The follow-through! Reach out after you let loose, as if you're picking something out of the air. That way your ball won't fade away."

Karen nodded without taking her eyes off her "alley," and LaVerne added: "But first the books, young lady, then the bowling."

LaVerne and I are very proud of the way Karen's bowling is coming along. And our son Jimmy, only seven, has already picked up the measured walk to the foul line and that all-important swing—minus the iron, of course.

Karen bowls in a Saturday league and averages 95. I told that to some fans at an exhibition not long ago, and one man seemed surprised. "I thought the daughter of two championship bowlers would hit higher than that. I'm teaching my kid, and he's going to break 100 this year."

That brings me around to kids, parents, and bowling—a combination which in the past decade has brought active recreation into many families for the first time since croquet flourished. And speaking from experience, I think many parents, in trying to help, actually hamper their children's development as bowlers. For instance, the level, polished lanes of today don't require rocketing a ball. Bowling is a matter of striking the point of a triangle at the precise spot where the pins, as well as the ball, work for you.

Yet I've heard a parent advise: "Take a lighter ball, Son, and get more speed." The boy then throws a cannonball—but without any control.

Parents can do many things to help their children enjoy the fun and satisfaction of good bowling, but one thing I think they should avoid is trying to teach fundamentals. Accredited instructors are more objective in judgment and more attuned to the natural foibles of the young bowler. Just as important—they're patient.

FAMILY BOWLING should be fun: too often, with parents as teachers, it becomes like so much more homework. And too often parents become like that father I mentioned earlier—average-conscious. The young bowler should concentrate on fun and fundamentals, not "breaking 100."

Competent bowling instruction for your children needn't cost you anything. For example, I'm an adviser in a program called "Learn to Bowl," which offers free introductory instruction to 350,000 youngsters every year. Since World War II, many high schools have made bowling part of their physical-education curriculum.

Once your boy or girl is on the right path, don't introduce him to any self-devised tricks. Instead, see that he keeps the fundamentals pure.

First, observe that he selects the right ball. If it's too light, he'll tend to fling rather than roll the ball. If it's too heavy, the ball will drop.

Watch a youngster's tendency to rush his approach. He should take short steps, with weight on toes. Have him count his steps and think about what he's doing.

Children tend to forget the follow-through. Remind them to keep arm and shoulder relaxed to free the swing and increase momentum.

LARGE HOOKS hold a fascination for kids—and they ruin their games. A hook comes from twisting the wrist. Tell them to keep their arm close to the body throughout the swing and bring the hand up as if offering a handshake.

Slow balls bother the beginner, too, but he can lay on more speed without losing control by keeping shoulders relaxed and giving the ball more backswing. You might suggest increasing momentum by adding an extra step in the delivery. But don't emphasize speed; encourage timing.

There are countless things you'll want to watch in a youngster, but in doing so don't forget to praise what he's doing right. This builds confidence and prevents him from developing bad habits in areas he is mastering. At home, take a lesson from our Karen and practice with an iron on the basics until they become second nature.

Like most parents who help develop their children's bowling skills, LaVerne and I get a big kick out of it. And I'll also recommend it as a fine way to improve your own game. It's amazing what you can learn by going back to the basics with your kids. What's more, it will help you keep ahead of them—for a couple more years, anyway.

Bob and Bing and their two families took an unusual test in togetherness—and passed with flying colors

By C. GREGORY JENSEN

THE BEST WAY to lose your friends, it's said, is to share a house with them.

But don't ever tell that to Bing Crosby and Bob Hope.

The Hope and Crosby families—up to nine of them at once—have just been sharing one house. Both families moved into a stately English country house and enjoyed three months of togetherness.

The famous Hope-Crosby friendship more than survived this experiment in peaceful coexistence. The two families actually came out of it closer friends.

Hope, of course, claims he had misgivings at the start. "I was a bit embarrassed at the thought I might have to see all of Crosby's dainty things hanging on the line," Bob says. "But it wasn't so bad. All that green lace edging turned out to be money that had slipped."

Bob and Bing went to England to make "The Road to Hong Kong." It's the seventh in the famous series of "Road" films which first brought "The Boys" together 21 years ago.

Finding English housing was a bit of a problem. The Hopes finally discovered Cranbourne Court, a magnificent mansion with only one drawback: it rented for $1,120 a week! At this point, Bing suggested a merger of the House of Crosby and the House of Hope.

Cranbourne Court is an elegant, rambling country house set among 25 acres of leafy gardens near Winkfield Row, some 30 miles from London. It has 12 bedrooms and six baths, plus a baronial entrance hall with a minstrels' gallery, a library, a large drawing room, and a picture gallery.

THE HOPES AND CROSBYS pretty well filled the house. Bing and Kathy Crosby brought along Harry Jr., three, and a nurse. Bob and Dolores Hope brought son Kelly, 16, daughter Nora, 15, a masseur, and a house manager. Hope's other children, Linda, 22, and Tony, 21, popped in for a few weeks.

Everyone ate together around one table. Bing or Mrs. Hope said grace for both families. On many evenings, everyone gathered around the television set; or they talked, as Bing said, "about golf scores and baseball averages and mutual friends." On Sundays they went to church together.

This joint-family living is one reason the Hope-Crosby friendship grew and deepened. Another is that the two families discovered new things to share.

For instance, Bob and Bing spotted a croquet lawn on the grounds. Soon everyone but Harry Jr. was swinging a mallet.

"We had to rent the balls from Harry, though," Hope said. "He threw them all in the bushes, and he was the only one who knew where they were."

The excitement of new places also gave the two families something fresh to share. Dolores Hope and Kathy Crosby, who was expecting her third child (since christened Nathaniel Patrick) made a long visit to Florence, Italy, and a short one to Paris. Bing hopped over to Ireland one weekend and down to the French Riviera another.

However, these new activities never interfered with the serious business of golf. Bing and Bob rented Cranbourne Court because it passed the supreme test: there were two golf courses nearby.

Even when there wasn't time to visit one of the courses, the boys still could "get some tapping done." Cranbourne's top terrace is just right for making four-iron shots, and they used it often.

"That's the reason I let Bing share the house," Bob says. "It was nice to have somebody to shag golf balls."

OF COURSE, the film provided the most laughs. For "The Road to Hong Kong" is an Oriental movie set partly in outer space. "They found the plot in a fortune cookie," Hope explains.

Nine years have passed since the pair last followed an equally twisted "Road." Hope says the reason is that, since he's 58 and Bing is 57, "we had to find a road that was downhill."

There were elements in the share-the-house plan which might have caused severe frictions in a less good-natured bunch. Take money. With three Crosbys and six Hopes, how do you apportion the expenses of a $1,120-a-week house and its staff of six servants?

"We split everything down the middle," says Bob. "Even the telephone bill—which got a bit tricky. When Crosby phoned Alaska, I had to match him with a call to Australia or someplace."

Harry Jr. might have been a problem, too. Not everyone would relish having a lively, vocal three-year-old under foot. "But we all loved him," says Mrs. Hope. "He was a dream."

Another sore spot might have been the old problem of two women running the same house. But between Dolores and Kathy there was only admiration.

There was one other reason why these two talented, individualistic families combined so well. "Bob and Bing are both deeply religious men," says Mrs. Hope, "although they don't talk about it much."

"It has been a very peaceful experience," says Bob. "That's an admission of something, saying it's peaceful living with Crosby. Senility, I guess!"

When childhood constipation occurs

Because

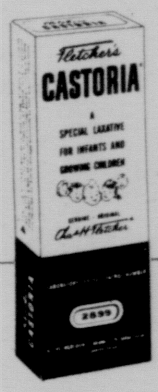
Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances . . . the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.



It takes a child's laxative to fulfill a child's needs

Harry Jr. might have been a problem, too. Not everyone would relish having a lively, vocal three-year-old under foot. "But we all loved him," says Mrs. Hope. "He was a dream."

Another sore spot might have been the old problem of two women running the same house. But between Dolores and Kathy there was only admiration.

There was one other reason why these two talented, individualistic families combined so well. "Bob and Bing are both deeply religious men," says Mrs. Hope, "although they don't talk about it much."

"It has been a very peaceful experience," says Bob. "That's an admission of something, saying it's peaceful living with Crosby. Senility, I guess!"

When childhood constipation occurs

Because

Fletcher's Castoria gives the prompt, yet natural-like relief from temporary constipation that medical authorities agree is best for a child's young system. Its pure extract of Senna is considered one of nature's finest vegetable laxative products.

Fletcher's Castoria is gentle, the prime requisite for a child's laxative. It contains none of the harsh drugs so often found in adult laxatives, drugs that can upset your child's system.

Fletcher's Castoria is liquid, so exact dosage is sure: from drops to teaspoonfuls as needed. Very important, too, Castoria tastes good. So children take it willingly, even lick the spoon.

Fletcher's Castoria is the only nationally-recognized laxative made especially for children of all ages. So why take chances . . . the laxative that's "right" for you can well be "wrong" for your child. Get famous Fletcher's Castoria today.

It takes a child's laxative to fulfill a child's needs

Rockets to carry the moon's riches to earth may look like this. Unmanned transport is guided electronically to land in ocean for recovery.

Why

An expert spells out the reasons, which include vast riches, a greater knowledge of the universe, and possibly even peace on our own planet

By HUGO GERNSBACK

ON MAY 25, 1961, President Kennedy proposed that the country—at a cost of $20 billion—send a man to the moon and back by 1970. Despite this, the average American is still highly skeptical that we will ever set foot on our natural satellite which is 238,000 miles distant.

Last September when one of the five finalists in the Miss America contest was asked when she thought we would land on the moon, she told millions of TV listeners: "We will never get there! We were born here, and I think God wants us to stay on this planet!"

If a young woman of more than average intelligence can express such a negative opinion, despite the positive assurance of scientists from every part of the world as well as our own National Aeronautics and Space Administration, we should not be too surprised that the man in the street puts little credence in our ever reaching the moon. Besides, the average person asks, why spend billions on such a "harebrained" project?

Our better-informed citizens know that the Russians landed a space missile, Lunik II, on the moon in September, 1959, and that in October, 1959, they sent up Lunik III, which circumnavigated the moon and photographed and televised the rear side of it. Yet even these people still believe that the U. S. moon project is only a propaganda effort to match the Soviets.

There are, however, many compelling, practical reasons for conquering the moon, which most people fail to grasp.

Even the voyages of Columbus, leading to the discovery, exploration, and exploitation of the New World, pale when we compare them with the opening up of the moon—a real new world more than one-quarter as large as the earth.

Let us now consider some of the most important reasons why the earth's inhabitants must soon conquer our nearest neighbor in space:

1. The moon is the first natural stepping stone to general exploration of our solar system. Once we gain the moon, it will be comparatively simple to explore the other planets.

The reason that our natural satellite makes an almost ideal way station is that its gravity is only one-sixth that of the earth. Hence, a 150-pound man weighs only 26 pounds on the moon, and a 1,000-ton spaceship weighs only a little more than 166 tons. Therefore, to launch it toward Venus or Mars will require only 1-20th as much energy or fuel as if launched from earth.

THERE ARE CLASSES in poetry appreciation and music appreciation and art appreciation.

There ought to be classes in people appreciation.

We learn how to read poetry, how to interpret the meaning. We learn how to distinguish between a bassoon and an oboe by sight and sound. We learn to enjoy both Corot and Pollack.

How do we learn to interpret, distinguish, and enjoy human beings?

Some of us become wonderful critics of literature, concerts, and exhibits. We develop good taste in all the facets of a gourmet's world.

We find no special charm in a wondering child, an old man, a housewife. We see nothing beyond faces, and we have never learned to make the effort. No A's are given for understanding, no degrees for tolerance, and no plaudits for the attempt at either.

WE ARE universally permitted to congratulate ourselves and one another for our exquisite delicacies of refinement, but who is there to care that a woman sacrifices for her children or a man sits down with a stranger and gives him a share of his own courage?

Surely it cannot be necessary to be an eccentric to cherish those things about others which are meaningful and more than the physical self. Man is a strange creation, as reflective and brilliantly turned as a diamond. Often he elicits scorn and merits it. Often he struggles and fails. Symbolically, he dies at our feet each day and we step across him in our indifference. Symbolically, he is interred each hour in the potter's field of our ennui.

We abandon ourselves to Shakespeare or Toscanini or Michelangelo, yet all these are surely reflections of man in his majesty and in his expression of himself.

In loving poetry, great music, and the beauty of the brush, there is yet room in every heart to love mankind.

$199 PER HALF ACRE $5 DOWN $5 PER MONTH

There is a broad ribbon of highway that begins in the heart of Savannah, Georgia and winds for 3000 miles to its terminus in exciting Los Angeles. This ribbon is mighty Route 80 – the most travelled all-weather highway in the U.S. Millions of Americans have followed it to the West, coursing through the rich hills of Georgia and Alabama, passing through the heart of Mississippi and Louisiana and entering into the plains of Texas. Gradually the scenery begins to change. Texas begins to roll; distant hills become higher. Then suddenly one emerges into "The Land of Enchantment." New Mexico's wonders erupt in a blaze of color and majesty. The mighty mountains thrust themselves, tree-topped, into the unimaginable blue of the sky. Dust and smoke have vanished from the air and the lungs drink in great delicious draughts in heady delight. If it is wintertime snow may cap the lofty mountains. If it is spring or summer or fall the unspoiled air touches the skin softly and the feeling of well-being is nowhere else equalled. But winter or summer, it is almost certain the sun will be shining in New Mexico–one of the sunniest, healthiest of all 50. Yet great 80 is just beginning to take you through the sunshine wonderland of America. In the tropical southwestern pocket of our country you glide through towns like Las Cruces and Deming. A short while westward and you are in Tucson and Phoenix, Arizona, and from there the West Coast beckons. But nowhere in this enchanting Southwest is there a more beautiful area than the mountain-rimmed, pure-aired New Mexico region of Las Cruces and Deming.

To live anywhere in New Mexico is to live better. The superb climate, naturally air-conditioned in the summer and brilliantly sunny in the winter – the breathtaking beauty of a lavish Nature – the young vigor of a state that is causing an unprecedented business and investment boom – the record which shows that one lives longer, that health improvement is almost miraculous – these are the reasons that tens of thousands of Americans already have come here to live, and hundreds of thousands of others will be following in the immediate years ahead.

Consider then: Here in the center of this miraculous climate and beauty are towns which have grown amazingly in the last 10 years. Las Cruces, for example: In 1950 it had 12,000 people. By 1960, 37,000 . . . a rise of 300% in 10 years! (How about your town? Has it grown 3 times its size in 10 years?) Like Tucson and Phoenix, this area is a beautiful semi-tropical paradise where palm trees and long staple cotton-fields flower the landscape. Statistics show the same 85% of possible sunshine, summer and winter; these same figures reveal even purer, drier air than in Phoenix or Tucson.

Ten minutes from the flavorful city of Deming (population 8,000) is a 5,000 acre Ranch, picture-framed by the breathtaking Florida Mountains. So real, so beautiful, so typically the romance of the Southwest is this valley Ranch that it has been photographed for the covers of many magazines including the official publication of the State of New Mexico. What better way to describe its Southwestern flavor than to tell you that when the producers of the movie THE TALL TEXAN sought an authentic locale for their picture, they chose the very land we are now sub-dividing into the DEMING RANCHETTES. THE TALL TEXAN was filmed on our ranch, the same place where you may have a Ranchette of your very own!

This is the lovely basin of land where heavy equipment is now at work constructing wide roads facing every DEMING RANCHETTE. Every Ranchette will have direct access to avenues leading to three major highways surrounding our property – U.S. Highways 80, 70 and State Highway 11.

DEMING RANCHETTES is blessed with water which is called "America's finest drinking water, 99.99% pure." This delicious water comes from individually dug wells. Home building has already begun in DEMING RANCHETTES and electric lines and telephone connections await you. Schools, hospitals, churches, shops, theaters, golf course, tennis courts–these are close by in the charming growing city of Deming. Fertile soil is yours for the planting, and wait until you see the stunning landscape of cotton fields in bloom. Fruit trees . . . apple, peach, pear and plum . . . do not grow better anywhere.

And the price of your Ranchette? Just $199 complete for a half-acre, $5 down and $5 monthly. That's the complete price – no extras, no interest, no taxes! At this moment you may reserve as many half-acre sites as you wish but please bear this in mind: DEMING RANCHETTES is not an enormous development and land such as this goes fast. At these prices you may want your Ranchette to be larger – one, two – even five acres. An immediate deposit will guarantee that your half-acres will adjoin each other (this may not be so in the near future). And you take no risk in sending your deposit. Your $5 per half-acre will definitely reserve your land but does not obligate you. You have the unqualified right to change your mind 30 days after we send you your Purchaser's Agreement, Property Owner's Kit, Maps and Photographs – 30 full days to go through the portfolio, check our references, talk it over with the family. If, during that time, you should indeed change your mind your reservation deposit will be instantly refunded. (Deming and Albuquerque Bank references.)

Ten years ago, in nearby Las Cruces, a comparable fertile half-acre such as we offer in DEMING RANCHETTES could have been bought for $199. Today it's up to $2000! Experienced realtors predict the same future for Deming – in a much shorter time! If this makes sense to you your next act is mailing the coupon below. And one more thing: we promise that no salesman will annoy you. Thanks, sincerely, for your attention.

Go to the Moon?

True, it is possible to build a so-called space platform which could gravitate as an artificial satellite around our earth, say, 500 miles up. Such a launching platform has been discussed since 1928 by its originator, German space pioneer Herrmann Oberth of V-1 and V-2 rocket fame. Recently, James E. Webb, head of NASA, revived the possibility of such a platform, to cost more than $35 billion—an estimate which other Administration officials consider too low. For this and other reasons, it is believed that in the long run a lunar station might prove more practical.

2. In comparison with the earth, the moon is far richer in all the precious and strategically valuable metals. It seems reasonably certain that all the ores and metals existing on earth are also present on the moon. Yet on earth it is often impractical to mine precious metals at great depths because of the high costs. On the moon you can dig six times deeper due to its low gravity.

Living and Working Underground

Then, too, on account of the vast lunar caves created by thousands of dead volcanoes, mining becomes comparatively simple, similar to surface mining. Although the moon has no atmosphere and is in fact immersed in an almost perfect vacuum, it would be feasible nevertheless to do most lunar work below its surface. The huge caves can be made airtight, air-pressurized, and air-conditioned for all living quarters, offices, and even the mines. Thus, space suits won't be necessary.

The precious ores of gold, platinum, silver, mercury, palladium, beryllium, and dozens of others, can be processed in special surface smelters to extract the metals. Shipping ores to the earth would be impractical due to the great weight. Hence the necessity for moon smelters.

All metals may then be shipped by special electronically guided rocket transports to earth. These almost-round ball-shaped transports are airtight and watertight. Unmanned, they are directed into assigned areas in the earth's oceans. Being airtight, they float and can be easily recovered. The trip will last less than two days.

Diamonds and other precious stones may abound in the deep lunar volcanic caves and fissures. They are, of course, small in bulk and thousands weigh very little. These may be shipped home by manned spaceships.

3. Man in his search for knowledge must go to the moon. On earth, because of our dense atmosphere, astronomers can see the universe only imperfectly. It is as if they were on the bottom of a deep lake. Fog, smog, clouds, rain, and lights from nearby cities rob astronomers of more than 60 percent of their observation time.

On the moon, where all the important observatories of the future will be located, conditions are ideal. With never a cloud or fog or mist, our knowledge of the universe will be enhanced a thousandfold. So will be one of our newest research tools—radioastronomy—and practically all branches of science.

4. Those who have experienced hurricanes understand only too well that we know next to nothing about these terrible scourges. Special meteorological observatories of the future, located on the moon, will observe 24 hours a day and indicate exactly when and where hurricanes are born. That is the only chance we have to do something to divert or split them up.

We already have the means to do something about hurricanes, but, unfortunately, it is usually too late when we get our information. On the moon, where the oceans of the earth are spread out like a map, we could actually witness the birth of every storm. The proper earth station could be alerted by radio within minutes.

5. The moon is apparently not a completely dead world, as we have thought for centuries. A British astronomer, V. A. Firsoff, recently stated that "the difference of shade and color between neighboring areas on parts of the moon look suspiciously like living growth of some kind." Another scientist, Patrick Moore, believes that the colored bands that appear around certain crater walls may be vegetation of some sort. It could perhaps originate along cracks in the lunar crust from which life-sustaining vapors from the interior of the moon may issue.

Other astronomers agree with these findings because they know that for billions of years meteorites colliding with the moon and porous dust from the now-extinct lunar volcanoes have blanketed many parts of the moon. This protective blanket is also an excellent insulator against heat and cold. Astronomers think, therefore, that a few feet below the surface of the dust blanket the temperature may be mild and constant. This would induce certain hardy plants to grow.

Settling the Moon

How will the great powers "colonize" and divide the moon among themselves? Wherever man went on our planet, he conquered other countries to settle his own people.

On the moon this is impossible, for the land is barren and manless.

Because the word "colony" derives from the Latin colonus—farmer—the term becomes ludicrous on the moon, where there will be hardly any farming, with perhaps the exception of future hothouse cultivation. A better word would be "selenization" (selene being Greek for moon).

How do we selenize the moon? Nations which send their citizens to become temporary moon workers may be entitled to slices of the moon in proportion to the number they send. The term "slice" is used advisedly because lunar real estate should not be measured only by the surface but by the depth, too. Take an orange, peel it, and remove the wedge-shaped slices. This gives an example of how to divide the moon, with slices that run from pole to pole, from the center of the moon to the surface. In this manner, each nation can exploit its entire slice without encroaching on anyone else's territory.

Some Fringe Benefits

All workers on—or rather inside—the moon will probably work six-hour shifts underground. With certain few exceptions, they cannot work on the surface. The work in the caves will be strenuous and not too pleasant. Hence, after a few days the workers must be replaced.

They may then go to a lunar surface hotel for rest and leisure. But such hotels, like the moon itself, will be immersed in a deadly vacuum. These structures must be airtight and fully air-conditioned to withstand the terrific moon heat that often reaches 200°F.

Lunar daylight lasts 14¾ earth days; the night brings a temperature of minus 250°F. It, too, lasts 14¾ earth days; thus one lunar "day" lasts 29½ earth days. This makes for a strenuous life, more so because few—even the hardiest—will wish to go outside in a space suit.

You don't walk around just for fun on the moon even if you have a space suit, just as you would not walk for relaxation on the bottom of the ocean. Moon explorers may walk about the surface for one or two hours but not much longer. You can't eat or drink in a space suit, and you must carry your own oxygen tank, which cannot be too large or it becomes too cumbersome.

Hence, moon workers will not stay on the moon for long at one time—one year at the very most. Then they will want to return to the earth.

Exploring and selenizing the moon will keep the earth's nations busy for hundreds of years. Nor will the various nations war with each other on the moon. Its deadly vacuum, its harsh and debilitating climate, and its rugged surface will discourage warfare.

Indeed, the moon may yet prove to be a vital factor in encouraging peace among the nations of the earth.

GETTING UP NIGHTS MAKE YOU FEEL OLD?

Or Cause Secondary Backache & Nerve Tension

Are you one of the hundreds of thousands of sufferers who feel old, tired, worn out and depressed by losing sleep and worrying about getting up nights, due to common irritation of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages? Does this condition cause frequent, urgent and painful daytime passages and sometimes result in Backache? If so, you owe it to yourself to try NEW IMPROVED CYSTEX at once.

OTHER SYMPTOMS

OLD, TIRED, WORN OUT FEELING MAY RESULT

If frequent urination worries you, and hits you at the most embarrassing moments, you're bound to feel tense and nervous. Then if your sleep is disturbed by getting up nights and you can't get much rest and you wake up feeling tired and groggy—yes, you really begin to feel old. And if your back aches you feel grouchy—hard to get along with—and your work is a burden.

CAUSE OF IRRITATION

The cause of common Kidney and Bladder Irritation frequently arises from a germ called the colon bacillus, and non-specific germs resulting from colds, bad teeth and other causes. These germs can set up so much irritation in the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages that nature sends a warning through your nerves to your brain that help is needed. Heed this warning now and you may easily avoid many anxious, worrisome hours and days.

HOW CYSTEX HELPS

NEW IMPROVED CYSTEX releases a gentle, soothing bacteriostat in acid urine to combat germs which may be causing irritation. This is like a gentle, mildly antiseptic, soothing bath for the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Passages. CYSTEX also contains two of the very best known analgesics for soothing, gentle pain relief of the discomforts due to common Kidney and Bladder Irritations. Thousands have been amazed to discover how quickly CYSTEX helped them to combat such irritations thus feel cleansed and refreshed, and because of lessened nerve tension able to sleep better and feel better, and stronger.

So get CYSTEX from your druggist today. Fresh up and cheer up and feel better fast.

3. What business would you advise a small man to engage in?

Time Flies By Evelyn Pickering

This is a game that is fun to play any time. Two balloons of different colors are needed. Seat the players in a circle. One balloon is marked "Time" and is passed around the circle or tossed about. One player is chosen to be IT and goes to the center of the circle. He takes another balloon and tries to catch up with "Time" by hitting it with his balloon. When he succeeds in doing so, the person touching "Time" at that moment becomes IT. If a balloon bursts, the last one to touch it automatically becomes IT. If no balloons are around, two stuffed cloth bags or even a couple of old cushions can be used.

BEST KIND OF CARE FOR THE BEST KIND OF CARS AND TRUCKS!

Skil-a-bobs

TO PREPARE AND COOK: ABOUT 1 HR.

1 lb. boneless sirloin, cut in 1½-in. cubes
½ cup red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 clove garlic, minced
⅛ teaspoon marjoram, crushed
⅛ teaspoon rosemary, crushed
⅛ teaspoon thyme, crushed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
12 1-in. green pepper squares
6 large mushroom caps
12 cooked small onions
1 10½-oz. can condensed tomato soup
¼ cup water

1. Pour a mixture of the vinegar and next five ingredients over meat in a shallow dish; cover and set aside to marinate 1 hr., turning meat occasionally.

2. Drain meat and reserve marinade. Heat butter in a large skillet. Add meat and brown evenly on all sides.

3. On six skewers, alternate meat cubes, green pepper squares, mushrooms, and cooked onions. (See photo.)

4. Place kabobs in skillet. Stir the tomato soup and water into the reserved marinade and pour over kabobs.

5. Cover skillet and cook over low heat about 30 min., turning kabobs occasionally.

6. Serve on warm buns. 6 servings

Although I love the premiums,
I will not be a slave
To any supermarket
For the stamps I want to save.

I trade with Mogul's, Niggley's,
Or the Hey-and-Gee,
According to the specials
That appeal to me
For serving up our budget
To the mouths it has to feed.

And then I trade with Dottie,
Jean, or Anne Marie,
According to who'll trade me
The color that I need.

The man coyly sneaked up behind the familiar-looking woman waiting at the street corner and gave her a quick kiss. When she turned around angrily, he was dismayed to see that she was a stranger.

"I apologize," he stammered. "I thought you were my wife!"

"Your wife!" shouted the woman. "Me? Wife to a stupid, bumbling idiot like you?"

"There, you see?" the man exclaimed. "You even talk like her!"

—John Shotwell

The little boy had come down to the docks to greet his big brother returning from overseas duty. In the milling confusion, the parents couldn't see their favorite soldier, but the youngster somehow managed to pick him out.

"There he is," the boy shouted, pointing up at the huge transport.

"Where?" demanded his father.

The youngster pointed to a porthole in the ship. "Up there," he said, "with the boat around his neck."

"Father, this is Joey—and two character witnesses."

A wealthy sportsman was showing off the trophies he had brought from Africa. Pointing to a tiger-skin rug, he told his guests in hushed tones, "When this beast charged, it was a case of him or me!"

One of the guests peered at the tiger skin and then at the host. "Well," he said, "he sure does make a better rug."

Family Weekly Cookbook • MELANIE DE PROFT, Food Editor

Blind Date Cupcakes

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN. TO BAKE: 16-18 MIN.

- 18 pitted dates
- 9 pecan halves
- 1¾ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter
- 2 tablespoons sweet orange marmalade
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ¾ cup milk

1. Line eighteen 2¾x1½-in. muffin-pan wells with paper baking cups. Set aside.
2. Slit each date; stuff with half of a pecan half.
3. Blend flour, baking powder, and salt together.
4. Cream butter, marmalade, and extract together until butter is softened. Gradually add sugar, creaming until fluffy after each addition.
5. Add eggs in thirds, beating well after each addition. Add dry ingredients in fourths and milk in thirds to the creamed mixture, beating only until smooth after each addition.
6. Spoon batter into baking cups until each is one-third full. Top with a stuffed date and spoon in more batter until each cup is two-thirds full.
7. Bake at 350°F 16 to 18 min., or until a cake tester or wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Set on cooling racks to cool.
8. Frost with butter frosting. 18 cupcakes

Marshmallow Ice Cream

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO FREEZE: ABOUT 3 HRS.

- 20 marshmallows
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 2 tablespoons strawberry jam
- 7 drops red food coloring
- 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped

1. Combine marshmallows and milk in top of double boiler; heat over simmering water until marshmallows are melted, stirring occasionally.
2. Cool; chill until mixture is slightly thickened, stirring frequently.
3. Blend in next three ingredients. Fold in whipped cream.
4. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze until mushy, about 40 min. Turn into a chilled bowl and beat until smooth. Return to tray and freeze until firm. About 1½ pts. ice cream

Lime Snow

TO PREPARE: 20 MIN. TO CHILL: ABOUT 3 HRS.

- 1 3-oz. pkg. lime-flavored gelatin
- ¾ cup very hot water
- 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 egg whites
- ¼ cup sugar

1. Pour hot water over gelatin in a bowl; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in juices.
2. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled over ice and water, stir frequently; if chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally.
3. Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually add sugar, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed. Fold into chilled gelatin mixture.
4. Pile mixture into six sherbet glasses and chill until firm, about 2½ hrs. 6 servings

Dream Bars De Luxe

GOOD FOR FREEZING

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO BAKE: ABOUT 1 HR.

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons confectioners' sugar
- ½ cup butter, melted and cooled
- 2 eggs
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon baking powder
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup walnuts, chopped
- ½ cup flaked coconut

1. Blend together the 1 cup flour and confectioners' sugar. Stir in the melted butter.
2. Press mixture evenly over bottom of an 11x7x1½-in. baking pan.
3. Bake at 350°F 20 to 25 min., or until lightly browned. Set pan aside on cooling rack.
4. Beat eggs and extract until thick and piled softly. Add the brown sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Blend in a mixture of the 2 tablespoons flour, baking powder, and salt. Mix in ½ cup nuts and ¼ cup coconut.
5. Turn onto partially baked dough in pan and spread to corners. Sprinkle evenly with a mixture of the remaining nuts and coconut.
6. Bake at 350°F 40 min. Set on cooling rack and cool completely. Cut into 2¼x1-in. bars. About 3 doz. cookies

TO PREPARE: 35 MIN.

- 6 medium-sized potatoes, cooked and sliced
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 4 slices bacon, diced
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- 1¾ teaspoons salt

1. Combine potato slices and chopped eggs in a bowl. Fry bacon and onion together until delicately browned. Strain, reserving bacon fat.
2. Add onion and bacon to the potato mixture; toss lightly. Add bacon fat slowly to beaten egg, beating well. Blend in vinegar and salt.
3. Pour dressing over potato mixture, mixing lightly to blend well. Serve hot. 6 servings
